Latest on Candidates.

By Direct Telephone to THE TIMES at 2:15 A. M. Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1, 10:15 P. M. (2:15 A. M., Friday, New York time)—The McAdoo workers are saying tonight that if their candidate does not get the nomination, the convention must take Bainbridge Colby.

They insist that the candidate must be a man who is supported by the Wilson Administration, and they say that Secretary Colby is the only man who fills the bill.

Lines of Battle Closely Drawn.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—As the Democratic Convention met in session tonight, in the hope of disposing of troublesome problems over the party platform so that it might begin balloting on the selection of a Presidential nominee tomorrow, the situation over candidates for the nomination entered its last phase prior to the acid test of the ballot.

The lines of the contending forces are hard set and little change is likely. McAdoo, Cox and Palmer, the leading aspirants, have attained their preliminary full strength, and the manoeuvrings of their managers are not likely to cause material gains or losses.

McAdoo is conceded to be in the strongest position of the three. Cox is stronger than McAdoo in the number of votes he can now command, many of which will not go to him until after the first ballot.

Palmer has considerable initial strength, but he has not made any notable accessions, and the feeling is general that his support will begin to fade away after the second, and perhaps after the first, ballot.

The Cox and Palmer forces are bound together by a thin understanding that they shall remain united for the common object of preventing the nomination of McAdoo. Veteran political observers look upon this combination as their weakness. It is pointed out that the object of the Cox-Palmer combination is to accomplish something negative, whereas the McAdoo following is amalgamated by the positive purpose of naming a particular man as the candidate. Apparently the Cox and Palmer managers have lost delegates because they devoted themselves too much to seeking to kill off McAdoo instead of working each in the interest of getting votes for Cox or Palmer.

Thus, while the Cox and Palmer managers are discussing ways and means of defeating McAdoo and wasting time at it, the McAdoo organization retains its unity. It presents a concrete nucleus of delegates who find in McAdoo somebody around whom to rally.

Neutral or uninstructed delegations, and delegations instructed for favorite sons, whose chances of obtaining the nomination are not taken seriously, are approached by the Palmer and Cox managers with importunities to join the movement to prevent McAdoo from getting the prize. The McAdoo managers seek votes on the proposition that they have a candidate and want support for him.

Cox Is McAdoo's Chief Rival.

This convention is composed largely of delegates who are politicians in the accepted interpretation of that term. They have the natural desire of politicians to ride in the band wagon. They see McAdoo gaining strength and are impressed. They see Cox and Palmer, through their managers, trying to induce the uncertain delegates to agree that McAdoo shall not be nominated, and are not impressed.

McAdoo's workers present to them a chance to vote for somebody who seems to be going ahead. The Cox and Palmer workers confuse them by telling them that the way to defeat McAdoo is for the Cox and Palmer supporters to maintain a united front. But why defeat McAdoo? ask the uncertain ones. Is he so strong that his two chief rivals have to join forces in order to keep the nomination from him?

None of the three leading candidates has nearly enough votes in sight to bring him within the neighborhood of the nomination. If the Cox and Palmer supporters could reach an understanding to support one candidate,

Say Palmer Will Get 278 On First Ballot, McAdoo 247

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—All factions have been canvassing the State delegations today to determine the actual strength of the leading candidates.

The returns do not agree, but the nearest to an impartial estimate obtainable shows that on the first ballot the strength of Palmer will be about 278, with McAdoo following with 247 and Cox in third place with 160.

This leaves 407 delegates scattered among the other eleven candidates placed in nomination.

M'ADOO STILL SILENT AS TO NOMINATION

BUT ED HEWMAN TALKS

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., July 1.—William G. McAdoo declined repeatedly yesterday at his home here and at his office in New York to say whether he would accept the Democratic nomination if offered him. At 9 o'clock last night the maid said to several reporters:

"Everybody has gone to bed."

At 10 o'clock the party went back again to ask the ex-Secretary of the Treasury if he wanted to repeat his withdrawal from the race or indicate that he had reconsidered and would accept after all. When the automobile stopped at the front entrance of the fine, big white Colonial-style building in which Mr. McAdoo and his family are spending the Summer there was a hoarse, puffing sound on the lawn and the village watchman came rushing around as fast as he could carry his considerable weight. The watchman's centre of gravity is set pretty far forward so that running was difficult. After catching his breath he exclaimed:

"You can't ring no bells around here."

The Watchman's Ed Hewman.

This was Ed Hewman, village watchman for years and who now specializes in guarding the McAdoo premises. He proved later to be genial and a valuable guide to important landmarks of the village, but at times he seemed bothered. As soon as he recoverd his breath and rubbed a handkerchief over his bare head he repeated with great emphasis:

"You can't ring no bells around here."

He pointed a warning finger at a piece of shining metal on his vest. It was ascertained later that he had a revolver in his back pocket, but he made no gesture in that direction. When he found his authority was submitted to with the greatest respect he softened, began puffing clouds of smoke from a big pipe and started a friendly conversation, in which he communicated the fact there was nobody on the premises that took the slightest interest in the Democratic nomination and that they could not be disturbed on any account.

"Why," he said, "they've all been to bed half an hour or more."

A ringing peal of laughter came from the house, whose windows illuminated a big tract of smooth lawn which lies before the rose-clad front porch.

Ed May Hire Guards.

"Well, they are getting up a serenade down at the village, in case he is nominated. What will you do if they come up here?"

"There won't be any serenade around here," replied the watchman. "Nobody is interested in the nomination around here. If they try to come, I guess I'll have to hire a couple of Polacks and arm them with rifles to keep them off."

The watchman stood in front of the house of slumber and watched with a narrow eye until the automobile was well under way.

Early this morning, before Mr. McAdoo left home, a group of reporters called at the house and handed the following note to the maid:

"Dr. Jenkins of Kansas City last night placed your name in nomination before the Democratic Convention in San Francisco as its nominee for President. Will you accept the nomination? There are millions of people who await your answer to this question. Now that your name has been officially placed before the convention will you at this time make a statement to the press regarding your stand on prohibition, labor and the Irish question?"

The maid came back smiling a few minutes later and said:

"Mr. McAdoo says that there is no answer."

McAdoo Evades Reporters.

A few minutes later Mr. McAdoo let slip another opportunity to declare himself. The reporters who had sent the unanswered note went to the Huntington station, from which he usually takes the 8:17 train to New York. They had some more questions and were eager to test their effect on the physiognomy of the enigmatic ex-Secretary. He, however, had his chauffeur drive him to Cold Spring Harbor, where he took the train to New York. He received reporters at his office in the morning, but with the ironclad condition that politics should not be discussed. He declined to be seen under any conitions in the afternoon.

COMMITTEE ENDS WORK

LEAGUE PLANK AMENDED

LONG IRISH PLANK FIGHT

Full Recognition Is Rejected for a Plain Declaration of Sympathy.

By Direct Leased Wire to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2, 12:15 A. M. (4:15 A. M., New York Time).—It was learned at 12:10 o'clock this morning that the Resolutions Committee of the Democratic National Convention had voted 30 to 12 to omit any definite statement on prohibition from the party platform.

This ends so far as the committee is concerned the wet and dry fight which proceeded behind closed doors through most of yesterday and all of the night, with William J. Bryan refusing to give up his bone dry plank idea until the last minute.

Prospect of a fight on the floor remains. It is understood that Bryan will be just as aggressive in his fight before the convention as he has been before the committee, while, as has already been announced, Secretary Colby and Senator Glass will uphold the attitude taken by the majority of the committee, and Bourke Cockran is expected to voice the fading hopes of the out-and-out wet sympathizers in the convention.

The committee adjourned soon after midnight and will report the platform to the convention when it meets at 10 o'clock this morning.

Senator Carter Glass, the Chairman, and Mr. Bryan were quickly surrounded by questioners trying to learn the story of the debates which had been in progress so long and had kept the national convention on tenter hooks for nearly twenty-four hours.

"Can I tell them that my dry plank was beaten?" Bryan asked Glass.

"I think you had better not," was the reply.

"Well, then," the Nebraskan said, "I think I won't."

He admitted promptly that there would be a controversy on the floor at the next session of the convention.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—At midnight (4 A. M. New York time) the Resolutions Committee had disposed of all pending proposals on the prohibition issue except the Bryan and Anti-Saloon League proposals. Bryan's plank would declare for rigid enforcement of the Volstead act and close the door absolutely to any modification of its provisions or a change in the alcoholic limitation of one-half of one per cent. The Anti-Saloon League proposal is a mere declaration for rigid enforcement of the Volstead act.

The prospect at this hour was that the committee would reject both proposals, leaving the platform silent on the issue.

Having won in the early fights, it was predicted that the Administration forces would have their way on the wet and dry fight. This fight is so tense that it cannot be settled in the committee, and Bryan will carry it to the convention floor and precipitate the greatest of battles. This contest promises to be so prolonged and bitter that it is doubted whether the convention can complete its work and ballot on President until next week.

Adjournment over Sunday is almost certain unless there should be an unexpected development in the contest over th liquor issue which is now raging.

After nearly twenty-four hours' deliberation, the committee had settled many of its debatable problems, but was in the midst of a bitter fight over the prohibition issue, concerning which the sub-committee of nine had made no recommendation in its tentative report.

Disputed Issues Settled.

The disputed issues which had been settled at 7 o'clock tonight were the following:

League of Nations—The attitude of the President as expressed in the Virginia platform was indorsed by urging ratification of the treaty of peace and the League covenant without reservations impairing their essential integrity, but adding an amendment by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, declaring that the party did not oppose reservations which made more clear and specific America's obligations to allied nations,

Report Anti-McAdoo Coalition Organized with 520 Votes

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—As a result of negotiations which have been in progress since the convention went into session this morning and were concluded before its meeting tonight, anti-McAdoo leaders say they have effected a coalition that will prevent the nomination of the ex-Secretary.

These States are said to be in the anti-McAdoo combine: Georgia, 26 out of 28 delegates; Minnesota, 20; Iowa, 26; West Virginia, 13; Ohio, 48; Kentucky, 22 out of 26; Louisiana, 18 out of 20; New York, most of 90; Pennsylvania, 72 out of 76; Connecticut, 14; Colorado, 12; New Jersey, 28; Oklahoma, 20; Missouri, 26; Indiana, 30; Illinois, 49 out of 58.

The total of votes in the anti-McAdoo combination, according to this estimate, is about 520, of which 414, it is asserted, can be depended upon to hold out against his nomination for five or six ballots.

M'ADOO FOES HOPE TO FORCE DEADLOCK

Palmer and Cox Leaders Trying to Make Combination That Will Stick.

UNABLE TO HOLD NEW YORK

Cummings Joins Davis, Marshall and Clark in Showing Dark Horse Strength.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—As the managers of the various candidates for the Presidential nomination are preparing to take their fight into the convention itself, with a prospect of the final fight tomorrow or Saturday, feeling is running high in the several camps. Predictions are heard in many quarters that there will be a long drawn-out contest resulting in a deadlock.

Forecasts of this character are freely made tonight by leaders identified with the booms for Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, Governor James M. Cox of Ohio and Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey. As far as has been learned, however, the managers of these booms have not yet succeeded in negotiating any hard and fast compact which will bind them together in the common purpose of opposing ex-Secretary McAdoo and blocking his nomination.

Managers of the McAdoo campaign make the definite assertion tonight that, unless some change they cannot now foresee develops before morning, Mr. McAdoo will be nominated not later than the fourth or fifth ballot.

Backers of such booms as those of Ambassador John W. Davis, whose name went before the convention this forenoon amid an impressive demonstration; Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, and ex-Speaker Champ Clark, now regarded as the three dark horses of the convention, will do all in their power to pave the way for a deadlock, out of which, of necessity, their candidates would be the beneficiaries. In the event of a deadlock the chances of Mr Davis and Vice President Marshall are regarded as promising.

Bitter Against "Federal Crowd."

Much bitterness has developed in the Palmer and Cox camps against the "Federal crowd" here working for the nomination of Mr. McAdoo, and which stage dthe great demonstration for him at yesterday's session of the convention. It looks as if they will hold out as long as there is any hope of preventing the nomination of the President's son-in-law, and that when it has been demonstrated that they cannot attain the two-thirds majority necessary to win, they will swing such part of their strength as they can control to one of the dark horses rather than to McAdoo.

Followers of McAdoo on the eve of the balloting claim they will be able to muster at least 350 votes, possibly more, on the first ballot. Neither Mr. Palmer nor Governor Cox, according to the estimate of their own campaign managers, will come quite within a hundred votes of that number. They claim, however, reserve strength which will show itself on succeeding ballots, while, according to their proclaimed belief, the strength of McAdoo will be at its peak with his vote on the first ballot. This is the reverse of the predictions of a few days ago, when McAdoo was not counted as a conspicuous first ballot contender, but was expected to improve later.

The hostile prophecies are warmly disputed in the McAdoo camp. A prominent member of President Wilson's official household who is committed to Mr. McAdoo said this evening that there were from 550 to 600 votes in sight for the former Secretary and that a break for the band wagon early in the balloting would give him the necessary 726 votes to win the nomination.

In a Competitive Race.

Managers of the various entrants in the Presidential race were busy as beavers all the afternoon and into the early evening in an effort to get pledges of support from delegates who are bound to "favorite sons" by the slender Convention Adjourns First Session of the Day to Await Platform Report.

DAY SESSION

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Democratic National Convention devoted the first of its sessions today to hearing four more candidates for the Presidency placed in nomination. These were, in the order named, Senator F. M. Simmons of North Carolina, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Ambassador John W. Davis of West Virginia and Francis Burton Harrison, Governor General of the Philippines.

When the nominating speeches had been finished it was announced that the Resolutions Committee was not ready to report the platform and the convention adjourned until 8 P. M. [midnight, New York time] to await the committee's action.

The session was called to order at 11:35 A. M. After the invocation the 10,000 men and women in the big auditorium rose and joined in singing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." A song leader jumped on the speaker's platform and led the singing, his arms waving frantically and his body shaking with the fervor of his efforts to stir the crowd.

For a time the scene resembled a great revival meeting more than a political convention. As the singing came to a close a delegate from one of the dry States near the speakers' platform shouted:

"That doesn't look like a wet convention."

"All prepared for Bryan to come on the scene," was another comment.

It was 11:40 when the roll call of States was taken up. New Mexico was called and A. P. Hammock seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

"New Mexico," he shouted, "believes in the selective draft. Therefore New Mexico seconds the State of Missouri in drafting William Gibbs McAdoo."

There had been reports about the lobbies of the hall that McAdoo's friends had planned another big demonstration for him at the first opportunity today, but the cheering which followed the announcement by New Mexico was not of large proportions. Many of the delegates from Kansas, North Dakota, Texas, Minnesota and other States which are counted for McAdoo rose and cheered, but the demonstration did not continue more than two minutes. Then Chairman Robinson rapped for order and quiet was quickly restored.

North Carolina Names Simmons.

When North Carolina was reached on the roll W. C. Newland of that State placed Senator Simmons in nomination as the State's "favorite son." The nomination was seconded by a woman delegate from California.

Another brief demonstration for McAdoo came when Oregon was reached. McAdoo was the only candidate for the Democratic nomination whose name was entered in the Oregon primaries and he won the support of that State as a result. The chairman of the Oregon delegation made this announcement:

"The Oregon delegation is instructed under the preference primary and joins the movement to draft the Honorable William Gibbs McAdoo."

There was a ripple of applause and then a band in the balcony back of the platform blared forth. But the demonstration did not get very far and subsided when the music stopped.

Utah joined in the movement for McAdoo. When that State was reached on the roll, a woman delegate mounted a chair and seconded the stand taken by Missouri in placing McAdoo's name before the convention despite his request that it be withheld.

Flood Presents Senator Glass.

Congressman Henry D. Flood of Virginia placed Senator Carter Glass in nomination. A negro woman in the gallery, waving a handkerchief, started a cheer for the Senator before the speaker had scarcely started. Mr. Flood was taking no chances about not getting applause, for he led off with a mention of both President Wilson and Mr. McAdoo. Scattered applause followed. Mr. Flood recited the public record of Senator Glass and declared that he was beloved by everybody from the Cumberland Mountains to Chesapeake Bay. The speaker dwelt on the fact that Senator Glass had a large share in the enactment of the Federal Reserve act as

Convention Likely to Continue Into Next Week Because of Platform Fight on the Floor

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1, 11 P. M. (3 A. M. Friday, New York Time).—Norman E Mack announced tonight, after the Resolutions Committee had failed to report a platform, that the convention could not complete its work by Saturday and would be carried into next week, adjourning over Sunday.

This prediction, he said, was based on the belief that Bryan and others opposed to the administration on the League of Nations, the Irish question and the wet and dry issue would wage a fight of at least thirty-six hours on the adoption of the platform.

Amended League of Nations Plank.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The vital section of the League of Nations plank as adopted today by the Committee on Resolutions with the final phrase added by the amendment of Senator Walsh of Massachusetts reads:

> We indorse the President's view of our international obligations and commend Democrats in Congress for voting against reservations designed to cut to pieces the vital provisions of the Versailles treaty and against resolutions for a separate peace which would disgrace the nation. We advocate prompt ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity, but we do not oppose reservations which would make more clear or specific our obligations to the associated nations.

The Irish Plank.

Under a plank adopted today by the Platform Committee, the Democratic Party would express sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people for self-government, and pledge such action in the matter as would be consistent with international comity and usage.

The action was taken after a long debate, during which the committee rejected the sub-committee plank proposing to leave the question to the League of Nations and voted down the proposal for a plank pledging diplomatic recognition of the Irish Republic.

IRISH CAUCUS VOTES TO KEEP UP FIGHT

Stormy Meeting Held While the Platform Committee Is Shaping Plank.

SENATOR WALSH REPORTS

Brought from Committee Room, He Breaks the News That Radicals' Demand Is Rejected.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—An Irish meeting so stormy and disordered that one of its participants said it might be regarded as evidence that the race could not govern itself, was held this afternoon in one of the side halls of the auditorium. About 300 men and women were present, including 150 to 200 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, and their purpose was to make a big stir in behalf of a strong pro-Irish plank in the party platform, over which the Resolutions Committee of the convention had been disputing in its secret session since last night.

The Irish protest meeting lasted three hours in the afternoon and then adjourned until 7 o'clock, ready to continue its efforts at the eleventh hour when the committee was scheduled to have its platform report ready for submission to the evening session of the convention.

The Irish are all ready for a fight on the floor as a climax to their long fight outside.

A committee of two was appointed to call upon each aspirant for the Presidency or his boomers and ask how he stood on the proposal to adopt a straight out Irish plank which would demand the recognition of the Irish Republic by the United States Government. This plan is the one which has been fathered by the extreme group, headed by Frank P. Walsh.

The meeting then voted to stand by its guns to the end. It was an "aye" and "no" vote and there was no negative. Previously, however, the speakers had included several opponents to extreme action. Of these speakers, Judge Michael A. Sullivan of Salem, Mass., was the man who told the meeting, amid noisy disapproval, that those who disagreed with the Irish, if they could see the disorder of the gathering, would not believe the Irish nation capable of self-government.

After the vote a committee was sent to the room of the Resolutions Committee to ask Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts if he would emerge and inform the Irish delegates what was being done behind the closed doors of the platform makers. Sergeants-at-arms stopped the group and at first refused even to take in a message. Ex-Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, one of the Irish meeting's spokesmen, became highly excited and made a speech to the sergeants, saying that the fate of a great nation hung on their action. The officers at last agreed to take the mesage to Mr. Walsh, who came out in fifteen minutes and was escorted to the platform in the mass meeting.

He made a speech about the greatness

TAMMANY STARTS UNIT RULE FIGHT

Fitzgerald Tells Chairman Robinson New York Must Cast Solid Vote.

LUNN PRESENTS OTHER SIDE

Franklin D. Roosevelt Talked Of for Senator, Even Among Tammany Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1—A skirmish preliminary to the coming battle on the floor in which Tammany will try to sustain the unit rule was fought today before Senator Joseph C. Robinson of Arkansas, permanent chairman. The arguments were made by ex-Representative John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, for the unit rule, and Mayor George Lunn of Schenectady for the minority. The conference with Senator Robinson was at his request to save time, as the matter is expected to come up in the convention at the first opportunity, probably on a vote on some proposed platform plank.

The procedure will be for W. W. Farley, vice chairman of the New York delegation, to try to cast New York's ninety votes in a block. Mayor Lunn will protest to the chairman. Senator Robinson will make a ruling and the side the ruling is against will appeal to the convention. At the conference today Senator Robinson did not say what his ruling would be.

Mr. Fitzgerald contended that the resolution adopted by the convention in regard to unit rule does not apply to New York, as the primary law in that States provides for an unofficial convention.

Mayor Lunn argued that the intent of the rule was clear. He asserted that the so-called unofficial convention had no authority and that the unit rule, which was adopted by a conference of the New York delegation, was without power to bind him.

Tammany Thinks Own Contention Weak

The general belief among Tammany men is that their contention is weak and that the rule adopted by the convention will be sustained as applying to New York.

If the unit rule is broken, several McAdoo votes will be released. These are estimated at 25 or more by Mayor Lunn, and at from 10 to 15 by Mr. Farley.

The majority of the delegation decided to stick to Governor Smith indefinitely. The Tammany leaders are greatly pleased at the complimentary demonstration given to the Governor yesterday and expect his vote as a candidate for the Presidential nomination to go as high as 200.

Mayor Lunn said he wished to give a vote for Governor Smith, and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, another McAdoo supporter, seconded the Governor's nomination. A solid vote for Smith is apparently assured for the first ballot, and perhaps the second and third, even with the unit rule abrogated.

NIGHT SESSION

By Direct Leased Wire to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONVENTION HALL, SAN FRANCISCO, July 1, 10:25 P. M. (2:25 A. M. Friday, New York time).— The night session of the Democratic National Convention, after waiting nearly two hours for the Resolutions Committee to report the Platform, gave it up at 10:25 P. M. and adjourned until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

It was 8:39 o'clock tonight (12:39 New York time) when Chairman Robinson called the Democratic National Convention to order for the first night session. The delegates had been gathering since 7 o'clock and delay was certain because the Platform Committee was not ready to report.

The delegates slowly took their seats in response to the Chairman's call and the night session was on. A local pastor delivered the invocation, following which the band and large pipe organ pealed forth the national anthem.

The Chairman then asked the Secretary if the Committee on Resolution was ready to report. The Secretary replied that the committee's report was not ready for presentation whereupon a delegate from Oklahoma, obtaining the attention of the Chairman, asked for unanimous consent to suspend the rules to allow time for each State delegation to caucus for the purpose of selecting its national committeeman and committee woman.

"Do I hear any objection?" asked the Chairman.

There was no reply, and the recess was ordered.

The Chairman then got order again to admonish the galleries against smoking. He said matches were being lighted and it was dangerous and foolish. He ordered the sergeants at arms not to allow smoking at any further sessions of the convention.

"A fire here would occasion serious casualties," he warned.

There was a yell of approval, and the crowd settled back to enjoy itself during the recess.

Vaudeville stunts and songs were immediately in order. The first diversion was furnished by Lieutenant Johnson, a Virginia "ace," who sang "Take Me Back to Ole Virginny," with most of the Southern delegates joining in the chorus. The singing was infectious. Before it was finished the whole convention was joining in.

While the delegates were thus amusing themselves, up in the committee room, two floors above, William Jennings Bryan was making a desperate fight for his out and out dry plank and apparently facing defeat. The scene at this first night session of the convention was perhaps the most dramatic which has been experienced at either the Republican or Democratic national gathering in many a year.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Permanent Chairman has announced that the Committee on Resolutions cannot agree and asks that it be given further time. Bryan is making an address before the committee pleading for his plank and telling the party that it will make a tremendous mistake and dare defeat if it does not meet his desires.

The committee has not acepted his views and, up to this time, has stood pretty firmly for the plank submitted by Carter Glass, which the Bryan forces call wet, and which Glass says represents what President Wilson would like to see incorporated in the platform.

There is a report that as between what he considers two evils, a beer and wine plank and the Carter Glass plank, Bryan would be willing in the end to accept no plank at all. His opponents say that he is beaten in his fight for a straight out dry plank, and in making the concession of talking about accepting no plank at all, is beginning to realize that fact.

Bryan promises a fight on the floor if his wishes are entirely disregarded. The convention is counted as "dry," but willing to stand by the wishes of the Administration and make a fight for the plank Glass brought here if the test is on the question of the supremacy of Wilson or Bryan.

On the platform in the convention there were frequent conferences of officials. It began to look as if the Platform Committee could not finish with the prohibition issue tonight and it is understood that Chairman Robinson will lay the case before the convention and let it decide whether to adjourn or continue waiting on the Platform Committee.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, after the delegates had been coddled along by singing and speechmaking, Chairman Robinson conferred with the Resolutions Committee in their meeting room. He reported that the platform work couldn't be finished until so late that there probably would be an adjournment to 9:30 tomorrow morning.

The delegates hiss and cheer as Chairman Robinson announces that the Committee on Resolutions has not been able to reach an agreement, and asks for further time. The fight in the Resolutions Committee is developing to a point in the minds of some leaders where no agreement is possible tonight. In that event the convention may go over the week-end.

Record Crowd Assembles at Hall.

A record crowd gathered before every entrance of the Auditorium before the doors were opened at 7 o'clock for the first night session of the convention. Word that the Platform Committee was expected to report when the session convened had spread, not only among the delegates but throughout the city.

For the first time there was keen and eager competition for tickets. The promise of a real fight on the floor, with Bryan leading the battle for the "drys," and perhaps for the opponents of the President's League of Nations plank as well, had whetted the appetites of both townspeople and visitors for developments.

Previous sessions of the convention had been "peppy" rather than really exciting, and the prospect that Bryan, should he prove to have his old time form, would put some "jazz" into the proceedings met with the lively approval of every person who loves a fight.

Conflicting rumors had come from the room where the committee had been wrangling throughout long hours, and the first persons who swarmed into the hall did not know that the gavel would not fall promptly at 8 o'clock. Most of the delegates seemed to be as ill-informed as the general public, for they came earlier than usual, though many were forced to cut short their dinners in order to reach the hall in time.

Hopes Fall With News of Delay.

Before either the galleries or the delegates' seats were more than half filled word came from the committee room that the Resolutions Committee was far from agreement and would not be ready to report on time, perhaps not for hours.

There were murmurs of disappointment and some delegates who had taken their seats hurried out into the corridors, hoping to get definite information. Many of them besieged the lone elevator leading to the committee meeting room, but Sergeants at Arms stopped them. Then they stood about in groups in the corridors discussing how best to employ the time.

Most of them decided that the only thing to do was to wait it out, and they came flooding back into the hall, the little islands of empty chairs being blotted out in a few moments.

For the first time the capacity of the big auditorium was overtaxed. Many extra tickets had got into circulation in one way or another, and the police and fire department found it necessary to close the doors. Even late coming delegates had difficulty in getting access to their satss.

While reports from the committee meeting were drifting in the situation seemed more and more uncertain. A big majority of the delegates had made railway reservations for the end of this week, and the long journey already had kept them many days from home. They were well aware that should prophesies of a deadlock be fulfilled when the balloting started the convention might go over the week end, and they were intolerant of intervening delays.

Meantime the State leaders took the Chairman at his word and resigned themselves to waiting, filling in the time with such amusements as they could devise for themselves with the help of the band, the organ and singers, volunteer and professional.

The crowd in the galleries soon learned that there was to be a delay of uncertain length and registered its disappointment. To console the crowd the band played the locally favorite air "I Love You California" and the delegates, ever ready to manifest their appreciation of San Francisco hospitality, broke into resounding applause.

The galleries cheered up at once, and just couldn't keep from singing the words of this favorite song. The organ swelled into the tune and the whole place resounded with the appealing melody. The searchlights were switched on, touching the scene to an appearance of new life.

Vote to Hold State Caucuses.

Some of the leaders of State delegations conferred with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Permanent Chairman, as to what could be done to avoid wasting time. The Chairman told them that the only thing they could do was to suspend the rules by a two-thirds vote and proceed with the balloting for the Presidential nomination or with the nominating speeches for the Vice Presidential candidates. He expressed the opinion, however that more than one-third of the delegates were determined that the program adopted should be followed and that they would not consent to alter the arranged proceedings.

That the Chairman was in error was shown a few minutes later when a motion for unanimous consent to hold State caucuses for naming National Committeemen and Committeewomen was adopted "unanimously," despite a few shouted objections.

Music Enlivens the Wait.

The session proved to be picturesque. There seemed to be nearly as many women as men in the assemblage and many of the former carried great bouquets of flowers which were lightened to new beauty whenever the beams of a spotlight chanced to sweep over them.

The band crashed into "Dixie" a few minutes after 8 o'clock and the old rebel yell that always greets it in a gathering of this sort resounded over the noise of incoming people and the hum of conversation.

A mixed quartet with megaphones appeared in the gallery bandstand and tried to help while away the tedious wait. But the delegates were too intent upon getting something done to be quiet and the feeble efforts of the quartet got no further than the press stands, where they were drowned in the waves of talk that rose from all parts of the floor.

The New York delegation was in place early and the places reserved for other big States soon were filled. Here and there little groups of partisans gathered in the aisles and started to make a demonstration for one candidate or another, but the delegates were intent upon what lay immediately before them and refused to be beguiled with any boom proceedings.

Before 8:30 o'clock the convention officers, secretaries and clerks had taken their positions on the platform, the moving picture machines were posted in places of strategic advantage in the aisles and from all parts of the delegate territory came cries of "All right Robinson, let her go."

The delegates also started a series of informal interstate calls, in which they discussed candidacies, and, with more interest, the fight that was holding back the resolutions committee.

The organ and the band joined in playing "I Love You, California" all over again. It met with such vociferous approval from the galleries that talk on the floor was drowned out and the little knots of delegates soon disintegrated, each man returning to his seat.

Delegates Give State Songs.

There was a series of State songs. Pennsylvania delegates had gathered in force and from their point of vantage at the front started their song, "Palmer, Palmer, Pennsylvania." Hospitable enough yesterday to the appealing swing of the air the delegates proved demonstration-proof tonight and the effort died with its making.

In response to appeals from the floor State after State got its favorite song from the bandmaster. Pennsylvania showed that it was not resentful of the New York refusal to sing the Palmer air, for a moment later when "The Sidewalks of New York" came from the band the Keystone delegation was joining in the chorus before the last of the Tammany men had sprung to their feet.

"Maryland, My Maryland," "My Old Kentucky Home," and other regional favorites came after. Once or twice Chairman Robinson appeared at the edge of the platform and the delegates settled back expectantly in their seats, but each time he retreated again, there was a sign of disappointment, and the singing went on.

"Old Wonderful" Is Heard.

Among the Virginia delegates is one with a voice as powerful as that of the late Ollie James. He has gained fame at this convention by simply yelling the word "wonderful" on every possible occasion. This delegate, known as "Old Wonderful," got a laugh by slowly arising and making his favorite comment after each "stunt."

The possibility of a fire in the convention hall apparently is getting on the nerves of Chairman Robinson. He stopped the proceedings to make another announcement to the effect that the Chief of the City Fire Department had just informed him that any one caught smoking in the building would be ejected.

More Calls for the Band.

The band exhausted its repertory responding to requests from delegates for favorite tunes. "The Wearing of the Green," "We Won't Go Home Till Morning," and "There's a Long, Long Trail Awinding," were in greatest demand.

At 9:45 P. M. (1:45 A. M. New York time) the indefatigable band was grinding out "After the Ball Is Over," while many delegates wandered about the aisles trying hard to pass the time away. Finally some one thought of the plan of filling the time with speechmaking. The first offering was Mrs. George Bass, Chairmen of the Women's Bureau of the convention, who told the crowd all about the fight for woman's suffrage. The assemblage seemed only mildly interested.

An Illinois delegate got a glimpse of ex-Senator J. Ham Lewis hovering in the rear of the speakers' stand and an insistent demand for "Ham Lewis" was chanted. Mr. Lewis showed himself for an instant, gravely bowed and retired, while the convention yelled with delight.

Naming National Committeemen.

Chairman Robinson then announced there would be a call of the roll of States to determine the list of new committeemen and women.

"After that," said the Chairman, "we will find out how soon the Resolutions Committee will complete its work. Then I will ask the assembly what it prefers to do."

The list of new members of the National Committee was announced from the platform. When Connecticut was reached the Chairman of the delegation said: "Our choice is Homer S. Cummings until he is nominated for President."

Mrs. George Bass was defeated for woman member of the National Committee for Illinois by Mrs. Smith. There had been a fight in the delegation and the opponents of Mrs. Bass were successful.

Norman E. Mack of Buffalo was returned as National Committeeman for New York and as woman member Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby of New York City was replaced by Miss Elizabeth Marbury.

Hear of Prolonged Deadlock.

During the reading of the names the gallery grew restive and many spectators began to leave. Word swept through the hall that the Platform Committee was hopelessly deadlocked, with no prospect of reaching a settlement.

At 10:20 o'clock a diversion was started by some one in the gallery shouting for Bryan. The cry was taken up and a great yell for the "Commoner" was the result. The judge from the noise Bryan still had a hold on the crowd.

The Chairman got order and announced that Gavin McNab of California had something to say. But Mr. McNab's contribution was merely a resolution that the convention ratify the selection of the committeemen and women by the various States.

"Bryan, Bryan," again yelled the gallery.

Senator Robinson said that he had just been in conference with the Chairman and other members of the Resolutions Committee and was informed that they would not be ready to report for a considerable length of time. A yell of disapproval was the response.

"The Chairman of the Committee," Mr. Robinson continued, "assures me that the report will be ready early in the morning."

There was instant cries for Bryan which caused Chairman Robinson to announce that "the delegate from Nebraska" was busy in the committee room and would not be able to appear before the convention.

McNab then offered a resolution that the convention adojurn until 10 o'clock in the morning, which was unanimously carried. It was just 10:30 o'clock.

Wilson, Smith and McAdoo Favorites in Wall Street Bets

Wall Street betting odds on the Democratic Presidential nomination took a peculiar swing yesterday whereby three favorites were shown for the nomination. President Wilson, Governor Smith and Mr. McAdoo were in the limelight with odds of 9 to 5 being quoted against all three. The odds against Marshall and Davis shortened to 2 to 1 and three candidates, Cox, Palmer and Edwards were 3 to 1.

The creation of three favorites in the odds, and the further shortening of odds against even the outside candidates, indicated the doubt which Wall Street felt over the outcome of the voting. Betting on the result is, however, light, according to James W. Ball & Co., who quote the odds.

LEADS FRAZIER BY 4,496.

Langer's Margin Falls in North Dakota—Gronna Also Ahead.

FARGO, N. D., July 1.—The majority of William Langer, independent Republican candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, over Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Non-Partisan League candidate, was cut to 4,496 votes tonight when 1,439 precincts out of 2,064, representing every county but Sioux, had reported complete official returns from yesterday's primary election. Langer had 45,939 and Frazier 41,443 votes.

Returns from the contest for the United States Senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket showed Senator A. J. Gronna, the Independent Republican candidate, leading Dr. E. F. Ladd, the Non-Partisan choice, by a considerable margin.

END NOMINATING SPEECHES

well as a number of other measures during the present Administration.

"His name will rank in history along with a few of the great Secretaries of the Treasury we have had," said Mr. Flood. "Nominate him and he will defeat the Republicans as easily as the American doughboy licked the Huns."

The applause for Mr. Glass lasted only a few seconds and made but a ripple in the convention.

John W. Davis Put in Nomination.

Governor John J. Cornwell of West Virginia then came forward to present the name of John W. Davis. The Davis men were rejoicing that the break in the nominating speeches had saved them from being forced to offer their candidate at the close of yesterday's many hours of speaking. And they were well satisfied that two or three others had been placed before the refreshed convention this morning so that their man came last of all.

When Senator Robinson presented the West Virginia Governor a warm wave of handclapping ran over both galleries and floor. The Davis men had no floor leaders and no made to order noise arrangements, so there was no such outburst as greeted the names of some of the other candidates.

The demeanor of the delegates, however, as Governor Cornwell proceeded with his speech was manifestly thoughtful and attentive, reflecting the sober fashion in which the Davis candidacy has been discussed in the lobbies and the rooms of delegates. The first mention of Mr. Davis's name was greeted with a real burst of cheering. It soon died away and no one attempted any of the orthodox means of artificial resuscitation.

Governor Cornwell, perhaps recognizing that delegates and spectators alike had had plenty of oratory, attempted no flights of fancy. He confined himself to a terse argument as to Ambassador Davis's availability, based upon the latter's record, which he reviewed in detail. When he warned against nominating a man simply becuse he appealed to some political interest, thus splitting the Democracy into a factional party, his reasoning was punctuated by scattered applause from all parts of the floor.

When the Governor insisted that the coming campaign would revolve about the League of Nations, whether politicians liked it or not, and went on to declare that with that issue constantly in the foreground Mr. Davis, with his executive and diplomatic experience, was pre-eminently qualified to be the standard-bearer there was another warm response from the floor.

Seconding Speeches for Davis.

Mrs. Julia Brown of West Virginia, all in white, with a corsage bouquet of red roses as the only touch of color in her costume, rose to second the nomination. Before her marriage she was Izetta Jewel, an actress.

Mrs. Brown told the story of a small boy who got mixed in his Sunday school lesson and came home and told his mother that at creation God made man and that man then went to sleep in a garden and God came down and "took out his brains and made woman." This got a big cheer and a big laugh and the band crashed into "Oh, You Beautiful Doll." Mrs. Brown smiled and went on to reinforce Governor Cornwell's arguments by insisting that the convention could make no mistake in voting for "a man who is a man's man and yet a woman's ideal of what a man should be."

The comment that swept over the country after "the recent Republican fiasco," Mrs. Brown said, was "Well, they might have done worse." "Nominate Mr. Davis," Mrs. Brown continued, "and the comment that will ring throughout the land will be, 'Well, they couldn't have done better.'"

Borden Burr of Birmingham, Ala., also seconded the Davis nomination, telling the delegates that Mr. Davis was a man free from entangling alliances and possessed of the character and ability needed for the Presidency. Mrs. Lucy Dudley of Tennessee made another nominating speech. She argued that the assertion that Mr. Davis was "unknown" was not true in the case of a man with so uniform a record of tasks well done.

"John W. Davis," she concluded, "before November will teach you to know him so well that you will hold him only second to Woodrow Wilson."

Harrison's Name Presented.

The Secretary completed calling the roll of States and both delegates and visitors applauded when they thought that the last man had been named and the speechmaking was over. Miss Bessie Dwyer of the Philippine delegation, however, took the platform and placed one more candidate before the convention, saying that though hers might be a voice crying in the wilderness, she felt that it was proper to demand consideration for Francis Burton Harrison, Governor General of the Philippines.

This ended the nominations. The reading clerk then announced that Chairman Glass of the Resolutions Committee had reported that the committee would not be ready with the platform before 8 o'clock tonight. A groan went up from the delegates, but a diversion was immediately in order in the way of a speech by Mayor Snyder of Los Angeles, who in flowery sentences offered the hospitality of that city to the delegates.

Mrs. Blakely of Utah offered a resolution that the convention send a message to the Governor of Louisiana asking him to call a special session of the Legislature of that State in order to vote on the woman suffrage amendment. A delegate from Maryland objected and the resolution died.

Wilbur W. Marsh of Iowa then requested that the rules be suspended in order that the convention could begin balloting instead of waiting until night to get the platform. There was loud objection from the McAdoo delegates, who wanted more time to round up votes for their candidate, and Chairman Robinson announced that it would require a two-thirds vote of the convention to suspend the rules.

Mr. Marsh withdrew his motion and offered another that the convention adjourn until 8 P. M. This went over with a whoop and the Chairman announced that the session was over until that hour.

DAVIS PRESENTED AS STRONGEST MAN

Governor Cornwell Urges His Nomination as Typical of Best Citizenship.

FREE FROM ANTAGONISMS

Praises Ambassador's Record as State and National Legislator and Able Diplomat.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—In presenting to the convention the name of Ambassador John W. Davis for the nomination for President, Governor John J. Cornwell of West Virginia spoke as follows:

I assume the delegates to this convention have in mind two things in connection with the selection of a Presidential candidate.

First, to choose a man who will, if elected, embody in his official acts the fundamental principles that have given life and existence to the Democratic Party and to this country, to the end that the country and its citizens may enjoy the largest measure of liberty, prosperity and happiness under his administration, and that, incidentally, the Democratic Party may be strengthened and more firmly established in the confidence of the American people.

Second, with those thoughts uppermost in your minds, your next thought, I imagine, is who among the men under consideration that typify those things is most available and would prove the strongest candidate before the people.

If I believed the majority of the delegates were not actuated by those thoughts I would not inflict useless words upon you.

Representatives of the Democratic Party cannot afford to be actuated by any but the highest motives. Purely personal or political considerations must not control the selection of a candidate here.

It is true the Republican National Convention turned back the political clock a quarter of a century; that it recalled the days of Mark Hanna; that reaction is written in large letters across its political horizon.

The Chicago comedy, where candidates were permitted to wear each other out and incidentally to weary the delegates into a state of political stupefaction, pending the final word from the bosses, would have been amusing had it not been pathetic and of serious moment to the country.

The people got a glimpse behind the scenery and they understand, but, notwithstanding all the stage play and the camouflage, a respectable ticket was presented, though presented "hind part foremost." We must further bear in mind that a war could not be fought with 4,500,000 men under arms and an expenditure of $25,000,000,000, money raised partly by onerous tax burdens, without irritating many persons and leaving much that will be criticised. The public, unfortunately, is prone to listen to criticism in preference to explanations and encomiums. Because of these things, it behooves the Democratic Party to place at the head of its ticket a man whose character and ability will not be questioned. For the highest position in all the world we should nominate one of the very biggest and brainiest men in all the country.

To select some man because he is supposed to be strong with men engaged in one class of business or demanded by one group of citizens would not only invite defeat but would make the Democratic Party a factional organization. To nominate a man in an effort to corral the dissatisfied and disappointed elements of the opposition that were politely and tenderly kicked out of the Republican Convention, nominating him at the sacrifice of Democratic principles and real leadership, would be just as disastrous and just as reprehensible.

Must Deserve to Win.

To win this campaign the party must deserve to win. To deserve to win, the party must offer to the American voters a candidate clean, able, possessed of common sense and free from factionalism or unnecessary antagonisms. To prostitute itself by selling a nomination for supposed powerful influences or for the promise of votes from those who seek class legislation would be infamous.

Diversified, as this great country is, diversified in industry and in population, our candidate should stand in the middle of the great highway of political thought, his feet firmly planted upon the bedrock of the Constitution, his face toward the rising and not toward the setting sun. He should know our laws and he should have the courage to enforce them, being every ready and able all the while to guide the country in its true progress, meeting and dealing with the new conditions as they come.

If there is such a man offered you, a man who has been thorouhly tried and thoroughly proven, a man who can put the issues before the country with tongue or pen in a masterly manner; a man with a charming personality and without an enemy; a man against whom no word of criticism has ever been uttered, would it not be a good thing to nominate him?

Such a man West Virginia offers this convention in the person of the present Ambassador at London, the Honorable John W. Davis.

My only wish is that all the delegates to this convention might know him as we who come from West Virginia know him.

We saw him at 26 years of age, the leader of his party in the Lower House of the State Legislature; we saw him an eminent, brilliant and successful lawyer; we saw him nominated for Congress in a district largely Republican, nominated against his wishes and in his absence; we saw him accept the mandate of the party and carry the district to become its first Democratic Representative in many years; we saw him take high rank in Congress and become Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, taking a leading part in framing the anti-injunction law, satisfactory to both capital and labor; we saw him picked, because of his great legal learning and marvelous ability, to become Solicitor General of the United States; we saw him impress the highest court in the land with his knowledge of the law and his faculty of stating the facts in an incontrovertible manner; we saw the President send him to Switzerland as trusted representative on an important mission and before his return we saw the same President name him as Ambassador to Great Britain.

His record there you all know. Despite the many cross-currents in international affairs, he has filled the place with tact, grace and distinction.

You do not doubt his ability, you could not question his character. May I presume to assure you of his tact, his sound judgment and his courage? He is a business man as well as a statesman and a diplomat. He knows the rights of property lawfully acquired and would defend them, but he knows also that human rights are superior to property rights, and he would defend them first and forever.

Will the Democratic Party, through its delegates here assembled, be influenced by sectional appeals? Will it be influenced by the siren songs of those who do not believe in democracy at all, but who are striving for class government instead? Will it be influenced by selfish interests or practical politicians such as dominated the Republican Convention and selected its nominees?

Or will the delegates to this convention rise above all mercenary considerations and nominate a man who needs no platform but his life history and his public record?

The father of the man I offer to you, who was himself once a distinguished Member of Congress, once said:

"Whenever the Democratic Party has stood for the principles of its founders and boldly met its opponents, it has been victorious, but when campaigns resolve themselves simply into a contest for the spoils of office, it matters little, so far as the interests of the people are concerned, which wins."

If this convention is the first gun in a contest merely and solely to keep control of Federal offices, for one I am willing to quit now. If, on the other hand, it is to be, as it should be, a struggle to keep the Government out of the hands of political profiteers; to place at its head an American, bred and schooled in American democracy; a man who thoroughly understands the history and theory of government, but who has the practical mind and the business training and experience to properly apply the theories of government; a man who would see all the people of all the States, all the people of all sections or groups through eyes that know no colors, classes, or distinctions, then we may go on, not only with the hope of success, but with the feeling of confidence that, win or lose, the Democratic Party is true to its traditions and has preserved its self-respect.

To turn down its statesmen and to nominate a politician, or an opportunist or an incompetent merely in an effort to catch votes, will insure defeat and bring merited contempt from all citizens who believe in good government and who admire courage in a party as well as in an individual.

I have presented for your consideration a man each of you know is fitted for the office; a man against whom no one can aim a single criticism; a man who has no superior in this country as a writer or public speaker; a man with a host of friends and not an enemy; a man with more than a dozen years of service in public life, consecutive years, running from Congress to Ambassador.

Is there a brainier or better man in sight?

If there is not, then why should we not nominate John W. Davis and nominate him now?

It is true the State that proudly claims him cannot boast so many electoral votes as some of its sisters. But they are enough to tip the scales in a close contest. For a quarter of a century they have gone regularly to the Republican candidates. That is not the fault of the faithful Democrats who have stood by their guns, though swamped beneath an avalanche of hostile voters attracted by the State's industrial development. In the last national campaign the electoral votes were lost by a narrow margin, while a Democrat was elected Governor. With Davis at the head of our ticket the State will be completely and permanently redeemed. If nominated and elected he will play no favorites. He will be the servant of all the people. The great West and Northwest will find him to be their President as much as will the East and South.

The wage workers will find that he is their President as much as the President of the farmer or the business man.

All sections of the country, all groups of citizens might expect and would certainly receive equal consideration and even-handed justice. No section or group should expect anything more. No section or group is entitled to more.

If you want a man of character; if you want a man of ability; if you want a man of experience in public life, a man trusted by President Wilson, trusted by all who know him, who is without a blemish and who is great in every sense of the word, I beg you to nominate the man I have named, John W. Davis, now in London, but a typical citizen of the United States of America.

THINKS DAVIS HAS EXCELLENT CHANCE

ANXIOUS TO DEFEND TREATY

Writer Tells of London Interview in Which Candidate Expressed His Views.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Willis J. Abbott, for many years a political writer, and at present connected editorially with Collier's Weekly, expressed the conviction today that John W. Davis, Ambassador to England, had an excellent chance as a Democratic "dark horse," to be nominated for the Presidency.

Mr. Abbott said the leading contenders seemed fast approaching the stage where they would eliminate each other, and that when that stage was reached he thought the choice would lie among Mr. Davis, Champ Clark and Vice President Marshall. Mr. Abbott, who is frankly interested in the success of the Davis candidacy, bases his opinion on wide contact with party leaders. He found that the Ambassadors' admitted aspirations are being taken seriously and thoughtfully by the men who count.

Mr. Abbott said he first became interested in promoting Mr. Davis as a Presidential possibility when he went to London last December. While we traveled primarily on other business and was asked, he said, by politicians and public men who slowly were working around to the belief that the West Virginian would be available, to sound him out as to his own views toward the nomination.

"I met Mr. Davis the night Lloyd George presented his views on the Irish question," Mr. Abbott said, "and he told me frankly, when I had explained my mission, that he was quite willing to be the Democratic nominee should the party turn to him. He insisted, however, that because of both his official and his personal relations to President Wilson he could not sanction or participate in any organized movement. For that reason there has been none except the spontaneous favorite son movement in West Virginia, to which no one could take exception.

"Mr. Davis and I did not discuss American national issues to any great extent. I recall that he expressed some concern as to whether his presence at the Court of St. James's would arouse the enmity of the Irish, who, he thought, were going to be a lively faction in the contest. I think he was reassured on this point, it being suggested that an Ambassador could not be expected to be other than cordial and courteous to his diplomatic hosts, and that the Irish could find no grounds on which to attack him, since he had done nothing to offend them.

"I also remember that Mr. Davis, who at that time felt confident that the Peace Treaty with the League covenant would be ratified long before election time, expressed the pleasure he would feel at defending the President's treaty before the country should that prove to be the pivotal campaign issue and should he be the nominee.

"Some months later I had occasion to travel through part of the country and I encountered so much quiet sentiment for Mr. Davis and so much interest in his candidacy, which then was beginning to be suggested sporadically, that I communicated with his intimates in New York to learn if they could not become more active in his behalf. They learned from Mr. Davis, however, that he could not alter his attitude because he was a diplomatic appointee, a warm personal admirer and a cordial supporter of President Wilson, and nothing was done."

Reverting to the impressions he had gathered here since the convention opened, Mr. Abbott cited, as evidence that Mr. Davis might develop real strength, a conversation he had recently with William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Abbott conducted the Democratic Party's publicity during both the Bryan campaigns, and he and the Commoner are old and close friends.

"Mr. Bryan told me," Mr. Abbott related, "that he understood Davis was a splendid fellow and that he had absolutely nothing against him. Then he added, laughingly, that he understood Davis had been against him in '96 while his father was making speeches in his (Bryan's) favor, but, of course, that was ancient history and long forgotten. Subsequently Mr. Bryan learned that Davis had been for him at that time and that even this joking objection did not hold."

BETTORS FAVOR McADOO.

But Davis Is Second Among Washington Newspapermen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—William G. McAdoo continues to be the favorite, but Ambassador John W. Davis was next in the pari-mutuel betting pool among Washington newspaper men tonight. There are now 90 participants, 30 of whom have bet that McAdoo will be the nominee, while 16 have bet the nomination would go to Ambassador Davis. Yesterday there were 17 bets for McAdoo and 6 for Davis. Thirteen more wagers were laid on McAdoo today and 10 more on Davis.

The order in which the candidates were bet on, and the odds, according to pari-mutuel computation, are:

McAdoo, 2 to 1; Davis, 4.6 to 1; the "field," 5.4 to 1; Marshall, 9 to 1; President Wilson, 14 to 1; Secretary Colby, 21.5 to 1; Cummings, 29 to 1; Cox, 29 to 1; Champ Clark, 44 to 1, and Senator Glass, 44 to 1.

The odds were shorter on McAdoo, Ambassador Davis, Secretary Colby and President Wilson today than yesterday. President Wilson was 26 to 1 in this pool yesterday, and today he was 14 to 1. Vice President Marshall, who was 5.75 to 1 yesterday, was 9 to 1 today.

PALMER AND M'ADOO LEAD

they might be able to nominate him. But it is the opinion of seasoned political observers that Cox is the only man upon whom they could combine to achieve success for the anti-McAdoo movement. These observers believe that Palmer could not win the nomination if the Cox management agreed to throw their strength to him. It is asserted that the Cox managers will not be able to deliver all Cox delegates to Palmer. The prediction is made in some quarters that much of the Cox following would go to McAdoo rather than to Palmer.

Under these circumstances the situation seems to be that the contest has narrowed down to Cox and McAdoo. If neither can be nominated and a deadlock comes that cannot be broken it may be necessary for the leaders to get together and choose a dark horse under an agreement that the combined strength, represented in the compromise group, will vote for him.

Dark Horse Narrowing Down.

Who stands the best chance in the dark horse group? The list of dark horses has narrowed down to John W. Davis of West Virginia, Ambassador to Great Britain, and Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, Chairman of the National Committee.

Until within a day or two Vice President Marshall was regarded as the most prominent of the dark horses. He is now looked upon as one of the weakest. The Indiana delegation, which desired to bring the Vice President before the convention as a candidate for the Presidency, decided overnight not to do so.

Mr. Marshall has not responded to the desires of his fellow hoosiers to do him honor. He has refused to take the Marshall boom seriously and as a result he is not now regarded as a candidate for the nomination.

The Cummings dark horse candidacy is a new thing, but has some strength because Chairman Cummings is very popular in the convention and he is known to have the warm friendship of President Wilson, one of whose representatives he is in the convention. His speech as temporary Chairmen is highly commended by delegates, many of whom speak of it as a masterpiece.

Ambassador Davis, however, is more mentioned as a possible choice of the convention. His friends are elated over the way that many delegates are coming to look upon his candidacy. It is asserted that thirty-four States are inclined to make Davis their second choice. Even Mr. Bryan has not been able to find anything objectionable in the Envoy to Great Britain.

Bryan, while not committing himself as to a candidate, except to ask his friends to vote for Senator Owen on the first ballot, is showing signs of seeking to bring about the nomination of Champ Clark of Missouri. This would be a strange turnover in politics.

Clark is a bitter enemy of Bryan, whom he accuses of having caused his defeat at Baltimore in 1912. Those who put faith in the report that Bryan may support Clark hold the theory that the commoner is trying to heal the deep wounds that were inflicted at the Baltimore convention.

With the Cox and Palmer interests devoting themselves to seeking a combination to defeat McAdoo, delegates, who had not made up their minds how to vote have been confused, and out of their confusion McAdoo has gained advantage. It is asserted by some who are observing the situation in cold blood that McAdoo has gained votes here and there every day this week because his workers have urged support for him while the Cox and Palmer movements have been weakened by too much attention being paid to forming an anti-McAdoo combination.

McAdoo has gained also in this pro-Wilson convention by reason of the fact that the combination against him embraces practically all the elements opposed to the President. It has taken on the appearance of an anti-Wilson movement and this is not alluring to those who are loyal to the President. On the contrary it supplies a reason to them to come together in the President's defense.

Say Palmer Won't Help Cox.

In this connection it is being said that Attorney General Palmer will never agree that Cox shall have the Palmer vote if that course is necessary to defeat McAdoo. Palmer appears willing to let his managers enter into a combination with the Cox forces to stem the McAdoo tie with the hope that the situation might develop into an arrangement for Palmer's nomination. But for Mr. Palmer to join in an agreement to have Cox nominated with the direct object of preventing McAdoo from getting the prize is not credited. However neutral President Wilson may be in the contest over the Presidential nomination (and he has not indicated that his son-in-law was his preference) any action by a member of his Cabinet that meant the defeate of McAdoo and the triumph of a combination, largely composed of the President's enemies, would be a horse of a different color. The resignation of Palmer from the Cabinet might be the immediate result. It is reported here that Mr. Palmer will not remain in the Cabinet anyhow if he fails to get the nomination.

Some of the leaders here think that President Wilson, despite his policy of silence, may decide to take a hand in the situation, affecting the selection of a candidate if he sees the prospect of an anti-Wilson drive that would mean the triumph of a combination headed by Murphy of New York, Brennan of Illinois and others who are practically at outs with the Administration. These men are all parties to the efforts to block McAdoo and, according to the McAdoo men, they give the movement the appearance of an effort to discredit the President.

Thomas Taggart, head of the Indiana delegation, has refused to stay in the anti-McAdoo combination. He takes the ground that as a candidate for United States Senator he cannot afford to be concerned in what will be regarded as an anti-Administration movement. Taggart is said to believe that McAdoo will be nominated.

Everything that has happened in the convention shows that the President has the strongest support there and doubt is expressed that the convention would go against his will if he condemned any combination as anti-Wilson and appealed to the convention to sustain him. A general opinion has been voiced here that the convention would stand by the President in respect to his policies, but would resent any attempt by him to interfere in the selection of a candidate for President.

Secretary Colby is responsible for the statement that the President could be nominated by acclamation if he desired, but there is nothing to indicate that anything of that sort is in prospect.

Edmond H. Moore, committeeman from Ohio and manager of the Cox movement, who has the reputation of playing square, showed today that he disapproved of all efforts to injure Cox's rivals by underhanded methods. Mr. Moore learned that an anonymous circular attacking McAdoo was being circulated. By quick action he had practically all the copies that were being distributed bought up and suppressed.

The circular sought to revive the story that there was a McAdoo "slush fund" to bring about his nomination. It charged that Republican members of the Senate Sub-Committee, which investigated pre-convention campaign expenditures of candidates for the nomination for President, suspended their inquiry to prevent evidence being offered that secret pledges of large amounts of money had been made to help McAdoo, the alleged object of the Republican Senators being to keep this information from the public until McAdoo had been made the Democratic candidate and then publish it to injure him with the voters.

thread of primary instructions requiring them to "stay put" for one or two complimentary ballots. The promoters of Mr. McAdoo's fortunes and the managers for Palmer, Cox and Edwards were running a competitive race in their attempt to corral delegates—the McAdoo men by pointing out that the demonstration yesterday had clearly shown the McAdoo wagon was the real bandwagon, and the others by dinning it into the ears of delegates that they had enough votes to block McAdoo and that he could never get the nomination.

These efforts continued without let-up until the convention met, with the prospect that a night would intervene before the balloting and that they would have a few hours more for their intensive campaign.

The demonstration yesterday has been about the only approximate indication any of the delegates not in the secrets of the McAdoo managers have had with reference to his strength. The standards of State delegations borne forward and massed at the foot of the rostrum at that time, according to calculations made today, represented a strength in delegates of 575. It has been pointed out, however, by leaders of the opposition, whose assertions are sustained by actual polls of the delegations, that in many of these States there was a division, with Mr. McAdoo in numerous instances the choice of only a minority of the delegations.

An effort was made after the convention adjourned yesterday evening at a round-up of leaders from delegations pledged to Cox and Palmer to bring about a coalition to beat McAdoo that would stick. It was admitted today that this effort had failed. Some big States, with unpledged delegations or delegations pledged to favorite sons, refused to go into the combination.

New York's Attitude.

That was the position taken by New York State, for instance. The New York delegates, it was stated today, would continue voting for Smith until the time came to make the final switch to a candidate whose nomination appeared inevitable, whether McAdoo or some dark horse.

"New York," said the State's national committeeman, Norman E. Mack, "is absolutely uncommitted, except that it will be for Al Smith on the early ballots—how many, I do not know. It has not taken its stand for or against any candidate. Undoubtedly there will be conferences after the convention adjourns tonight between the leaders and between representatives of the various candidates. But I do not think that any move will be made to radically affect the situation or the prospects of any candidate in the race until one or possibly two or three ballots have been taken."

"Do you look for a deadlock in the convention?" Mr. Mack was asked.

"It would be difficult to tell," he replied. "Palmer and Cox have considerable strength and are not likely to give way, nor are they likely at any time to let their delegates go to McAdoo if they can prevent it. Personally, however, I look for the nomination of a candidate for President by tomorrow night. It should not take longer.

"The nomination of a candidate for second place will follow rapidly. It never takes a long time to pick a candidate for Vice President. It will be a question of geography chiefly. If an Eastern man heads the ticket a man from the West will be named for second place, and vice versa."

Cummings Boom Looking Up.

Besides Ambassador Davis, Vice President Marshall and ex-Speaker Champ Clark, there has loomed among the dark horses Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the National Committee, whose keynote speech fixed the attention of the convention on him.

Mr. Cummings at first had a boom which was regarded as purely in the "favorite son" category, bound to evaporate before the balloting had been very long in progress. His eloquent address as Temporary Chairman has changed his status, and now he is looked upon as a dark horse that gives some promise of a creditable performance when the balloting is started.

There are those who suggest that if the McAdoo boom should fade Mr. Cummings might be the man best in position to unite the Administration forces now at daggers' points with those backing such candidates as Palmer and Cox. As National Chairman Mr. Cummings has been compelled to maintain an attitude of strict neutrality as between candidates, and this has placed him in a position where he can claim the good-will of all the rival aspirants and the leaders backing them.

Ex-Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio, a delegate at large and supporter of Cox, said tonight he looked for a deadlock.

"It seems to me," he remarked, "that the Administration is deliberately trying to bring about a deadlock for the purpose of slipping in a dark horse."

Smith are expected from Massachusetts, Illinois, Wisconsin and several Southern States, while a majority of the New Jersey delegation is expected to vote for him, if they decide to drop Governor Edwards.

Mayor Lunn has been considering the advisability of announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. If he does, it is said, he will run in the primaries regardless of any slate which may be made up at the coming unofficial State convention. Mr. Farley said this convention probably would be held the first week in August in New York City or Albany.

Governor Smith now seems certain to be a candidate for re-election. This has been stated definitely by Mr. Fitzgerald, and Bourke Cockran in nominating Smith asserted New York would demand that he run again for Governor if he was not named for first place on the national ticket.

There is some talk even among the Tammany leaders of nominating Mr. Roosevelt for Senator. The latter has fought Tammany here, but his tactics have caused no bitterness. There is a belief in Tammany circles that Roosevelt might make a strong stand and help the Democratic ticket in New York State. There are twelve Judgeships at stake this Fall in New York County, and if it should seem likely that the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt would save them, it might be made.

Norman E. Mack, National Committeeman, has been suggested, but any movement that may develop for him will await the return of the leaders to New York.

A report was received by members of the New York delegation tonight that Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby might be the selection of the Administration forces as their candidate for President if McAdoo should fail to get the nomination. Colby, it was said, would be likely to get the support of New York in that event. He is personally popular with many of the Tammany leaders and has become stronger with them because of his advocacy of a wet plank.

UNOFFICIAL DOINGS OF THE DELEGATES

Crowds Block Hotel Corridors When Palmer and Other Notables Appear.

TEXAN SHOWS REAL MONEY

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Through the lobbies of the big hotels great crowds make their way, aimlessly for the most part, bent apparently on seeing what there is to be seen. The gathering is smaller at the Fairmont, up on top of Nob Hill, near the homes of the wealthy. Here Charles F. Murphy and some of his intimates in the Tammany delegation are living, but Murphy has a room in the Palace Hotel where he holds conferences. It is a fashionably dressed throng that one finds at the Fairmount. Interest in convention doings is greater at the St. Francis, not far away. Its spacious lobby is filled as a rule with politicians and others who are attending the convention.

The Palace, located on that broad thoroughfare, Market Street, is the centre of most of the interest to convention participants and visitors. A broad corridor runs from one end of the hotel to the other, and this is packed with visitors for the greater part of the day up to midnight. In one of the big dining rooms young men and young women are dancing and eating, indifferent to interesting scenes taking place in the corridors.

A tall, well-built man with a shock of hair passes along the corridor with a handsome woman on his arm. Somebody addresses him as "Attorney General." He stops and chats with his acquaintance.

Then he is addressed by another as "Mr. Palmer." People in the crowd catch the name and stop and look at a real live Presidential candidate. The crowd thickens, impelling passage, until the Attorney General and Mrs. Palmer move along.

"My dear fellow, delighted, I'm sure." People turn around to observe the speaker and then pause to examine him carefully. He wears a check suit, spats, a rakish looking soft hat, and carries a walking stick. His whiskers, worn in a style now practically obsolete, are turning white. "Jim Ham Lewis," whisper the onlookers. The former Senator from Illinois, who has been a picturesque figure at many Democratic national conventions, is introduced right and left. He acknowledges introductions with courtly bows and says pleasant things to everybody.

Mr. Lewis is a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination, but his boom has not been advertised much in San Francisco and few in the crowd know that he is seeking this high office.

A handsome woman in evening dress, wearing a badge reading "Mac'l. Do," makes her way slowly along the corridor. She is Mrs. Borden Harriman of New York and Washington. She stops to talk with General Bethel, Military Attaché of the British Embassy, and Sir Arthur Willert, American correspondent of The London Times.

A young-looking man with an attractive face wends his way through the crowd with a pretty young woman who seems to know many of the passersby. They are Mr. and Mrs. James Thomson of New Orleans. Mrs. Thomson is the daughter of Champ Clark, the "Genevieve" of the Baltimore Convention. A bright-faced young fellow in gray clothes gets a cordial greeting from her as he approaches. This is her brother, Bennett Clark, who served as a Lieutenant Colonel of a Missouri regiment in the World War and saw active service in the Argonne.

A whisper goes through the crowd. Eyes turn to watch the Chief of Tammany Hall as he makes his way as rapidly as possible to the elevator, which he takes to his conference room on an upper floor of the hotel. With him is Representative Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of the Tammany organization. Some bold spirits stop Mr. Murphy to tell him that he's a great Democrat. Mr. Murphy smiles, says a word of acknowledgment and passes on. He seems in a hurry.

Here comes Al Moore, National Committeeman from Ohio and manager of the Cox boom. Wilbur W. Marshall of Iowa, Treasurer of the National Committee, speaks a cheery word to friends. Ex-Governor Richard I. Manning of South Carolina, who had six sons in the World War, moves quietly through the throng. Vance C. McCormick, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, stops at the telegraph desk to send a telegram. Homer S. Cummings, present Chairman of the committee, finds it difficult to make his way, so many want to say a word in his ear. Behind him is his constant companion, William J. Cockran, publicity director of the National Committee, who works most of the time.

Vice President Marshall is another who knows many. He stops to chat with a group of Indianians, and tells them stories that call out much laughter. Ex-Senator Saulsbury of Delaware finds his progress impeded by people who insist that he is Senator Walsh of Montana.

Franklin Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in evening clothes, is greeted by Senator Henderson of Nevada, also in evening clothes. Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint, who married the widow of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, waves his hand airily to friends who call him "Ray."

Governors of States, ex-Governors, Senators and ex-Senators, a host of members of the House of Representatives, politicians of national reputation, politicians not known outside their own States, naval officers from the Pacific fleet, white trousered member of a club from Ohio who have come to San Francisco to root for their favorite son, good-looking girls with the rosy complexions that this climate brings—all sorts and conditions of men and women appear in the passing throng that the convention brings forth to see and be seen.

For the first time today real money was seen on the convention floor. A bald-headed Texas delegate stepped out in front just as Chairman Robinson was calling the session to order, and, waving a little roll of greenbacks clutched in his right hand, shouted:

"I'll bet every cent of this that Mitchell Palmer's nominated, and I'll have to walk back to Texas if I lose."

"I'd take you if walking wasn't so bad," shouted back a McAdoo man.

Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, on his way to the private meeting of the Resolutions Committee this morning, was halted by a large policeman who already had a crowd of newspaper men, propagandists and mere delegates banked up in front of him.

"Can't get through here," said the policeman. "Private hearing."

"But I'm a member of the committee," the Secretary expostulated.

"That's what they all say."

"But he's also Secretary of State," said somebody in the group.

"Huh, that's a new one," and the Sergeant in charge of the police detail went back to see if the committee was looking for a Secretary of State.

As assistant sergeant at arms recognized Mr. Colby at that moment and he got in.

"The next man," the policeman remarked, skeptically, "will tell me that's the President of France and he just fell out of his Pullman.

Readers of one of the San Francisco morning papers who looked eagerly this morning for the latest from the convention saw an eight-column headline: "Three Die in Blazing Airplane."

"We women are interested in politics," remarked Mrs. George Bass of Illinois at one of the breakfasts held daily by feminine convention delegates in the Palace Hotel. "We mention candidates only after and incidental to politics."

She went on to say that she had attended in San Francisco many luncheons, teas, dinners and meetings, and all the conversation among women at all these gatherings had concerned the serious business of the Democratic Convention.

Open meeting on behalf of Governor Cox was being held in the big room in the Palace Hotel labeled "Cox Headquarters." A spellbinder was telling the ability and character of Ohio's Governor.

"And now I ask you," he said, "who will be the next President of the United States?"

"Warren G. Harding," shouted a large man who had found a means of violating the Volstead law and had violated it violently. There was a near-riot.

The State standards, which at the beginning of things were set in orderly and precise array, suffered badly in yesterday's demonstration. They looked this morning as if they had had a hard night, and then just had straggled in and stood up in any old place.

It is astonishing how many things candidate fans can find to wave during a convention demonstration. Here is a partial census taken after a glance about the auditorium while a McAdoo noise feast was on: American flags, handkerchiefs, men's and women's hats, "he'll do" hatbands, State standards, whole and in pieces, newspapers, badges, eyeglasses, lead pencils, canes, assorted packages, pieces of campaign literature, megaphones, flowers and pennants bearing the names of half a dozen different candidates.

A visitor who seemed to be in a great hurry approached the Secretary of the National Committee, Mr. Hoffman, and inquired:

"Got any tickets for the auditorium left over?"

"What kind are you for?" asked Hoffman, stalling for time and thinking to identify the caller. "What the —," the other exploded, puffing with irritation. He finally said he was the convention Chairman, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and he got his tickets at once.

An American sailor who managed to gain access to the convention floor this morning made his way to the edge of the press stand, clutched eagerly at a newspaper man's arm, and in awe-stricken tones pointed to a man sitting in front of the seats reserved for special visitors, and asked:

"Mister, is that Mr. William Jennings Bryan sitting over there?"

He was pointing straight at his own "boss," Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, who sat all unconscious of what some would call the compliment.

The old-time Irish humor which has disappeared in a good many quarters and given place to the bitterness inspired by setbacks in political controversies reappeared occasionally in the Irish caucus today.

When, on the roll call of States for the nomination of members of the Steering Committee, the Secretary came to Mississippi, somebody proposed John Sharp Williams.

The name of the only Senator who voted against the Senate's resolution of sympathy for Ireland in the last session, provoked a deal of laughter. There was more a moment later when the Secretary came to Nebraska.

"Bryan says he's descended from Brian Boru," said the Chairman, John J. Fitzgerald, "but I guess it's mostly Boru."

The demonstration for Governor Alfred E. Smith at the convention has caused a great interest to be taken in him by San Franciscans. This was shown today, when the Governor went to a leather store to buy sets of pony harness for his children—incidentally paying $18 apiece. When he gave his name, the clerk excused himself and returned with the proprietor, who shook hands and said he had attended the convention the day before.

"I am a Republican," the harness-maker said, "and I am not entirely satisfied with the nominee of my party. The demonstration for you was the greatest thing I ever saw, and I believe you are the best man the Democrats could nominate."

"I always had many friends among Republicans," replied the Governor. "I suspect that I have many more Republican friends than I will have votes in the Democratic convention."

of the Irish cause and said that the plank for recognition of the republic had been turned down by the Resolutions Committee, but expressed the hope that something satisfactory in the way of a compromise would be forthcoming. Irish freedom and American liberty came in for the peroration. The audience did not seem at first to realize that the Senator was failing to give the Irish extremists much comfort, and he was about to leave the hall when Thomas Brown, a State Senator of New Jersey, shouted: "What are we going to get?"

There was more noise, and Mr. Walsh at last managed to make his exit, after observing that a resolution had been offered to the Resolutions Committee in an attempt to satisfy the friends of Ireland, but without telling exactly what it was. When he had gone, the meeting decided to take a recess until evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1 (Associated Press)—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, who came out of the Resolutions Committee and addressed the caucus of Irish sympathizers, today said:

"There is no secret about the fact that the Committee has voted not to accept the plank on Ireland offered by the representatives of the Irish people gathered here, and that it has adopted a substitute."

Under the principle of self-determination, voiced by President Wilson, he said, he would continue to support efforts to get the convention to declare for recognition of Ireland.

"The finest speech before the Resolutions Committee," continued Senator Walsh, "was made by a Filipino who said the Philippine Islands wanted independence even though the United States could do more for them than they can do for themselves. When I left the Committee they were discussing what America can do for the suffering population of Armenia."

WILSON MEN ACCEPT CHANGE

a proposal which was accepted by the Administration leaders. William J. Bryan's plea for immediate ratification with reservations approved by a majority of the Senate, and all amendment proposed by opposition Senators, were rejected.

Irish Republic Issue—The proposal of the champions of Irish independence for the recognition of the "existing Irish Republic" were rejected by an overwhelming vote; but the Administration proposal that sympathy for Irish independence be linked with a declaration that Ireland's grievances be submitted to the League of Nations for determination was also rejected, leaving in the platform a mere expression of sympathy for the Irish people in their struggle for independence.

Soldier Bonus—The sub-committee's suggestion that the party should oppose a cash bonus for soldiers of the late war was accepted after long debate, the platform's expression on this subject advocating generosity for disabled soldiers, but declaring against heavy bond issues to pay compensation which would put "patriotism on a pecuniary basis."

Armenian Mandate—The Administration suggestion that the party approve the acceptance by the United States of the mandate for Armenia was rejected—a victory for William J. Bryan, who eloquently addressed the committee on the unwisdom of the United States interfering in the domestic affairs of a foreign Power.

Department of Education—The committee rejected the proposal of the Administration leaders for the establishment of a department of education with an official at its head who would be a member of the Cabinet.

Minority reports are expected on the League of Nations and Irish issues which will throw them into the convention for debate. The same thing was assured with respect to the prohibition issue, no matter what might be the final decision of the Resolutions Committee.

The outstanding result of the all-night wrangle was that Mr. Bryan had paved the way for his fight on the convention floor. Routed at every turn, he finds himself confronted in the committee, and perhaps also on the floor, with a body of Democrats determined to support the Administration and to follow the leadership of Wilson in formulating all the party's policies.

Walsh's Amendment Accepted.

Last night's session showed that there were two bitter opponents to ratification of the treaty without reservations acceptable to the Senate majority, Mr. Bryan and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, who occupied three hours in presenting their argument against acceptance of the Wilson-Glass plank. As a concession to the middle-of-the-road elements, Senator Glass and Secretary Colby finally agreed to accept an amendment to the treaty plank offered by Mr. Walsh. But the new phrases accorded entirely with President Wilson's position favoring only interpretative reservations.

The amendment, adopted by a vote of 32 to 18, reads:

"But we do not oppose reservations which may make more clear or specific our obligations to the associated nations."

This was added to next to the last paragraph in the Treaty plank, the vital one, which, as amended, reads:

"We indorse the President's view of our international obligations and commend Democrats in Congress for voting against reservations designed to cut to pieces the vital provisions of the Versailles Treaty and against resolutions for a separate peace, which would disgrace the nation. We advocate prompt ratification of the Treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity, but we do not oppose reservations which would make more clear or specific our obligations to the associated nations."

Bryan's Substitute Voted Down.

Mr. Bryan's substitute plank, declaring for immediate ratification which reservations acceptable to the majority, as well as similar planks offered by Senators Walsh of Montana and Pomerene of Ohio, were defeated. They commanded only from ten to twelve votes.

The acceptance of the amendment was characterized subsequently by Mr. Colby as "only reiterating what President Wilson has contended for from the very start, interpretative reservations which will explain this country's position, but not cut to pieces the heart of the covenant." He and Senator Glass interpreted it as an Administration victory, and Senator Walsh, its author, admitted that it was not at variance with President Wilson's views.

Mr. Bryan was the storm centre of the debates. He was at times militant, at others appealed to his colleagues, and frequently, as the night wore on and the situation impressed itself upon him more strongly, became bitter and threatening. But with it all he did not attack the President, nor did he threaten to bolt the party. Finally, as one after another of his suggestions was voted down, his old-time militancy dwindled. His flights of oratory did not win one vote. The scintillating replies of Secretary Colby and the short, characteristic and sometimes caustic defense of Senator Glass furnished to the tired committeemen an occasional relief.

When the committee adjourned in the small hours of the morning the bitterness that had been stirred up reposed only in the soul of Bryan. He appeared to be depressed not so much, it is believed, because of his failure in this specific case, but because he saw his influence as a factor in Democratic politics finally replaced by another's.

The committee did not get much sleep. It resumed its session at 9 o'clock with the Irish question, the soldier bonus and prohibition still not discused in a definite way. Senator Glass was requested to give Frank P. Walsh, representing the Friends of Irish Freedom, a brief hearing. This was refused. Mr. Walsh issued a statement in which he said the plank presented by the sub-committee was "cold and arbitrary and a denial of the appeal of millions of your fellow-citizens, regardless of race, to uphold the finest traditions of America by unequivocally declaring in favor of the recognition of the existing Irish Republic."

An hour later, when the committee was called upon to pass upon the Irish plank, W. Bourke Cockran succeeded in eliminating one section of the Administration proposal which favored referring the Irish question to the Governing Board of the League of Nations and instructing the delegates of the United States, if and when named, to favor freedom of Ireland before the League Council.

The Irish plank as finally adopted expresses deep sympathy for the Irish people.

Bryan supported Mr. Cockran in his attack upon the Irish plank. Both of them also opposed with vehemence the plank favoring the United States taking a mandate for Armenia. The mandate plank was defeated by a vote of 40 to 10, and the platform will say nothing on that subject.

Cockran Argues Against Armaments.

In the all-night session and again this morning Mr. Cockran, while not disagreeing strongly with the Administration's treaty declaration, insisted upon an amplification of the plank to prevent the nations becoming powerful through heavy armaments. The committee agreed that Mr. Cockran's proposition should be considered later, and indications are that at least the idea will be adopted.

Mr. Cockran's proposal follows:

"The steadily increasing cost of living is among the grave consequences of war, and unless checked it must entail on the world the greatest calamity in all its history. The only remedy lies in driving from the face of the earth war and all prospect of war.

"The exhaustion caused by four years of conflict render recurrence of a world war during this generation exceedingly improbable, if not wholly impossible. But huge military establishments are still maintained by many large nations; much larger armaments are projected, and these preparations for war are proving themselves to be as devastating as war itself.

"Prices since the armistice have been rising even more rapidly than during the war. Taxation, instead of being reduced, is increasing. The necessaries of life are growing even scarcer—a scarcity which, if aggravated, becomes famine; and pestilence always follows fast upon the heels of famine. Already both are ravaging countries which formerly were the fairest, the happiest and the most prosperous of the Old World. Since November, 1918, deaths caused by pestilence and famine vastly exceed the number of men who fell in all the battles of the World War. Populations of great European cities have shrunk to small fractions of their former dimensions, and the survivors are plagued in miseries so abject that the human mind cannot bear to contemplate the obvious.

"It is because men and women everywhere throughout the world believe they see these twin spectres of starvation and disease approaching steadily that the whole fabric of civilization from Paris to Tokio is reeling on its foundations and in imminent peril of total collapse.

"Unless these calamities can be ended in the countries which they are now desolating, they must inevitably extend over all countries. Already they are casting sinister shadows over the whole world. Even in this country, which escaped the direct ravages of war, conditions of life have become so different that a weekly wage of $40 has now but the purchasing power of $16 five years ago.

"There is but one way by which the scarcity of commodities which threatens universal famine can be replaced by an abundance which will bring about a fall in prices. Every pair of human hands and every dollar of capital remaining in this world must be enlisted immediately and exclusively in productive industry; none diverted to war or preparations for war.

"The world must disarm or the world must perish. Partial disarmament or future disarmament will not suffice to avert irretrievable disaster. Disarmament, immediate, universal and complete, is the absolute essential of deliverance from the perils that overhang humanity.

"It is the most glorious feature of the victory for justice achieved by our arms that by reason of it the American democracy has become the force through which universal disarmament may be effected.

"This moment all countries lately engaged in war, no matter how widely they may be divided by distance or purpose, are a unit in declaring that unless we assist them to re-establish their industrial life they cannot hope to escape bankruptcy and ruin.

"We pledge to every nation which has been devastated by the war the utmost aid which the United States can afford, subject only to one condition: It must first employ every dollar of its own resources in restoring its industry. We shall extend no assistance to any country while the smallest fraction of its own treasury is wasted on war or preparation for war.

"If, however, any country or countries should establish great armaments and succeed in maintaining them without our aid, then this country must outarm any and all of them. For in the light of all the events leading to the Great War, it is evident that when any country maintains huge arms no country can afford to remain unprepared for military action; and this country, having the most extensive possessions, must maintain the largest armed forces to protect them.

"For the first time in the history of mankind, Almighty God has so ordered events that the nation capable of maintaining the greatest military establishment in the world abhors armament and desires only that all nations join it in discarding armaments. The power we possess to create armaments we will exercise to prevent armaments. We will be first in disarmament if other nations allow us; we will be first in armament if they make us.

"The power of this country to maintain the largest armament in the world not being open to question, it is unthinkable that any other country would risk bankrupting its own people to maintain a military establishment which at the best could secure for it but second place in an armed world, and second place is the only one that would be open to the strongest of them when we elected to take first place.

Discussion Fatal to War.

"In a world unarmed no nation could engage in war without preparations that would require at least three years to complete. Disputes will undoubtedly continue to arise. With nations, as with individuals, there are but two ways of treating a dispute. One is to fight about it; the other is talk about it. Where fighting would be impossible for three years, discussion would be inevitable.

"Such discussions conducted intelligently would be the strongest barrier against war. To make them effective, all civilized nations would inevitably form a league for the purpose of establishing tribunals before which everything controversial could be sifted, and the merits determined. All history shows that peace can never be permanent unless it rests on justice. The whole law and gospel of international justice will be found embodied in the conditions which President Wilson, at the close of the war, declared to be the essentials of permanent peace. No war was ever waged for any other purpose than to violate some principle of those Fourteen Points which while the world lasts will remain the clearest and most complete exposition ever formulated of the moral law which should govern the relations of nations with each other.

"We favor, therefore, and demand, immediate ratification of the Treaty of Versailles with such interpretative reservations as may be found necessary or advisable in order that it shall become a sure means of incorporating the Fourteen Points which President Wilson described as the essentials of peace in the permanent international law of civilization."

Mr. Cockran said that he would consent to eliminate the last section of the proposed plank and was hopeful that the idea would be written into the treaty plank or another dealing with the high cost of living.

Just before taking recess at 7:40 P. M. the Resolutions Committee rejected Mr. Cockran's proposal.

Tackles Prohibition.

At 5 o'clock this evening the committee had completed the consideration of the controversial subjects, including the treaty and the Irish plank, and sat down, after sandwiches and hot coffee, to tackle what was admitted to be the subject of bitterest difference, the prohibition question.

The sub-committee had failed to recommend any plank on this subject, but its attitude had been against a specific statement. The three planks considered by the sub-committee had been laid on the table and referred to the full committee for action. These, briefly, were as follows:

Bryan's dry plank, declaring for a rigid enforcement of the law and against any change in the definition of the alcoholic content of prohibited beverages; committing the party to a program supporting to the last letter the Volstead act defining as intoxicating any beverage containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol.

The plank submitted in behalf of the Anti-Saloon League of Senator McKellar of Tennessee, urging the rigid enforcement of prohibition.

The so-called Administration compromise plank, which the moists would be willing to accept, prepared by Senator Glass. This declares against the open saloon, favors support of the Eighteenth Amendment, and promises to uphold its enforcement.

It had been said last night that the three proposed planks included one which was entirely wet, but no such plank was offered. The wets lost hope several days ago of getting a plank declaring outright for their side, and they have concentrated their efforts in support of the Glass plank. While, as previously pointed out, there is a distinctive wet atmosphere among the delegates in private discussion, many of them do not have the courage to back their wishes when it comes to going on the record which will be read by their dry constituents at home.

The opinion of the best-informed leaders before the committee finished its work tonight was that the platform as recommended would be silent on prohibition, and thereby place Mr. Bryan in a position where he could effectively conduct a fight in the convention for his dry plank. If this course is followed, it is pointed out, Bryan will have all the wets, a majority of the convention, against him, as well as the moderates. He goes to the floor, therefore, without a great following. The Administration forces do not expect that he can sway the convention at any stage of the proceedings.

Just before the night session began he made it known that he would present a minority report, both on the treaty and the prohibition question, with the prospect of precipitating a debate lasting far into the night. W. Bourke Cockran was ready to lead the wets on the floor.

At 8:40 o'clock tonight, just after the convention was called to order, it was stated that Bryan's fight in the Resolutions Committee for a straight dry plank was in a bad way. Bryan, it was said, was prepared to accept no plank at all if that was the best he could do, while James R. Nugent of New Jersey, a leader of the wets and of the anti-Bryan forces, was battling for the semi-wet plank which was submitted by Carter Glass and was supposed to have the support of the Wilson Administration. This plank has been published, in substance, in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Wine and Beer Plank Rejected.

At 11:15 P. M. it was announced that Governor Ritchie's proposed plank favoring beer and light wines had been voted down by a vote of 39 to 11.

The Resolutions Committee had not yet taken up Mr. Bryan's dry plank or the compromise proposal prepared by Secretary Glass.

Senator Glass was scheduled as pilot of the Administration forces in support of the report of the committee, assisted by Secretary Colby and Cone Johnson of Texas, former Solicitor in the State Department under Bryan.

William J. Bryan will urge on the convention floor the adoption of his bone-dry plank, after the wets and Administration forces have decided to support a plank that remains silent on prohibition. Secretary Colby will defend the position of silence.

Indications, in short, are that the committee will report a platform which does not mention prohibition.

Show Enmity Toward Bryan.

At 9:50 P. M. the anti-Bryan fight on the part of the Administrationists in the Resolutions Committee is said to be relentless. The Wilson adherents are said to be quietly but grimly determined to see that Bryan gets hurt. This enmity, which, it is said, bears the stamp of approval of the President, dates back at least to the Jackson Day Dinner in Washington on Jan. 8 of this year, when Bryan openly came out against Wilson on the League of Nations issue.

Bryan is said to have been beaten in the Resolutions Committee tonight on the question of a bonus for soldiers and sailors. The Commoner had his plan and Carter Glass had another program for the Administration. Glass won his fight. The details of the proposed planks are withheld.

The Resolutions Committee at 10:30 had completed consideration of all the platform planks except that on prohibition. This appears to be the greatest bone of contention, and the committee will not complete the platform until long after midnight.

Senator Glass said that the committee might complete the platform by 1 A. M., and that it would be released for publication in the afternoon newspapers.

Pro-Irish Caucus for Floor Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1 (Associated Press).—Aside from the wet and dry issue the biggest fight in the full Resolutions Committee today was centred on the Irish plank. Overruling its subcommittee, the committee threw out the Administration plank proposing to leave the Irish problem to the League of Nations and adopted in its stead a declaration of sympathy and a pledge to take whatever diplomatic action would be in consonance with international comity.

In making their decision the platform makers also rejected by a 2 to 1 vote the plank proposed by organized Irish sympathizers and backed by a caucus of about 200 convention delegates, for diplomatic recognition of the "Irish Republic."

At the same time, in an adjoining room, the caucus laid plans for carrying its fight to the convention floor.

But, while prospects for floor fights on prohibition and the Irish problem were increasing, all likelihood that the League of Nations also would be the subject of open hostilities virtually disappeared. The word was passed around that most of the Administration's chiefs here were content to let the League plank stand as it was when it emerged from last night's stormy committee meeting.

Among the other planks completed during the day was that relating to woman suffrage, the committee after a long argument following the advice of the sub-committee by approving an appeal to Democratic officials in Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida for quick action on the suffrage amendment.

The sub-committee's plank on Armenia was rejected by the full committee. The plank is understood to have declared that the United States should consider it a duty to see that complete independence and order were guaranteed to the new Armenian Republic.

The committee, however, by an overwhelming vote adopted a substitute plank offered by Senator Beckham of Kentucky, expressing sympathy for the Armenian people and promising assistance so far as it should be considered possible and proper. The Beckham substitute received forty votes, with about a dozen reported in the negative.

To make certain that the committee's disagreements should be kept in absolute confidence, Senator Glass, the Chairman, banished newspaper men and spectators to more distant bounds as the day advanced, throwing a cordon of police across hallways and other approaches to the committee room. He also enjoined all the members to strict secrecy regarding the subjects discussed and the action taken.

At 7:40 o'clock the Platform Committee, which was to have made its report to the convention at 8, took a recess for an hour, just as it was starting on the prohibition question. This action precluded any report to the convention at the hour expected.

The committee has virtually closed its work without including any prohibition plank in the platform, and the recess for an hour was for the purpose of giving William J. Bryan another opportunity to present a prohibition plank. Whether Mr. Bryan would stick to his original bone-dry plank or offer another was not disclosed.

THE PLATFORM SUMMARIZED.

Minor Declarations as Presented by Resolutions Sub-Committee.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1 (Associated Press).—With the exception of the three contested subjects—the League of Nations, the Irish question and prohibition—the platform declarations as submitted by the sub-committee to the full Committee on Resolutions may be summarized as follows:

PREAMBLE.

Sends greeting to President Wilson, commending his achievements in the interest of the country and of the whole world. Condemns in general terms the Republican Congress.

CONDUCT OF THE WAR.

Praises the Administration's conduct of the war, commending the patriotic efforts of American citizens to aid the Government and praises the military and naval forces, with mention of General Pershing by name.

FINANCE.

Again incorporates the language of the Virginia Democrats in extolling the Federal Reserve system and the financing of the war and in condemning the Republicans for extravagance.

TAXATION.

Criticises the Republican Congress for failing to revise wartime tax schedules and demands a survey of tax conditions by the coming Congress. Denies Republican claims of economy, declaring that no money was saved except at the expense of the efficiency of Government bureaus.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Blames diminished production for high prices and declares the Republicans are responsible in that they delayed peace and failed to provide the President with necessary legislation.

WAR INVESTIGATIONS.

Condemns the Republicans for their use of appropriations in investigating the conduct of the war.

PROFITEERING.

Pledges the party to enactment and enforcement of such legislation as may be required to bring profiteers before the bar of criminal justice.

TARIFF.

Re-affirms Democratic tariff doctrines and declares for a research on the subject by a non-partisan commission.

BUDGET.

Defends President Wilson's veto of the budget bill and advocates a budget system partly under direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, with consolidated auditing.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Commends Democratic Administration of the postal service and makes a blanket declaration for higher salaries for postal employes. Advocates greater use of motor vehicles in transportation of mail and extension of the parcel post.

FREE SPEECH.

Declares for free speech and for free press except in so far as it may attack the life of the nation.

AGRICULTURE.

Praises the Democratic record in establishing farm loan banks and other farm legislation. Indorses collective bargaining and researches into production costs.

LABOR.

Follows the Virginia plank in declaring that strikes and lockouts should not jeopardize the paramount public interests, but adds a statement of opposition to compulsory arbitration. Favors readjustment of salaries of Government employes.

SUFFRAGE.

Congratulates Legislatures that have ratified the suffrage amendment and urges Democratic Governors and Legislatures of Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida to complete ratification in time for women to vote this Fall.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY.

Declaring against child labor, favors legislation for child welfare and maternity care. Advocates increases in teachers' salaries. Urges extension of vocational education, better conditions for working women and reclassification of the civil service with a view to equality of the sexes.

Indorses separate citizenship for married women.

SOLDIER COMPENSATION.

Advocates generosity to disabled soldiers, but declares against excessive bond issues to pay compensation which would put patriotism on a pecuniary basis.

RAILROADS.

Commends Federal administration of railroads during the war, declaring that it was efficient and economical, despite inadequate and worn equipment. Criticises the recently enacted Transportation act and says Congress temporized until so late a date that the President was forced to sign the bill or else throw the railroad situation into chaos.

HIGHWAYS.

Favors continuance of Federal aid in road building.

INLAND WATERWAYS.

Calls the Republican plank inadequate and advocates further development of adequate transportation on rivers and further improvement of inland waterways. Recognizes the importance of connecting the Great Lakes with the Mississippi as well as with the St. Lawrence.

FOREIGN TRADE.

Favors extension of foreign trade.

MERCHANT MARINE.

Pledges the party to a policy of continued improvement of the merchant marine under proper legislation.

RECLAMATION.

Advocates extension of arid land reclamation with a view to home building.

MEXICO.

Deplores the misfortunes of the Mexican people and upholds President Wilson's Mexican policy, declaring that as a consequence order is reappearing in Mexico. Advocates recognition of the new Mexican Government when it has proved its ability to maintain order.

ARMENIA.

Declares it the duty of the American Government to aid in the establishment of order and complete independence for Armenia.

ALASKA.

Commends the Democratic Administration for railroad construction and coal and oil development. Advocates the modification of the coal law to facilitate development and also the extension of the Farm Loan act to Alaska.

PHILIPPINES.

Declares for Philippine independence without unnecessary delay when the islands are ready for self-government.

HAWAII.

Advocates a liberal policy toward Hawaii, with greater development of the rights and privileges of the middle classes.

CORRUPT PRACTICES.

Deplores the pre-convention expenditures of Republican Presidential candidates and advocates regulation of such expenditures by Federal law.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

Praises the administration of the commission and advocates amplification of its work.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

M'ADOO IS ATTACKED IN ANONYMOUS LEAFLET

Circular in San Francisco Charged He Would Be Driven Off Ticket by Slush Fund Disclosure.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—An attack upon William G. McAdoo was made here tonight in an anonymous circular which charged that he would be driven off the ticket, if nominated, by disclosures that large sums of money had been used to further his candidacy.

The circular states that the Senate committee which investigated pre-convention campaign expenses had stopped short after it had shown large expenditures for General Wood and Governor Lowden, Republican candidates, but intended to resume the investigation if Mr. McAdoo should obtain the Democratic nomination.

Copies were being distributed just outside the Palace Hotel by a boy when Judge E. H. Moore of Ohio, campaign manager for Governor Cox, read one that was handed to him and told the boy that he must stop the distribution. The boy said he had been paid to distribute them. A crowd gathered. The matter was finally settled by a man from New York, named Gillespie, who bought the bundle of 400 or 500.

The boy, upon being questioned, said he had obtained the circulars from a man whose name he did not know, but who, he said, wore a delegate's badge. A further investigation will be made.

The circular read:

WHY THE UNITED STATES SENATE INVESTIGATION IS HELD IN ABEYANCE.

Why did the Republican National Convention refuse to nominate Wood or Lowden?

Because the Senate Investigating Committee turned up evidence that showed great sums of money had been spent or pledged to secure Wood or Lowden's nomination.

Why did this same Republican Senate suddenly halt this investigation, stopping short, when it is well known by those on the inside—the leaders of the Republican Party—that secret pledges of great sums have been made by certain persons who made millions out of the war to secure the Democratic nomination for W. G. McAdoo?

Because the Republican managers' program is to take up the testimony on the McAdoo slush fund pledges immediately after the San Francisco Convention finishes its work.

McAdoo will be driven off the ticket within ninety days by this suspended investigation, and no one who is substituted for him will be able to get rid of this nightmare before election day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Nothing developed during the investigation of primary campaign expenditures by the special investigating committee of the Senate to support the statement made in the anonymous circular circulated in San Francisco.

If such information has reached those "on the inside," as described in the Palace Hotel circular, it had not been openly disclosed before the Senate committee, which, as a matter of fact, was unable to find that any money had been raised for the McAdoo campaign or that there had been any promise of money. The Senate investigating committee met until the adjournment of Congress sine die on June 5.

On the last day of the session the Senate adopted the Pomerene resolution to continue the investigation of campaign expenses until the general elections in November. The Pomerene resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote, just one minute before the final adjournment of the Senate.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, Chairman of the investigating committee, announced after the adoption of the resolution that the sub-committee would resume its investigation after the Republican and Democratic National Conventions had ended.

Acting on the theory that the San Francisco Convention would be over by July 4 at the latest, Senator Kenyon fixed July 7 as the date for the meeting of the sub-committee and Chicago as the place for the hearing.

THE WORLD'S BUSINESS

THE business of the world has been done upon CRANE'S Paper for nearly one hundred years. The paper money of 22 nations, including our own, the government bonds of 18 nations, including our own, the stock issues of a very large part of all railroad, public service and industrial corporations, are engraved upon CRANE'S Paper.

Mills that can meet the strenuous needs of paper for paper money and long-lived securities, are certainly able to make paper for business correspondence fine enough, strong enough and good enough to justify a business house in using it for business correspondence.

GLOOM FINDS ACTION AT LAST WITH IRISH

Old-Time Indiana Democrat Has His Most Exciting Afternoon Since Civil War Days.

ATTENDS THE IRISH CAUCUS

Amazed by Parliamentary Accomplishments — Comments on Rising Moral Standards.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—"Well, my good friend," said Godfrey G. Gloom, the old-time Indiana Democrat, to a TIMES correspondent who met him at the lunch counter in the Exposition Auditorium this afternoon, 'I got a piece of news for you. I just come from this Irish caucus that got together to line up the delegates for the Irish Republic. Long as I see you wasn't there thought I'd tell you about it.

"No, I'm not Irish myself, but my old friend Marcarius Aloysius McGurk of this city took me in with him. He said he felt he owed it to me because he tried to get me seats for the Dempsey-Willard fight and couldn't do it.

"Well, sir, after this Irish caucus I don't regret it a bit. Anybody that seen at meeting would be impressed with he political talent of that great race. No other race that I know of could vote simultaneously on six motions, pass them all and still leave seven more before the house.

"Yes, there was some oratory yesterday in the convention hall—at least 600 miles by linear measure, I should say—but the oratory that was poured out on behalf of two dozen candidates, more or less, was nothing compared with the oratory that these Irish expended on a subject on which they were all agreed before the oratory started. Linear measure wouldn't measure it; it was cubic; it piled and accumulated until its billowing masses rose miles into the atmosphere.

"There was a Judge Sullivan of Salem who said that this meeting might lead a stranger to think that the Irish couldn't govern themselves. That was a very insidious remark, it seemed to me, and a woman behind me said she'd bet he was descended from one of them old witch-burning families. But the question whether the Irish can govern themselves is beside the point; this meeting proved that they are admirably fitted to govern others. No man of any other race but would have set down and let the Irish heel drive itself into his neck after fifteen minutes of that—anything to make the orators shut up. Why, men stood up there in that little room, with only 300 people to talk to, and put on quavers that sounded like the tremelo stop in the Auditorium organ.

Estimate of Dunne and Walsh.

"It ain't everybody that can rise up in a little committee room and sound as if he was talking to 20,000 people from the judge's stand at the county fair grounds, and it ain't everybody that can rise up to make a motion and make five motions in a row before he sits down, like Mr. Dunne of Chicago. He was as full of motions as Little Egypt. But the man that got my admiration mainly was Senator David I. Walsh. Him I should regard as the perfect orator. He came into a room that was fairly boiling over with suspicion. 'Here is what we want,' they says, 'and we want to know if your're goin' to get it for us. Answer Yes or No.'

"Well, Sir, he got up and told them of the wrongs of bleeding Ireland. He rolled off the whole list of martyrs. He got them all when he took a wallop at the tyrannies of England and the grasping British commercialism. So far as I could gather he indorsed the liberties of Ireland, the principles upon which this great republic of ours is founded, and the balmy climate of this golden State; and he spoke not unfavorably of the divine truths of Christianity. Them Irish had had three hours of oratory by the clock before he came in, or 2,000 hours if you count by volume and intensity, and yet he held 'em spellbound except when his yell leader, Mr. Niland, got up and waved his arms and brought them all howlin' to their feet.

"It was a great speech, and it was all over and he'd shaken hands with everybody and had dern near slipped out the door before some rough guy ups and asks, 'Well, which is it, yes or no!'

"It seemed to me that that was a very indelicate question. It was lacking in true fraternal spirit. But did it bother David I. Walsh? Not a bit. He spoke a few well-chosen words, and then he was gone, and neither I nor the fellow that had asked him knew whether it was yes or no. If this man Walsh had been running the McAdoo campaign McAdoo would be nominated by now, and you wouldn't see several hundred delegates standin' around wondering if, after they've cast their votes, they are goin' to get a message from the White House beginning "Is it true, as I have been told?'

Irish Meeting for Action.

"Yes, it was a great meeting. There was more action in that Irish caucus in three hours than there has been in the Democratic Convention all week, or than there was in the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago the night Harding was nominated.

"They voted to adjourn twice, but they kept right on in session without paying any attention to themselves, passing motions and impugning motives and maintaining a general atmosphere of acerbity, acrimony, bad blood and suspicion of felonious assault. They decided that the caucus was too big and they'd have to appoint a Steering Committee, so they called for suggestions. Every man there present suggested himself, and some of them suggested themselves two or three times so as to make it unanimous. So when the caucus finally adjourned the Steering Committee met and everybody stayed right where he was and kept on making motions and telling the other speakers they were out of order.

"No lives were lost so far as I could ascertain, though the number of jaws fractured by nearby hands sawing the air to emphasize a point must have been considerable.

"Yes, sir, I regard that as one of the most heartening demonstrations of popular self-government that I have yet seen, and altogether the most exciting afternoon since I was captured at Chickamauga.

"Well, I hear they are still talking of drafting Mr. McAdoo. I surmise that the draft will be honored on sight. Anyway, it won't take anything like the work to draft him that it is taking to draft the prohibition plank, and General Crowder won't have to be summoned away from Washington to get him.

"But there is an atmosphere of bitterness growing up around here that I cannot but deplore. They are saying mean things about the candidates. They object to one man because he let his wife divorce him in order to get time to read the morning paper at the breakfast table instead of on the street car going downtown. As for another, they say his health won't permit it. Edward I. Edwards has lost some support since it became known that he won't take a drink himself, but prefers to let others sample the home brew.

"When I look back to those pristine Revolutionary days I think to myself, how many of them great founders of this Republic would get twenty votes here today?

"However, maybe that is a lax moral view to take of the matter. We ought to be thankful that none of them reprobates like George Washington, who is said to have cussed, or Ben Franklin, who was a little loose about his personal relations, or Thomas Jefferson, who used to play the fiddle on the Sabbath, is here to annoy this convention now. We have progressed far beyond the moral blackness of those early times—so dern far that pretty nearly everybody in the country is disqualified by something or other.

"I know one thing, however—nobody who can show himself moral enough to get the nomination from this convention could be elected Mayor of San Francisco, or of any other town where they still like to feel that their officials are human. Why, out here the other day they went and accused one of their Judges of having his hats bought for him by a friend for illicit reasons. Were they appalled at this moral infamy, even before the jury said there was nothing in it? Not at all.

"The Judge wasn't on trial. His name was only mentioned by way of that byplay of personalities of which the Californians are so fond. But I understand that there was some talk of havin' the Grand Jury indict him for damagin' the character of their State, not because he was falsely alleged to have took the hats—oh, no!—but because, given this heaven-sent opportunity, he had ordered a couple of hats that cost only $6 apiece. They all felt that California was ruined if the outside world suspected that its residents were beginning to become addicted to moderation.

Fares, 'Phone Rate and Milk Advance in Price in Chicago

CHICAGO, July 1.—Surface car fares in Chicago advanced from 6 to 8 cents today; telephone calls, on a measured rate basis, jumped from 5 to 6½ cents, and milk went up a cent to 15 cents a quart.

Fares on the elevated lines remain at 7½ cents, but a decision on the appeal of the elevated lines for an increase to 10 cents is expected within a week.

HOLD BRITAIN RESPONSIBLE

Labor Investigators Ask It to Curb Terror in Hungary.

Because a representative of the British Government took a leading part last Summer in arranging the terms upon which the Hungarian Communist Government headed by Bela Kun agreed to surrender to the Hungarian group claiming to represent law and order and supported by the Entente, Downing Street is held especially responsible for the failure of the leaders of the régime now in control in Budapest to live up to these terms in the report made public by the British Labor Investigating Committee upon its return to London early in June.

This report, which was signed by Colonel Josiah C. Wedgewood, M. P.; William Harris, J. B. Williams, F. W. Jowett, President of the Independent Labor Party, and G. H. Stuart Bunning, Secretary of the British Postmen's Federation, was but briefly mentioned in the cable dispatches, but it was reproduced at some length in the Vienna Arbeiter-Zeitung of June 10. It begins by saying that the Horthy Government in Hungary gave the delegation permission to go wherever it wished and furnished it with two officers as guides and aids. The labor men interrogated the Premier, various high Hungarian officials, British representatives and labor leaders and investigated many institutions, especially those involved in the charges of terrorism. The report proceeds:

"In view of the evidence furnished to us, we believe that there is a terror in Hungary, that the Hungarian Government is not capable of preventing it, and that many of the Government's own acts are so severe that they deserve the name terrorism. It is quite impossible for us to understand the assertion made by the British High Commissioner on Feb. 21 that, while there had doubtless been misdeeds committed in Hungary, there was nothing which could be called terrorism."

The report then points out the responsibility of the Supreme Council for the existence of the Horthy Government and goes on:

"But the British Government is particularly responsible for the condition in which the Hungarian people finds itself, because it was Sir Thomas Cunninghame, in collaboration with Mr. Boehm [of the Bela Kun Cabinet], who laid down the conditions for the surrender of the Communist régime the end of last July. There were eight points agreed upon. The first called for the abdication of the Bela Kun Government. The seventh provided that all political prosecutions, by the Right as well as by the Left, were to be stopped at once. The Communists lived up to the provisions of the treaty. We believe that it is the duty of the British Government to live up to the promises of its representatives and to take steps at once to put an end to these persecutions."

After remarking that the White Terror is not anti-Semitic, but anti-Communist, because while on the one side there were many Jews who took part in the Communist Government, on the other hand there are many Jews prominent in business circles and classed as war profiteers, the delegation asserts that Admiral Troubridge's report to the effect that life was safe in Hungary had no basis in fact.

Attention is directed to the "Brachial Force," the group of army officers which arrogates to itself supreme authority in cases of persecution of Communists and labor leaders, and the delegation opines that this force ought to have been placed under the command of the civilian authorities, and that the failure of the Horthy Government to do this has been largely responsible for the outrages committed in Hungary. Especial attention is directed to the methods of prosecution used against the ten People's Commissioners—the heads of the old Communist régime—and it is pointed out that after the fall of the Soviet dictatorship most of the leaders fled to Vienna, only the more moderate remaining in Budapest. These had been joined by others who had been induced by the Allies to return to help organize a coalition Government. The British delegation can find no excuse for the condemning to death of persons merely for having been members of the Communist Government.

LINCOLN, BY PSYCHIC, FLOPS FROM G. O. P.

Louis Benjamin, Who Had Hyslop on Astral Phone, Gets Flash from 20th Plane.

URGES BIG LEAGUE PLAY

Repeats Phrases from First Inaugural and Gettysburg Addresses to Lend Local Color.

Abraham Lincoln has quit being a Republican and, up in the Twentieth Plane—an astral region people by souls discovered by the Society for Psychical Research—he is hoping the Democrats at San Francisco wil pick a good man, for with a good candidate and the League of Nations it will mean an overwhelming Democratic victory "and rejoicing" on the Twentieth Plane.

Before anything more on the political views of the Twentieth Plane is disclosed, it should be said that Lincoln got into touch with this world through Louis Benjamin, a Toronto traveling man "on the road," the same Benjamin who recently talked with Dr. James Hervey Hyslop and got a psychic "beat" on the doctor's own organization. A short while ago a group of the psychic faithful gathered in the offices of the Society for Psychical Research, down in Twenty-third Street, and Louis closed his eyes and breathed heavily and everybody got gooseflesby and—hark!

Samuel Taylor Coleridge, who nearly always gets Louis Benjamin on the psychic phone when he has anything to reveal, came soulfully into the gathering, and without punctuation began:

"And so Abraham Lincoln will give to the spirit of your age a message that will go far beyond the boundaries of this room and become to some extent the current thought of the people of the United States passing through the most critical period in all American history. Abraham Lincoln will now address you."

Lincoln via Coleridge-Benjamin.

Then, through the mouth of Louis Benjamin and in the voice of S. Taylor Coleridge, in the rooms of the Society for Psychical Research and from the Twentieth Plane, Abraham Lincoln said:

"My fellow citizens of all the planes, it is a joy and an inspiration to be in your presence for the purpose of uttering some simple facts that will help us to construct ideas that will enable at least the astral world to place itself on record in reference to some of the vital issues of the great material world you inhabit—the earth."

Well, with Mr. Benjamin passing it along, the martyr President discussed the relations of capital and labor, but really did not show any new goods in that line. Then somebody dragged politics into the seance—the Republican Convention was just over and the Democratic was coming soon.

"My friends of the earth plane," said Lincoln in the voice of Coleridge and out of the mouth of Benjamin, "the great nation in which you live, the United States, is passing through the most critical period in all her history. What is done at the Democratic Convention, soon to meet—for it is there we look for a great humanitarian, idealist, to become a leader of the people—will decide whether the United States will forge ahead, face held high, facing the light of the heavens, or, head held down in shame, that is what will happen.

"I was a Republican when on the earth plane. I am not a partisan now. Yet there are some glorious pages in the history of the Republican Party that I still adore. In the last convention of the Republican Party on the earth plane they met not in solemn deliberation—certain interests were at work.

Introducing Lincolnesque Phrases.

"A candidate has been selected. I will not say any mean things of the physical living—far be it from me to be uncharitable to another human being—but I will say this: There is just a little regret at the action of that convention, for we on the heavenly plane did fervently pray that the great United States, dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, conceived in liberty, great nation, wealthy, massive in the strength of her great men, we did fervently pray that such a nation should be a member of the League of Nations and should ratify the Treaty of Versailles.

"We did pray that divinely inspired men like Wilson and Lloyd George and Clemenceau and others should so draw up the constitution of a League of Nations that it was a form of Government of men so that forever war would be abolished. The League became a fact, the constitution was written into the life of your times and as yet the United States has not ratified that treaty.

"I make this, what may seem to be a bold pronouncement: The women of the United States who fortunately exercise by the millions of their franchise, the ministers, the humanitarians, the idealists, the educated people, the great vast majority, the educated masters of the people of the United States, overwhelmingly in the next Presidential contest will vote for the ratification of the League of Nations; of that we are sure.

Infallibility Modestly Disclaimed.

"We are not infallible," continued Lincoln, via Coleridge-Benjamin; "we are not omnipotent. If I be wrong in my surmise and the United States follows that proud idealist, Cabot Lodge, and they speak so glibly about the Monroe Doctrine; if that is their course, then I say for the next century: let my native land hang its head in shame.

"I said I was not a partisan. Some of you may disagree with me. I can but express the truth that lies within my soul. These thoughts—oh, I wish that they could be heard by millions of my fellow men, souls on the earth plane! For what lack of wisdom lies in the course that would reject that for which all the nations fought and bled, the United States not the least, giving their sons by the hundreds of thousands.

"The League of Nations, we are told, would be detrimental to the best interests of the United States. The constitution of that League, we are informed, is a poor one, a selfish one. Little do the people realize that that constitution, closely read and studied, reveals the fact that as a party to that constitution the United States can change those features of the constitution which it does not like. Do not let her reject the most important historical document that has been written during the last 300 years of history.

"This I will be bold indeed in the expression of my thought to say: If the Democratic Party—I am not a partisan now, parties mean nothing to me; principles of man count, though—if the Democratic Party chooses a great man of light and learning, who will go to the people on the platform of the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, then overwhelmingly will he be elected, and there will be rejoicing here on the Twentieth Plane."

That's about all, it appears, but somebody did say: "Abraham Lincoln, would you mind if we spread these thoughts of yours through the press?" and the answer in the voice of Coleridge and through the lips of Benjamin was:

"There is this note of pathos, not that I am pessimistic at all, that one must use in answering such a question, that if you did publish in the press of the United States my message and my desire, very few would be concerned by it; very few would be influenced by it."

STRIKERS SPUR WAGE TALK

Steel Workers Quit Two Plants as Conference Is Deadlocked.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—Wage conferences here between committees representing the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the independent sheet and tin plate manufacturers were still deadlocked late today. There was little prospect of an immediate adjustment.

The old contracts expired at midnight last night, but it was agreed that the plants were to continue in operation for at least thirty days pending the signing of a new scale.

M. F. Tighe, President of the Amalgamated, said that the strikes in the plants of the A. M. Byers Company at Girard, Ohio, and at Pittsburgh, were caused by the refusal of the company to sign a continuous contract providing for negotiations upon the expiration of a temporary agreement.

He added that the Byers Company had signed only a year's agreement, which expired at midnight last night. Other companies, he said, would continue at work pending the conference here.

Tighe said that no direct orders had been issued for a strike at the Byers plants, and that the men had acted "automatically," in accordance with the general custom of the union.

GIRARD, Ohio, July 1.—Approximately 600 iron puddlers, members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, did not report for work today at the local plant of the A. M. Byers Company. The company announced that the bar mills would be kept running on stocks now on hand for two weeks, after which 500 bar workers will be made idle.

The puddlers work under the bar iron scale negotiated by the Amalgamated and the Western Bar Iron Association.

Union men said that there had been friction between the Byers company and the Amalgamated and that their orders to quit work had come from M. F. Tighe, President of the Amalgamated.

S. K. Hine, general manager of the plant, declared today he did not know why the men had quit, when the scale agreement, he asserted, had not expired. He said he expected the trouble to be settled so work could be resumed Tuesday.

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—It was announced that 550 iron puddlers failed to report for work at the mills of the A. M. Byers Company and the Brows Company, Inc., here today.

H. S. Reese, Vice President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, said the men would remain out pending a settlement of the wage controversy at Columbus between representatives of the union and employers.

New Source of Edible Oil.

A long-neglected material is the cohune nut, of which manaca palms in Honduras produce a yearly average of 300 pounds per tree. This was brought into temporary demand as a source of carbon for gas masks, and Consul C. N. Willard notes that the utilization is being made permanent and greater as a result of the discovery that the oil is equal or superior to cocoanut oil for cooking purposes. It is estimated that a single area of the trees, extending sixty or seventy miles along the Aguan River, with a width of ten or twelve miles, could supply 10,000 tons of nuts a month.—Newark News.

REED DISCLAIMS THIRD PARTY AIMS

Expects to Live and Die a Democrat Unless Party Goes Insane, He Says.

SPEAKS WITH DE VALERA

Denounces the League as Treason at San Francisco Gathering of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The League of Nations plank submitted to the Democratic National Convention was denounced tonight as a "surrender of the control of the American Government in matters of vital importance" and a "treacherous and treasonable undertaking" by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Senator Reed spoke at a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom, with Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic." He said that his speech at the Irish meeting was what he would have said upon the floor of the convention, if he had been permitted.

He was asked earlier if he intended to support the Democratic ticket.

"I will answer that after they nominate a candidate and adopt a platform," he replied. "I will say this: That there is nothing to the talk of my becoming a candidate on a third ticket. I have always been a Democrat and expect to live and die a Democrat, unless the Democratic Party goes entirely insane, and I don't think it will."

In his speech at the Irish meeting Senator Reed said:

"Great is the cause of Irish independence, but greater is the preservation of the independence of America. Our fathers fought to establish this republic, to make it free from the domination, control or interference of European potentates. After 144 years of progress and unsurpassed happiness we are asked to surrender into the hands of the rulers of alien States the control of the American Government in matters of vital importance.

"I decline to be a party to what I regard as a treatcherous and treasonable undertaking. This is my creed and faith: I know but one allegiance, my country. I recognize but one flag, the Stars and Stripes. I will not sacrifice one whit of the liberties of the American people for the benefit of all the aliens ever born of woman. I will no more haul down the American flag at the request of a President than at the commands of Kings. I decline to surrender with the pen what Washington gained by the sword.

"All my life I have followed the banner of Democracy. The great principles of the party have appealed to every sentiment of my heart. I still hope its temporary leaders may be prevented from working its destruction.

"I know that the great mass of the Democratic voters are opposed to what the League of Nations covenant actually accomplishes. At the same time, I recognize the fact that many of the best people of the land are clamoring for the League of Nations, because they have been deceived as to its real purposes and are up to this time unacquainted with the nature of its obligations. But the truth cannot much longer be concealed. The rhapsodies of convention orators will soon be torn to tatters, their sophistries exposed upon a thousand American platforms. The intelligence of America will not be satisfied with glittering generalities or bombastic eulogies.

"We are asked to accept the League of Nations covenant without any amendment or reservations which substantially changes its meaning. It is demanded that we accept it in its Wilsonian form.

"The reservations which were adopted by the Senate have been denounced by the President as repudiations of the covenant. This imperial mandate has been re-echoed by the lips of every political sycophant who at the moment occupies the spotlight. It is not too much to say that many of these gentlemen will unhesitatingly approve the establishment of a monarchy upon the ruins of the Republic if the suggestion were made by the man whom they delight to refer to as 'inspired.'

"The briefest reference to a few of the reservations which are denounced as the repudiation of the League will serve to demonstrate the dangerous and un-American provisions of the covenant. I shall call attention to but four or five propositions.

"The league covenant gives to the British Empire six votes. Reservation No. 14 seeks to secure for the United States a vote equal to that of the British Empire. Lord Grey, speaking for the Empire, declared that the United States is entitled to as many votes as the Empire. How can any political party advocate less for America than British statesmen admit we should have.

"The league makes us a party to every war and binds us to defend the frontiers of every country from attack, no matter how just the attack may be. No wonder Prof. Lowell, long an advocate of the league, declared that Article X makes for war and not for peace. No wonder Mr. Bryan asserts that we dare not face the American people upon such an issue.

"The American people will not be long deceived. The Administration has demanded a standing army of 576,000 soldiers that the draft be applied to all boys of eighteen years of age, and that after they have served three months they shall be mustered into the army of reserve. The navy demands 250,000 sailors and marines and $913,000,000 to build the greatest war navy afloat. The Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff testified before Congressional committees that this immense military and naval force is necessary to fulfill our obligations under the league.

"How can any party argue against a reservation that provides in the event a program of disarmament is adopted by the League and accepted by us, we can increase our army if the country is actually invaded without first getting the consent of eight foreigners sitting upon the League Council?

"How can any political party defend an instrument that compels us to submit the vital interests of the United States to the decision of a council composed of eight foreigners rpresenting eight alien Governments?

"The pretense that we can protect ourselves by our single vote is an exploded falsehood. The League covenant expressly provides that we cannot sit or vote when we are a party to the dispute. The attept to cram such a treacherous surrender of the nation's rights down the throats of the American people will fail. It is nothing less than stupid suicide."

VERMONT WILL VOTE ON SUFFRAGE ISSUE

LATTER GOES TO CAPITAL

MEET AT HARDING'S HOME

Both Insist Presidential Nominee Did Not Interfere with Governor's Prerogatives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The calling of a special session of the Vermont Legislature to vote on ratification of the suffrage amendment, it was generally agreed, was the outcome of a long conference tonight between Senator Harding and Governor Clement.

While there was no announcement as to what the ultimate action of Governor Clement would be, there was no doubt, following the conference, that the Governor will call a special session, in keeping with the desire of Senator Harding and the Republican leaders. The Governor's admission that "there was a preponderance of Republican advice in favor of a special session called to consider ratification," and his further statement, made before his departure tonight, that he would "reach Montpelier early next week," left no doubt as to his intentions.

After the conference, which took place at the Harding residence on Wyoming Avenue, statements were made by both the Senator and Governor. Senator Harding made this statement soon after 11 o'clock:

"The conference gave me an opportunity to say to Governor Clement that I was deeply interested in the final disposition of the question of ratification, and I told the Governor frankly that if my advice were wanted I would be glad to see Vermont Republicans close up the great franchise reform. The women throughout the nation are deeply interested in the national campaign and the ratification must be closed soon if they are universally to participate in the Federal election. I would be gratified, of course, to have Republican Vermont close the gap, but Governor Clement understands I was not trespassing on his authority in giving him such an opinion in the course of our conference."

At the same time Governor Clement authorized this statement:

"I have been calling on Senator Harding and we discussed the State of the Union agreeably, you can be sure, and we discussed suffrage ratification by Vermont. Our State Republican convention asked me to call the extra session. Chairman Hays has urged it on behalf of the National Committee and many requests came to me from delegates to the National Convention. Naturally, I wanted Senator Harding's views and he suggested an early call. My reluctance is due to a feeling that Vermont prefers to change the fundamental laws very deliberately. We can only change our State Constitution by one direct appeal to the people and the favorable action of two Legislatures. We are reluctant, therefore, to ratify by a Legislature which was elected at a time when suffrage was not an issue."

Governor Clement came over from New York this afternoon and went first to the new Willard Hotel. He dined with personal friends and then went to the Harding home for his conference with the Republican candidate. The Governor took the New York train soon after midnight. Both the Senator and the Governor took pains to dissipate the idea that the nominee was in any way dictating to the Governor. On the contrary, it was insisted that the one thing Senator Harding would not do would be to interfere with the Governor's prerogatives.

"There is no doubt that suffrage will be ratified by the Vermont Legislature," said Miss Alice Paul tonight, "if the Legislature is called into special session. There has been a majority in support of the amendment in the Legislature for over a year. The convening of the Vermont Legislature would mean the end of the long suffrage fight of the last seventy years."

It was on June 22 that Senator Harding rejected the plea of the delegation of militant suffragists who tried to persuade him to use his influence with Governor Holcomb of Connecticut and Governor Clement for special sessions of the Legislatures for ratification of the suffrage amendment.

President Wilson on the next day, June 23, telegraphed to Governor Roberts of Tennessee, urging him to call a special session of the Legislature to ratify suffrage.

Governor Roberts has announced that he would call a special session for Aug. 9.

On June 25 President Wilson sent messages to Governor Thomas W. Bickett and to Senators Simmons and Overman of North Carolina urging immediate action by the North Carolina Legislature on the suffrage amendment. Governor Bickett has not called a special session and has expressed the hope that Tennessee by ratifying would make immediate action by North Carolina unnecessary.

HUGHES PLEDGES AID.

Sends Word of Support to Senator Harding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Assurances of support from Charles E. Hughes were received today by Senator Harding through William R. Willcox of New York, Mr. Hughes's manager in the 1916 campaign. Mr. Willcox said that Mr. Hughes would do everything possible to aid the Republican nominee in the campaign. A "front porch" campaign by Senator Harding was favored by Mr. Willcox, who said it might be different if Senator Harding were not so well known among the people of the nation. The New Yorker predicted that the Republican candidate would carry New York by 250,000.

"I would be willing to see the election held three weeks from today," said Mr. Willcox, after a conference with Senator Harding. "It would save a lot of shoe leather and work. I do not say this thinking that the chances of Republican success would be in any way lessened by a longer campaign. I think that as the campaign goes on and the people learn more and more about the issues, the Republican strength will grow tremendously. But I believe that Senator Harding and the party are strong enough now to go to the people with entire confidence.

Senator Harding this morning mailed a campaign button and an acknowledgment to Junius H. Harden, Burlington, N. C., in response to the following letter:

"My Dear Senator: I am attaching hereto a Wood button which I wore through the pre-convention campaign in North Carolina. It is the button which I had on the lapel of my coat when I conducted General Wood's itinerary through North Carolina. It is the button I wore when I cast one of the two ballots from North Carolina for General Wood on the tenth ballot which resulted in your nomination.

"I am now forwarding this button to you and wish you would mail me in exchange a Harding button to take the place of this one. In proportion of capability and opportunity, I defy any original Harding man to do more for you in the coming campaign and election than I would do. I will go just as far with you as our nominee as I went with General Wood as our candidate. I am mailing a copy of this letter to General Wood and also a copy to General E. F. Glenn, who was Wood's North Carolina campaign manager."

Dr. Morton W. Bland, former State Registrar of Vital Statistics of Ohio, arrived from Columbus this morning for a conference with Senator Harding, a lifelong friend, and told the Senator there had never been in all the history of Ohio as harmonious a Republican Stato Convention as that which ended yesterday.

"From the moment that Senator Harding was nominated as the party leader Ohio went out of the doubtful column," he said. "The party was never more unified and active than it is today. The entire 100 per cent. strength of the Republican Party is behind Senator Harding, and it makes no difference who is nominated at San Francisco Ohio will be overwhelmingly Republican in November. The convention just closed harmonized every interest in the party, and the Republicans of Ohio go into this campaign shoulder to shoulder as never before in my long knowledge of Ohio politics."

Among Senator Harding's callers were former Senator Henry A. du Pont of Delaware, Charles J. Easterly, a delegate from Reading, Pa., to the Chicago Convention, and Wade H. Ellis, former Attorney General of Ohio, and an Assistant Attorney General of the United States during the Taft Administration.

VERMONT GOVERNOR'S TRIP.

Has Agreement That No Session Will Be Called in His Absence.

MONTPELIER, Vt., July 1.—Governor P. W. Clement has been summoned to Washington to confer with Senator Harding, Republican candidate for President, and Will H¼ Hays, National Chairman, and is understood to be en route to the capital now, according to a statement by Lieutenant Governor Mason S. Stone tonight.

The purpose of the conference was not made public, Mr. Stone said, but it was reported that it had to do with the question of action upon the Federal woman suffrage amendment.

When suffrage leaders early this week reported at the Democratic National Convention that Governor Clement was considering calling a special session of the Legislature, the Governor denied it. He added, when informed that the suffrage leaders claimed to have such information from Senator Harding, that he had not seen Senator Harding and that the latter had not requested him to take action upon the suffrage question.

He refused to discuss his probable attitude in the event that such a request should be made, indicating that he would cross that bridge when he came to it.

Before Governor Clement would consent to go to Washington, Lieutenant Governor Stone, at the suggestion of Mr. Hays, assured him that he would not take advantage of his absence from the State to call a special session of the Legislature to take action upon the suffrage amendment, provided that the Governor returned to the State by July 7.

Lieutenant Governor Stone is understood to be in favor of calling a special session of the Legislature to act upon the proposed amendment.

Florida Legislators in Favor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Sentiment favoring a special session of the Florida Legislature to ratify the suffrage amendment is indicated by replies of legislators to a test poll now being taken by the National Woman's Party. The responses show that the calling of a special session in Tennessee is influencing the Florida legislators in their desire to be on record for woman suffrage.

Florida, as well as Tennessee, was affected by the Ohio referendum decision of the United States Supreme Court, which set aside the legal obstruction to ratification this year in the Constitutions of the two Southern States providing that a Legislature could not act upon an amendment to the Constitution of the United States unless it had been elected after submission of the proposed amendment.

Further evidence of the desire of the Florida legislators for ratification is a petition signed by a majority of the members of the present Legislature at a previous session asking for submission of the Susan B. Anthony amendment for ratification. Among the favorable replies to the questionnaire sent to Florida by the Woman's Party which have already been received are those from Senators W. L. Hughlett of Cocoa, H. L. Oliver of Apalachicola, Doyle E. Carlton of Tampa, W. R. Baker of Lake Geneva, M. P. Plympton of Lake City, Representatives R. A. Green of Storke, H. S. Glazier of Bradentown, Edgar W. Waybright of Jacksonville, F. O. Miller of Jacksonville, W. P. Chavous of Mayo, E. R. B. West of Orange Heights, Seth Woodruff of Orlando, J. F. Bustow of Key West and Herbert P. Caro of Pensacola.

VERMONT SUFFRAGISTS MEET.

Hear Governor Will Probably Call Ratification Session.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., July 1.—Word that Governor Clement would probably call a special session of the Legislature to act on the Federal suffrage amendment was received with delight here tonight by those in attendance at the annual convention of the Vermont Equal Suffrage Association.

T. D. Robinson in Senate Race.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., July 1.—At a meeting of the Herkimer Republican County Committee at Little Falls tonight, former State Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson of Herkimer, announced his candidacy for the State Senatorship in the Thirty-fifth District, as the successor of Burt Z. Kasson of Gloversville. Mr. Robinson, who is a nephew of the late Theodore Roosevelt, declined renomination two years ago to enter the service.

EX-BULL MOOSERS OUT FOR HARDING

DINNER AT HARVARD CLUB

Chairman Hays Assured of Loyalty to Nominee — Progressive Party Abandoned.

A dinner was given last night at the Harvard Club, 27 West Forty-fourth Street, by a group of men who were formerly followers of the late Theodore Roosevelt. All of these men were active in the third party movement when Colonel Roosevelt last ran for President.

The dinner was arranged by Walter F. Brown of Toledo, Ohio, and Lawrence F. Abbott and William M. Chadbourne of New York. Those present were William Hamlin Childs, Henry L. Stoddard, Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Arthur Woods, Hermann Hagedorn, Milton Willmet, Francis L. Slade, Harold Pulcifer, Porter Emerson Brown, J. Lloyd Derby and H. S. Hooker, all of New York; Robert Adams of Greenwich, Conn.; E. A. Van Valkenburgh of Philadelphia, James R. Garfield of Cleveland, Alexander M. Moore of Pittsburgh, Virgil Kellogg of Watertown, Frank J. Hogan of Washington, and E. R. Kirkwood of Kansas City, Mo.

The dinner was given primarily in order that these men could assure Chairman Will H. Hays of their loyalty to the Republican ticket. Short speeches were made by nearly every man present.

The general theme was that Senator Harding will grow as a candidate. Those present were satisfied that the nominee is a broad-minded man and will be attractive to all elements of the population.

After the meeting announcement was made that there was a unanimous opinion that Progressives should support Harding and Coolidge. All of the leaders of the Progressives who had formerly supported the party, it was said, have abandoned it.

The following resolution was adopted unanimously:

> Resolved, that we pledge our hearty support to Harding and Coolidge and indorse the enlightened leadership of National Chairman Hays in the campaign to secure their election.

One of the things that most pleased those present was the statement made by Senator Harding that he did not believe in a one-man Government. This met with hearty approval.

HARDING FORCES TO MEET.

Leaders Will Plan Campaign in Chicago Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Clarence B. Miller of Minnesota, Secretary of the new Republican National Committee, arrived in Chicago today in advance of the Republican leaders who are to gather here next week for a series of conferences. Next Tuesday Chairman Will H. Hays and other members of the National and Campaign Committees will arrive.

The nature of the campaign to be waged will be determined at these conferences, which have been postponed to await the end of the Democratic Convention.

Secretary Miller was inclined to believe that Mr. McAdoo would be the Democratic nominee.

"McAdoo will be a strong candidate," he said, "and if he is nominated the campaign can be fought on clean-cut issues. As a candidate he will have to assume direct responsibility for all the faults of the Wilson Administration. This will give the people a direct opportunity to pass on the Wilson policies and the Wilson Administration, and we are asking for nothing more."

INDICT FERDINAND HARTOG.

Accused in Connection with Disappearance of Brother's Books.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 1.—Ferdinand Hartog, connected with the Jacob Ruppert, Inc., brewery, at Ninety-eighth Street and Third Avenue, New York City, and President of the Liberty Dextrine Company, in which Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, is said to have an interest, was arrested this afternoon, following an indictment in connection with the disappearance of books and records of his brother, Louis N. Hartog, of New York City. He was released under $2,500 cash bail furnished by his family.

Hartog some time ago entered the employ of his brother, owner of patent rights and manufacturer of a grain substitute, which became valuable during the war in the making of candy and soft drinks. Later the brothers disagreed and Ferdinand started a suit against Louis for $329,000, alleging that he was to receive $50 a week and 5 per cent. commission on all contracts. At the time of the suit Louis had a contract from English sources to supply $7,000,000 of his product.

After the books and records disappeared, it is alleged, Ferdinand Hartog started the Liberty Dextrine Company and bought up all the available glucose on the market, crippling the business of his brother.

Litigation between Louis N. Hartog and Mr. Murphy was followed by the indictment of the latter and others recently.

Teachers Rush to Wed.

The marriage license bureau in Brooklyn yesterday reported a rushing business among members of the teaching profession, probably due to the fact that the public schools closed the day before. Of the thirty-eight persons to apply for marriage licenses at the bureau, twelve were teachers. They secured their marriage papers before noon.

WARN AGAINST FIREWORKS.

Fire Underwriters Ask Authorities to Enforce Ordinances.

An attempt by some fireworks manufacturers to promote an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration was denounced yesterday by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which appealed to State and municipal authorities to enforce ordinances prohibiting the use of firecrackers and other explosives on Independence Day.

The fire underwriters urge that Independence Day be observed with civic exercises and displays of fireworks under proper safeguards only. Governor Robertson of Oklahoma, according to the Board, has issued a proclamation saying that as a result of the strict enforcement of regulations, not a single serious accident occurred in his State last July 4. The board estimates that the loss of property from fireworks last year was $1,250,000.

SOLDIERS AS PRESIDENTS.

Fourteen Reached the White House by Way of the Battlefield.

According to The Home Sector, the ex-soldiers' weekly, training as a soldier in the service of the country is an excellent recruit drill for Presidents. In an article in a recent issue the writer says:

"Of the twenty-seven Presidents who, by the grace of God, Thurlow Weed, Mark Hanna and others, have been elected in the course of American history, a majority, fourteen, to be exact, have been men who at some time in their lives were soldiers. Very few of them, hardly more than one for each of the major wars in which the country has been engaged, have been, however, the direct product of military careers.

"It is fair to say that the Revolution made George Washington President; that Old Hickory would scarcely ever have had a chance to divide the spoils of Presidential patronage had he not first been the victor of New Orleans; that nothing but his military victories in the Mexican War and a peculiar combination of political exigencies could ever have greased the way for Rough and Ready Zachary Taylor, and that Grant's pathway to the Presidency was hewn with the sword in the civil war, and perhaps that San Juan Hill and the Spanish-American conflict put Roosevelt's hat in several rings and finally, indirectly and by way of Vice Presidential side track, landed the beloved apostle of the strenuous life and the big stick in the coveted chair.

"All the rest of our ex-soldier Presidents—Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Pierce, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Benjamin Harrison and McKinley—won their spurs rather in the field of politics and statecraft than upon the battlefield. And, indeed, of the five whose war record was their crowning asset—Washington, Jackson, Taylor, Grant and Roosevelt—Taylor alone entered the White House uniformed, sword in hand, without heralded principle, politics or policy.

"It was the civil war, however, which proved our greatest President maker. The last century ended with only a single non-veteran executive—Grover Cleveland—since 1865. Then with McKinley came another war with another soldier President, a Colonel of Rough Riders, in its wake."

MEN'S SUITS

—over sixty-five styles, in every coloring from new shades of brown to the smartest of heather mixtures

THESE are Saks Suits—the best that fifty dollars can possibly buy—and better than most men would ever expect to find at this price. They drape about the figure in that easy-going graceful fashion that bespeaks fine workmanship—needlework that at once wins a man's confidence and assures the best of service. The styles are in two-and three-button single-breasteds, an air of quiet refinement supplanting the usual commonplace fripperies found in the majority of moderate-priced clothing

THE PARADOX

Ice cream enjoys the paradoxical distinction of being classed both as a luxury and as a necessity.

Eaten alone, it is a luxury subject to taxation; as part of a meal, it is a necessity free from taxation.

In other words, it is a necessary luxury and a luxurious necessity—at least the delicious, nutritious ice cream served at CHILDS.

Pie, topped with vanilla ice cream—the end of a perfect meal.

FUTURE TRUCKING POLICY ADOPTED

Merchants Will Continue 'Open Shop' Cars and Promote Independent Agencies.

TO SEEK COURT DECISION

Want Final Ruling on Obligation of Carriers and Their Employes to the Public.

The Citizens' Transportation Committee made public yesterday a declaration of its future policy and activity in the fight of the city's commercial interests for uninterrupted transportation service, regardless of labor troubles. The declaration was framed at a meeting of the committee at the Woolworth Building.

"In order to keep open the channels of commerce," says the declaration, "and to have available at all times transportation and trucking facilities to render adequate and impartial service, we recommend:

"First—That the Citizens' Trucking Company continue its present trucking service for such period as may seem necessary and desirable to secure this end.

"Second—That the committee encourage and promote the establishment of other independent trucking agencies committed to the impartial service of the public.

"Third—That the committee believes it desirable to secure a clear definition from the court of last resort as to the obligations of common carriers and their employes to serve the public without discrimination."

The Merchants' Association received yesterday a telegram from Chairman H. H. Haines of the Galveston Commercial Association declaring it to be of the utmost importance that every step be taken to prevent the United States Shipping Board and the International Longshoremen's Association from entering into a closed shop agreement.

Anthony J. Chlopeck, Vice President of the International Longshoremen's Association, said the only agreement between the longshoremen and the Shipping Board was to give union men the preference in the matter of employment. He said the telegram might have been the result of the objection of union workers to handle one of the United States Steamship Company's boats and the subsequent employment of non-union men against which, he said, the unions protested on the ground that an agreement made in October, 1919, was being violated.

The union locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters postponed, until Thursday, a meeting scheduled for yesterday, at which they were to take action to fight the merchants' campaign.

The independent trucks of the Citizens' Transportation Committee hauled 172½ tons of freight yesterday from the coastwise piers, according to figures made public by the committee.

The Wholesale Shoe League has adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Wholesale Shoe League of New York approves the Declaration of Principles adopted by the Citizens' Transportation Committee on May 27, 1920, and the efforts of the committee to relieve the intolerable conditions existing on the coastwise docks.

"We further pledge our moral and financial support to the committee in its effort to restore normal transportation conditions."

NEW ORLEANS IN DARKNESS.

Marshals Guard Light and Trolley Plants as 3,000 Men Strike.

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—New Orleans today was without street car service as a result of a strike of the 3,000 employes of the New Orleans Railway and Light Company, which followed a failure of the union workers and the Federal receiver for the company to reach an agreement as to wages.

Deputy United States Marshals were guarding the gas and electric light plants, car barns and rolling stock of the company, and it was announced that in the event of any disorder soldiers [illegible] be called out from Jackson Barracks.

Company officials operating the utilities for the receiver announced that cars probably would be operated tomorrow with non-union workers if necessary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—General Peyton C. March, who has been on a tour of inspection in Europe, and who is en route from Southampton, England, to New York City on the army transport Northern Pacific, will arrive at New York the night of July 6. When General March left for Europe he wore the four stars of a full General. Under the Army Reorganization act he was today demoted to be a Major General.

SAY 6,000 QUIT COAL JOBS.

Operators Dispute Miners' Figures —Admit Strike Cuts Output.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., July 1.—Although miners were reported to be leaving the Mingo County, W. Va., and Pike County, Ky., coal fields in large numbers today, in compliance with the strike order issued by officials of District 17, United Mine Workers, effective at midnight last night, several mines in Mingo County continued in operation.

Apart from four mines in the Kentucky fields, reported in operation today, the operators there made no attempt to open their mines today, it was said.

Operators here declared that not more than 1,500 miners were actually involved in the portion of the district covered by the strike order and that not more than 5 per cent. had joined the union.

District union officials asserted, however, that 6,000 miners were affected and that they were virtually all organized.

Quiet prevailed throughout the Mingo County coal fields today and no trouble was reported from the Kentucky fields.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 1.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America announced here early today that, while they had received only meagre reports from Mingo County, W. Va., and Pike County, Ky., as to the progress of the miners' strike, which went into effect last midnight, they predicted that 6,000 members of the union in the two counties would walk out before the close of the day.

The strike order was sent out last Tuesday, the action being taken, according to union officials, after operators of Mingo and Pike Counties refused to meet with representatives of the men to discuss the question of wages.

Two representatives of the Bureau of Conciliation of the United States Department of Labor arrived in Williamson, the Mingo County seat, today, according to reports received here. The conciliators, F. L. Frick of Garrett, Ind., and L. R. Thomas of Pittsburgh, were sent to Williamson in an effort to avert the strike. They expected to confer with representatives of the men and the employers.

Union leaders said today that the miners who were directed to strike had ben ordered to leave a sufficient number of men at the mines to insure protection of mining property, unless the companies decided to operate them.

Operators here had said the strike would affect about twenty mines in the two counties, with an estimated daily production of 25,000 tons.

Twenty of Store Detectives' Prisoners Plead Guilty in Special Sessions.

ONE GIRL SENT TO PRISON

Handbags and Hosiery Cause Most of the Arrests—Majority of Accused from Other Cities.

Because of a wave of kleptomania or a sudden burst of activity by store detectives, all records of shoplifting cases were broken yesterday, when forty-two women, most of them from other cities, were arraigned in the Court of Special Sessions, before Justices Daniel F. Murphy, Joseph F. Moss and A. V. B. Voorhees.

All of them were arrested by detectives of the Stores Mutual Protective Association. Sixteen entered pleas of not guilty, and were continued on bail for trial. Twenty pleaded guilty. Ten of these, who were young girls and first offenders, were placed on probation. Ten were fined from $25 to $75. Five, who were admitted to bail at the time of their arrest, failed to appear, but were represented by counsel, who were instructed to bring them into court to have them plead later.

Inez Chase, 29 years old, a waitress, of 101 West Forty-fourth Street, who pleaded guilty to the theft of a handbag valued at $26.75, was the only one of the forty-two, who, including rich and poor, young and old, to receive a prison sentence. Somebody recognized her as an old offender, and she was sent to the Workhouse for four months.

Mothers and sisters of some of the defendant girls, and several of the girls themselves, sobbed and wailed in a broken-hearted manner, as Justice Murphy spoke to them sternly. As the name of an offender was called out, a frightened and trembling girl stood up, the sudden special agitation of a group of spectators identified them as her relatives. A few of the women were alone. Those who pleaded "not guilty" appeared to be bursting with indignation and marched out of the courtroom like grenadiers when their trials were postponed.

It was generally silk hosiery that had tempted the young women beyond their strength. Some sought to soften the Justices by telling how they couldn't afford it and how badly they needed it for their vacations.

Handbags and silk hosiery, however, were not the only pitfalls. One woman's downfall was due to the apparent ease and safety with which a suitcase could be picked up and carried away. The detectives were beside her before she reached the door. The accused were not all girls. Several were middle-aged and one was a woman of about 50.

The Justices have been worried over the big increase in shoplifting in recent weeks, apparently due in some cases to high prices and in others to the opportunities—not always quite as safe as they appear—to smuggle something from a counter in the crush at bargain sales.

16TH SENTENCE FOR TOBIN.

Less than twenty-four hours after his release from Blackwell's Island, Thomas Tobin, 52 years old, known to the police as the "Wonder Kid," a veteran pickpocket, was arrested yesterday morning on a Forty-second Street crosstown car. Detective Coy of the Pickpocket Squad told Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Yorkville Court later he had seen Tobin put his hands into the pockets of two fellow passengers.

According to the police Tobin has been convicted sixteen times in fourteen different States as a pickpocket. Magistrate Ten Eyck sentenced him to six months in the penitentiary.

ACCUSE DOCTOR IN $500,000 WILL FIGHT

Relatives of Mrs. M. E. Cole, Circus Man's Widow, Charge Undue Influence.

HER PHYSICIAN A LEGATEE

Contestants to Inquire If She Had Disposed of Property Before Her Death.

A will contest in which charges of undue influence are made against Dr. Freeman Ford Ward of 6 East Fifty-eighth Street was begun in the Surrogates' Court yesterday by relatives of Mrs. Margaret E. Cole, of Stamford, Conn., widow of William Washington Cole, for many years head of Cole Bros.' Circus and later managing director of Barnum & Bailey's after the two organizations had merged. The contestants allege that Mrs. Cole's will giving the residuary estate to Dr. Ward was not her uncontrolled act and say they will seek to discover whether Mrs. Cole disposed of a large part of her property during the several years before her death on May 14 last.

The will was executed May 3, 1919, and names Dr. Ward as executor. The petition for probate stated that she left "more than $100,000 in personal property and no real estate." When her husband died on March 10, 1915, he left an estate appraised at $550,000 in stocks and bonds, and realty worth $918,000. He left no near relatives and gave to his wife $200,000 outright and a quarter interest in the residuary estate. He made total bequests of $500,000 to sixty-five persons and provided that his wife was to get the share of any legatee who died before him. He left $100,000 in public bequests, mainly to hospitals and churches.

The notice of contest of Mrs. Cole's will is filed by Frank P. Walsh of New York and Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago as attorney for Esther Hammill, niece, of 1,720 North La Salle Street, Chicago, and five nephews and nieces living at Winamac, Ind. This will gave $1,000 each to Samuel H. and William F. Koble, brothers, of Cushing, Okla., Kate Koble Rader, sister, of Indianapolis, and Nancy Slife, sister, of Winamac, Ind. The latter also got a trust fund of $20,000 for life which is to revert to the residuary estate upon her death.

The American Female Guardian Society and Home for the Friendless got $20,000, and all the remainder of the estate, which the contestants allege should amount to $500,000, goes to Dr. Ward. One clause of the will cuts off all legatees who may bring a contest, and adds, "I hereby expressly declare that under no circumstances shall my niece, Miss Ella L. Riley of Chicago, be allowed any share in my estate."

It is alleged that the document was not the last will of Mrs. Cole, that she was not of sound mind, that it was not executed properly, and that it was "the result of undue influence practiced by Dr. Freeman F. Ward or persons acting in his behalf."

In behalf of the contestants it was said yesterday that Dr. Ward began attending Mrs. Cole about a year before her husband's death and that soon after Mr. Cole's death she had a fall at the Biltmore Hotel as the result of which she was a paralytic until her death. They contend that Mrs. Cole was entirely under Dr. Ward's control after her husband's death and that her relatives were not permitted to see her.

Dr. Ward was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons and is a member of the American Medical Association and the Academy of Medicine. It was said in his behalf yesterday that the testimony will show that Mrs. Cole was not unduly influenced and knew what she was doing when she made her will.

SUBWAY CRASH HURTS 20.

Two Receive Serious Injuries in Collision with Work Trains.

More than a score of persons were injured, two of them seriously, early yesterday morning when a Lexington Avenue subway train was in collision with a work train 75 feet south of the Longwood Avenue station on the Hunt's Point branch. Service on the Hunt's Point branch from the place of the accident to the Hunt's Point station, was tied up for more than two hours. The forward car of the train, on which there were about thirty-five passengers, was badly wrecked, as were the rear car of the work train, and part of the station platform. The collision put the lights out and darkness added to the confusion of passengers who were thrown from their seats and screamed for help until the police and other rescuers arrived.

Edward Coleman, 46, 869 East Tremont Avenue, the Bronx, foreman of the work train crew, was one of those most seriously injured, having received a dislocated shoulder and other injuries, as was William J. Wilson, 31, of 5,613 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, a member of the work train crew, who sustained internal injuries. Both were removed to the Lincoln Hospital, where some of the most painfully injured passengers also were taken. At the hospital last night it was said all would recover.

The work train, made up of two coaches and a flat car, was in charge of Motorman Michael J. Flood, of 450 West 140th Street, who had run the train to the Longwood Avenue station with a crew sent to repair some cables. It was said that red lights were placed on the rear end of the work train, and that a flagman had been sent back to warn approaching trains.

The passenger train was operated by Motorman Raymond Witte, of 219 East Fiftieth Street, who said that he had seen neither flagman nor red lights while rounding the curve at that point.

Soon after the accident investigations were begun by District Attorney Francis Martin of the Bronx, detectives of the Simpson Street Police Station, and officials of the Public Service Commission.

Leaves $2,000,000 to Institutions.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Charitable, religious and educational organizations were left more than $2,000,000 under the will of Harriet Blanchard of this city, who died about a year ago. The will was probated yesterday. The bequests include $250,000 to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, $25,000 to the trustees of the General Clergy Relief Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church; University of Pennsylvania, $100,000; American Church Institute for Negroes, $100,000; Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, $200,000, and Tuskegee Institute, $100,000. A number of Philadelphia hospitals were given large sums.

There's one point that we'd like to make clear: these suits were not purchased so as to cook up a sale. They came right out of our regular stock! And they are priced as low as they are for one very important (to us) reason. We must reduce the number of suits now on our tables. And to do so we are willing to throw the consideration of profit to the wind. At $29.50 we establish a new record price for New York. And it's always interesting to be present when records are smashed.

$84,000 IN FURS AND GEMS STOLEN

Bandits Enter Store at 252 West Twenty-ninth Street by Cutting Hole in Ceiling.

A holdup in which the victim was bound and gagged and $34,000 worth of jewelry and precious stones were taken from his safe, and two robberies in which $50,000 worth of furs were stolen from two lofts, one directly above the other, came to light yesterday although they had been perpetrated a week ago and were reported to the police immediately.

Salvatore Cammarata of the jewelry manufacturing firm of Garfunkle & Cammarata, on the eighth floor of a loft building at 336 Canal Street, was alone in his office last Friday evening when two men entered. One, he said was ta,l, slim and well-dressed, while the other was much shorter and of the highwayman appearance. Both carried revolvers but were unmasked.

Leveling the guns at the manufacturer, they ordered him to hold up his hands. They rushed toward him at the same time. Cammarata ran toward the open safe, but before he could shut the heavy iron doors the men were upon him and a battle ensued. The jeweler was quickly subdued.

The bandits tied his hands behind his back and placed a gag in his mouth. Then they dragged him to the manufacturing department in the rear, where they bound his feet and tied him securely to one of the machines. The robbers removed every article from the safe, leaving nothing but empty trays and boxes. The stock was worth $34,000, Mr. Garfunkel said.

As soon as the men had departed through the front door Cammarata tried to free himself and succeeded finally in loosening the handkerchief which was tied around his mouth. He shouted for the police for almost an hour. At about 9 o'clock a pedestrian who heard his cries ran up to the shop. He cut the cords, which were fastened so tightly they made the jeweler's wrists and ankles bleed, and called for the police.

The other robberies of the same night occurred on the fifth and sixth floors of a building at 252 West Twenty-ninth Street, occupied by Lessner Brothers & Weissman, and Freiman Brothers, respectively, both fur manufacturers. The robbers entered the building through a window on the top floor leading into an empty loft. Once inside, they cut away a section of the floor large enough for a man's body to get through and dropped into Freiman Brothers establishment. Here they removed $35,000 worth of mink wraps, Hudson seal coats and all kinds of skins and silk linings. The entrance is protected by electric wires provided by an insurance company.

In a similar manner the robbers cut away Freiman's floor, thereby gaining entrance into Lessner Brothers & Weissman's place below. From this shop they stole $15,000 worth of fur coats.

POLICE CHIEF RESIGNS.

Captain Phillips of Rockville Centre Was Stern with Auto Offenders.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N. Y., July 1.—Captain William F. Phillips, who has been head of the police force for three years, resigned today.

About a month ago three policemen were thrown from their bicycles and seriously injured by automobilists who did not have the lights lit on their machines. Captain Phillips stringently enforced laws against offenders with the result that almost $250 in fines have been collected since the beginning of the campaign. One of the violators, Edward Margolies, who has a home at Long Beach, was fined $10 last night on the complaint of Constable Hooley, who said that Margolies had only one light burning. Margolies said he would take the case to a higher court. He is in charge of the Shuberts' realty.

Captain Phillips's place will be taken temporarily by Sergeant Theodore Bacon. Captain Phillips formerly was an actor.

STRIKE CONSPIRACY DENIED.

Six of 27 Delegates Indicted in Hudson County Plead Not Guilty.

Six of the twenty-seven walking delegates of the Hudson County Building Material Teamsters' Union, who were recently indicted on charges of conspiracy in a strike on the closed shop, pleaded not guilty before Judge John A. Blair in Jersey City yesterday and furnished $1,000 bail each.

The indicted men have engaged George L. Record to defend them. The strike began on Jan 9 last and was settled on Tuesday by the granting of a $6 a week increase in pay.

Germany's Supremacy Gone, University Head Tells Catholics.

America has succeeded Germany as the seat of educational accomplishment, according to the Very Rev. James A. Burns, President of Notre Dame University, who addressed the closing session of the Catholic Educational Association yesterday in the Hotel Commodore. He said that students, because of the war, were coming here from all over the world. A resolution in opposition to the Smith-Townsend bill, which would place all denominational educational institutions under Federal control, was adopted. Another resolution praised the Knights of Columbus and other organizations for their war work.

Following an informal luncheon to the delegates, at which Archbishop Hayes presided, the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, President of the Catholic University, was elected President of the association. Mgr. John B. Peterson of Boston, the Rev. Edward A. Pace of Washington and the Very Rev. Peter C. Yorke of New York were chosen Vice Presidents.

Governor Coolidge Back at His Desk

BOSTON, July 1.—Governor Coolidge returned today from Washington after his conference with Senator Harding. He went immediately to the State House and remained at his office for about an hour. He will go to Vermont tomorrow for a vacation which is expected to continue until the notification ceremonies at Northampton on July 27.

Any one can see with half an eye how full of goods our Stores are Notwithstanding the tremendous outgo of the past two months, a great clamor was raised in many directions at the first go-off that good goods were scarce and we would be unable to keep up our assortments.

But we knew that to be a delusion. We found plenty of goods and the hand writing on the business walls of trade said plainly "the hour has come" to let go the piled-up products the people need and get down to hard tacks with the people who deserve a prompt deal at just prices.

The past two months' campaign closes today according to notice given. But America's millions of honest tradesmen will join in a league of the nation to take step after step to reduce the costs of necessities of life.

NOT UNPRECEDENTED.

Surprise struggles with grief in the bosoms of Republican correspondents who have to report the full control of the San Francisco Convention by the friends of Mr. Wilson. This domination by the President is something terrible, they exclaim. Was anything like it, is their agonized question, ever seen before? Well, not since the last time a President at the end of his second term told his party convention what to do. Mr. Roosevelt made no bones about it in 1908. He boldly and openly set out to dictate the nomination of Mr. Taft, and as a last means of bringing the convention to heel uttered the famous threat: "If "they don't take Taft they'll get "me."

But a precedent twelve years old is too ancient and musty for these days of rapid forgetfulness. This is especially the case when it is a Republican precedent that can be cited in behalf of a Democrat.

NO SOVIET RECOGNITION.

The abrupt departure from London of the Soviet envoy, Mr. Krassin, may not mean the end of his negotiations, but it certainly means a break in them. He had planned to stay longer. Besides hiring offices, he had rented an "attractive flat" in Mayfair for the purpose, it was announced, of showing "social" attentions to any English ladies and gentlemen who wished to consort with the representative of murderers. But now Krassin is off for Moscow ostensibly to receive further instructions from the Soviet Government; he really goes away, there is little doubt, because the instructions which he had already received made the success of his mission impossible.

There was a great deal of insincerity about it from the first, it is now evident. Krassin talked about trade; what he was actually seeking to get was official recognition of the Soviet Government. To have given it would have been to go against the position of the Supreme Council, which at San Remo declared its readiness to "discuss with the Russian delegates "the * * * resumption of peace-"ful trade relations," but did not depart from its previous determination at London: "The Allies cannot "enter into diplomatic relations with "the Soviet Government * * * until "they have arrived at the conviction "that the Bolshevist horrors have "come to an end and that the Gov-"ernment of Moscow is ready to con-"form its methods to those of all civ-"ilized Governments."

This decision Krassin bent all his efforts to change or evade. At the beginning of the negotiation he was lavish in offering trade opportunities in Russia. If the English did not wish to take in pay for their goods pledged and stolen gold, they could take platinum or flax or grain. As the exportable quantities of these products dwindled, on examination, to almost nothing, Mr. Krassin began to talk about payment by concessions in mines and forests, though such concessions, especially to hateful foreign capitalists, would go dead against the pure and blessed doctrines of Bolshevism. But all the time the real point at issue was more diplomatic than commercial. Would the Soviet Government release British prisoners? Would it cease attacking the British Empire in the Orient? Would it promise to give up the propaganda to incite revolution in foreign countries? These questions, Lloyd George informed the House of Commons, had to be cleared out of the way before the British Government would undertake any business negotiations at all. And it is plainly upon this rock that the Krassin mission was wrecked. Trade with individual Russians by individual Englishmen or Frenchmen or Italians could be easily arranged. But to establish diplomatic relations with a Government that was cradled in crime, has lived by tyranny and terrorism, and openly declares that it will keep its agreements only so long as it finds it convenient not to violate them—that was the difficulty. So far it has proved insurmountable.

A FEW REMARKS.

All records for convention oratory must have been broken at San Francisco. There never can have been before so many nominating speeches, following each other in linked sweetness long drawn out. It was a veritable Marathon race of the orators. The American appetite for that sort of thing is supposed to be Gargantuan, but it surely was surfeited this time. The delegates rested themselves now and then by marching about and shouting for different candidates. And it was noticeable that the speaker who got most applause was the one who threw away his prepared speech and uttered only five sentences, thus, like the poet, dying with all his music in him.

Such excesses of convention oratory tend to make the public doubt the necessity and the effectiveness of the nominating speech. It is a theme which the political rhetoricians have carefully studied. Shall the proposer blurt out the name of his candidate at the beginning? Senator Conkling did so when he presented Grant in 1880. Or shall the speaker studiously keep unnamed and mysterious the man whom every delegates knows he is going to advocate, and work up to mention of him in a breathless climax which every hearer had long foreseen?

Nice debate about the technique of the nominating speech becomes as futile as the speeches themselves, when there are forty or fifty of them putting a score of men in nomination. In spite of all the disappointments and disillusionments, however, hope will doubtless go on springing eternal in the American breast when a fellow-countryman assembles himself in convention and rises to make a few remarks. It is only after he has spoken that the Milton is found to be inglorious, and the wish is formed that he had also been mute.

GOVERNMENT WAGE REGULATION

The Trainmen Brotherhood's Vice President, Mr. Doak, remarks feelingly that the railway workers want "practical men put in control" of the adjustment of wage disputes as a "guarantee that men would not be "subjected to inhuman conditions of "industrial servitude such as has "been the case for more than a year." There is grievance in the fact that the railway wage dispute has been pending for more than a year and has been in the hands of more than one board without reaching a decision. But we must ask Mr. Doak, as a practical man, what else he could expect from Government operation. The indecision and delay which he complains of are the regular thing, and there are greater grievances than those of the wage earners.

Government has mismanaged the rate question even worse than the wage question, and not for one year, but for a generation. It has taken that long to prove to practical men, whether workers or security owners, that there is nothing practical about theoretical benefits from reductions of dividends or wages below the views of those who receive dividends or wages. It is necessary to satisfy both demands, or face the alternative of the withdrawal of both from service of the public. Not that it is necessary to go the whole way with either of these demands. Some capitalists will put their means at the service of the public more cheaply than others, and the lowest bid should be accepted that will procure capital enough to meet the needs of the public. But it is necessary to see and act on the fact that there is no economy in such underpayment of capital that the needs of the public cannot be satisfied. Capital is a commodity.

According to the statute labor is not a commodity, and it is not practical to treat it with as little consideration as capital has received. But as a practical man Mr. Doak and his associates must see that there is a limit to the advance of wages, and that it was about reached when the scratch of one man's pen put a billion dollars of wage money ahead of dividends. No doubt that was a highly popular thing when it was done. But the popularity will lose its glamour as it is perceived that the wage and rate funds are parts of a whole, and that neither can be drawn upon to enlarge the other without prejudice to public interests. Theoretically there is no limit to the popularity of wage increases. One woman instructor at a leading college taught that there was no need of making any reserve for the payment of dividends. Everybody would like to see everybody's wages raised to the limit. But, speaking practically to Mr. Doak's practical associates, it may be suggested that the limit to raising railway wages is reached when it is proposed to hand the railways over to wage earners, as they have asked in the Plumb plan, to be operated by them as long as the Treasury remains solvent.

Another limit to wage increases, short of uneconomic competition, is suggested by the railway spokesmen themselves. Mr. Fitzgerald, President of a brotherhood, said: "When "the Government established a rate "of $87.50 per month for several "hundred thousand railroad employes, "and at the same time established "rates in excess of $200 a month for "shipyard workers, the railroad "workers lost hope." But why? They had their option to take the shipyard jobs for a few months, and then be jobless, or to hold on to their lower paid and more permanent jobs, because in the long run they were the better jobs. And there was always the chance of raising their own wages by putting the public to inconvenience by blockades of trade, or by a policy of pinprick strikes, threats of holdups, which during the last few days have been abandoned, perhaps for reasons of prudence.

Surely Mr. Doak and Mr. Fitzgerald, as practical men, would not urge that the railway men should all be paid plumbers' wage, let us say. The country could not pay that and dividends also, and the railways fall below their capacity of service when short of either men or money. What is a living wage? What other means is there of discovering except that of finding what wage will keep the railway men at work? That wage must be paid as surely as railway capital must have dividends. Without credit for the railways and without fair wages for the workers the country cannot have railways, and the country is just finding out what that means. By all means the railway wage question should be left to practical men, but not entirely to the receivers of wages any more than dividends should be left to owners of railways.

RUBBISH DISPOSAL.

An apparently simple problem in economy is presented in the statement of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research. "Father Knickerbocker "will pay $3,500,000 to private indi-"viduals in 1920 for dumping nearly "$5,000,000 of values into the sea." The "values" are in ashes, rubbish and garbage, and the process would seem to be almost as bad for the ocean as for Father Knickerbocker. The rock-bottom facts, however, are somewhat less sensational.

If any value whatever is to be extracted from the city's refuse, there will have to be reduction plants, the cost and management of which present problems. As to the possible profits on the city's refuse as a whole, the Civil Engineer of the bureau, Mr. William A. Bassett, confesses that he can give no trustworthy estimate. In the single item of garbage he estimates that the annual cost of plant for Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, including both fixed and operating charges, would be $2,225,000, and that the total gross revenue obtained from the garbage would exceed this sum by $1,250,000. The annual profits from ashes and rubbish, though indeterminable, would in all likelihood considerably swell this total—to which must be added a saving of most of the $3,500,000 now paid for dumping in the sea.

There is a fruitful opportunity here for the municipal economist. The big hotels are already making a good profit by sorting and selling their waste products. Worcester feeds a large and prosperous colony of municipal pigs. Ashes can be refired to produce considerable heat, and with the addition of other inflammable materials it is possible to generate considerable electric light and power. In many European cities garbage and refuse are made to yield really remarkable profits. In New York there is a very delicate question as to the location of the disposal plants. Some years ago Staten Island objected strenuously to being made the dump for the sister boroughs, and the objection was comprehensible. Nevertheless, the Borough of Richmond has today its own disposal plants, is operating them at a profit and without offense to its citizens. The logical and economical way is for each borough, even for smaller districts, to operate its own plant. By that means large sums can be saved in transportation, which is always expensive and time-consuming, and which, amid the storms and ice of Winter, becomes often very difficult. In European cities each district handles its own waste, and, thanks to the celerity of the process and the perfection of modern inventions, is able to do it so that nobody especially takes notice.

The time is one for practicing all possible economies; and, though the annual profits might fall below hopeful estimates, they would well repay the exercise of skilled management. And then there is that matter of old ocean and its wind-swept shores.

AMERICAN OIL INTERESTS IN MEXICO.

In what is called "an open letter to the press" dealing with the oil controversy between American proprietors and the Mexican Government, Robert Pesquiera says: "What we "are concerned to know is, does Mex-"ico get her share of the wealth "which justly belongs to her? That "is what we are going to find out." He then gives some remarkable figures of production. Mexico's yield, if it could be properly piped, would be one-third of the oil used in the world. Huasteca, a field controlled by the Americans, if thoroughly developed would equal the Russian output of 1919. At the present time the annual yield of Mexico should be 500,000,000 barrels. Pesquiera declares that "Mexico contains the largest known deposits in the world." It is the realization that the country's oil resources are more valuable than her gold and silver, and are incalculably greater than was at first believed, that accounts for the Government's concern to derive a large revenue from the oil lands by requiring permits for drilling, by imposing new taxes, and by putting into the Constitution the principle of nationalization.

What Mexico shall get out of the oil development, carried on by aliens, chiefly Americans and British, is the problem that de la Huerta inherited from the Carranza Administration. The method of solving it will be much the same, with the difference that the new Government, while standing on its rights, will not assert them in an arbitrary manner. It invites American oil proprietors to come to the capital to "discuss the situation," which means to learn what the Government proposes to do in the way of taxation and of recognizing alien titles. A few days ago Acting President de la Huerta promised that Mexican laws based upon Article 27 of the Constitution, which nationalizes the oil resources of the country, should not have a retroactive effect. If the Mexican Congress will legislate in that spirit, there will be very little controversy left. What remains will relate to taxation—shall it be equitable or confiscatory? Of course, alien proprietors cannot be expected to submit to a policy that exacts permits from those who leased lands from Mexican owners before any legislation was put on the statute book to carry out the purpose of Article 27. There can be no resistance to nationalization if applied to Government lands.

When the Senate sub-committee was investigating Mexican conditions ex-Secretary Lane pointed out that "the United States has never at-"tempted to confiscate oil on private-"ly owned lands." He went on to say that "our leasing laws have "applied only to the nationally "owned deposits on the public "domain." It has been the impression in the United States that the Mexicans in requiring permits made no distinction between leases lawfully obtained from private owners with sound titles and nationally owned lands, and that in some cases a demand was made upon aliens who had bought lands outright to take out drilling permits. Either the Mexicans have enforced their laws, if constitutional, without intelligence, or their statutes have been misunderstood and their motives strangely misrepresented. Alien proprietors do not expect to be exempt from the enforcement of valid enactments, and it is absurd to suppose that a hue and cry was raised against a proper administration of the law. The American investors whom Robert Pesquiera invites to come to the City of Mexico to talk matters over can do much to improve relations between the two countries.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Achieving Desires Long Felt.

In a world like this—and probably in most others—the realization of ideals is never complete, and this is fortunate, else would everything, after a while, come to a standstill in an inevitably dull and hopeless perfection. There is, however, the possibility of an occasional approach to the realization of an ideal sufficiently close to be a cause of high satisfaction to those who make it, and just such an approach, The Times believes, has been made in The Book Review and Magazine Section of next Sunday's issue. For that part of the paper then will be found by its readers to possess in notably large degree the qualities of excellence in matter and presentation which it has long been the ambition of its editors to offer them.

The improvement of the section's appearance, due to the adoption of new typographical methods and the overcoming of old mechanical difficulties, began last Sunday, and the change will be carried still further, day after tomorrow, in both printing and pictures. This is a matter of some importance, for, though it has been said that "looks are nothing, behavior is all," the apothegm, like most others, is an exaggeration and therefore false. But certainly the section will not be dependent for approval wholly or anything like wholly on the truly admirable manner in which its text is printed and its portraits, etchings and pictures of other kinds are reproduced by the new process of rotogravure. At last the merits of the best work done on slow, flat presses have been approximated with the rapidly revolving cylinders which necessarily must be used by any newspaper with a large circulation if all its readers are to be served.

Controversy Added to Criticism.

Chief hope of commendation for the coming Book Review and Magazine Section of the Sunday Times will be based on the quality, the variety and the amount of reading matter which it will contain, for that may be described as its "behavior." Among the almost innumerable articles there will be some to appeal to every taste except bad taste.

Many of the contributors have names well known, and the topics selected by them for treatment are such as to give opportunity for the full display of their individual peculiarities of style and opinion. Some of them write in what is called lighter vein and others with the gravity deserved by their subjects, while several have started controversies likely to be waged with some vehemence in weeks to come.

Rupert Hughes, for instance, in the course of a vehement defense of "the movies," criticises the critics thereof in a way that means war to the pen, though not to the knife, and W. L. George, much daring, risks the perils of conflict with no less redoubtable an antagonist than Mrs. Katharine Fullerton Gerould. Those two articles form what might be characterized as the sporting features of the issue, but they are balanced by graver discussions of books and present-day problems, literary, social, economic and other. Count Bernstorff's ingenious and decidedly plausible apologia for his life in Washington gets appreciative review, and so does—among a hundred more—the remarkable work in which Jay Hambidge discloses what he thinks to be the secret of the old Greek artists.

Albanian Standards Different.

According to a brief dispatch from Vienna, printed yesterday, the man who assassinated Essad Pasha in Paris the other day was a young Albanian, the nephew of a man whom the General caused to be put to death five years ago. The man then "removed" was of eminence in Albania, and the members of his family, after the custom of that country, felt themselves obliged, as a solemn and pious duty, to avenge their relative. During the years that have since passed they kept this purpose firmly in mind and at last the nephew accomplished it.

The crime just committed, therefore, is not an ordinary one, nor is the young Albanian an ordinary assassin, though he will be punished as such. In judging his act—at least in judging it out of court—it must be remembered that Albania is a country whose people have remained in another age of moral development than the one which has produced the laws of advanced civilization. He exercised what he thought, sincerely enough, was a right and more than a right. He would have been despised by his countrymen and would have despised himself had he not done exactly what he did, and Essad Pasha himself, presumably, would have held the vengeance properly inflicted.

In short, the killing was in full accord with what Professor Sumner of Yale so well discussed under the name of "folkways," and the professor practically justified the following of real "folkways," even when they conflicted with the laws of those whose customs are different. He protested, for instance, against hanging as murderers certain Alaskan Indians who had put to death a fellow-tribesman whom old age had made a burden too heavy to carry, and therefore dangerous to a community the existence of which depended on the ability of all its units to take care of themselves.

LETTERS ON THE CAMPAIGN.

A Third Term.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In today's issue you rightly say: "The Democrats must look up, not down for their candidate. The work to be undertaken is beyond the powers of an ordinary man; he must be a man of extraordinary ability, a great man."

This points as unerring as the needle to the north to one of the most—if not the most—remarkable man we have produced, Woodrow Wilson.

The great work that Woodrow Wilson has done and that he would have completed, to the everlasting glory of his country, were it not for the envy that constitutes the "blackest crime that ever soiled the pages of history," was beyond the powers of an ordinary man and now, with his return to health, who but he should be called on to complete the great work remaining before us?

When kings were in fashion, there may have been some justification for third-term fears, but now, with kings everywhere toppled from their thrones, fear of a third term is the veriest nonsense.

We have a world job to complete and we need its instigator, a world figure, to complete it. There is only one answer, Woodrow Wilson.

THOMAS WALLACE.

The Keynote Speech.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Whatever else the Democratic Convention may or may not do, Chairman Cummings, in a speech that rings around the world, has expressed the thought and feeling of tens of thousands of Americans. Those who have abused our great President, who has given his very life for us for seven years, have made a big noise about it; but there is an undercurrent of indignation and scorn against them of which they little dream.

Those who seek to destroy should remind themselves that always "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again."

Franklin Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article of June 13, as well as subsequent ones on the same subject, have been too good to need a word in comment.

In the present discussion of the pending convention at San Francisco and the possible candidates, why is it that no one has ever suggested Franklin Roosevelt, a man of certainly as notable achievement as most of those under discussion and of fine personality.

Wants Pershing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When Harding was nominated by the Republican Convention Republicans quailed and fell away and set up a lament that rent the heavens. But now the ranks are knitting—have knit. A solid party is forming, and the sound that goes up is no longer a wail, but a paean and a battle cry.

The reasons for this sudden welding of elements shaken apart by the shock of the Chicago coup are numerous, usual, known to every one, and they can be affected not at all by anything the Democratic Convention may do or by any one the Democratic Convention may choose. They are not reasons, in effect, but party reactions. But there are reasons, too, and reasoners, and these it is possible to reach and touch and win. Upon these Republican reasoners the Democratic attention must be focused if they wish to make converts and gain votes. The Republican reasoners want certain definite things which the Democratic Convention can offer if it will. A great body of them want, with a consuming desire which dwarfs all party prejudice, the League of Nations, with reservations or without them, and they doubt in their souls if Harding will give it to them. But they would rather gamble on a weak Republican than upon a weak Democrat. They want a strong man for President, a man who dares to lead, to fight, to make concessions, to surround himself with advisers who are his peers or better. The Republicans have offered a candidate who seems to be such a man—but they have nominated him for Vice President. The Democrats have it in their power to nominate such a man for President. But this man is not Cox, and he is not McAdoo, and he is not Bryan. He is no one the Democrats have under discussion. Cox and McAdoo and Bryan could hardly win a single Republican vote if they were thrown into the lists in a lump.

Of course, it is conceivable that the Democratic leaders do not want or plan to win this year. They may prefer marking time to electing a man they cannot control, simply keeping their organization intact and spending four years in girding themselves for 1924. But nothing girds one for battle quite so well as victory. If the Democrats do want to win, there is one man who can win for them, John J. Pershing, one-time victorious General on the battlefields of France, leader of 2,000,000 of fighting Americans, himself the coolest, most determined fighter of them all. Tactful, daring, capable he had to be and is, sound American through and through, extraordinary judge and selector of men, modest, experienced, human, far-seeing.

The war did not make Pershing these things; the war made him famous. These are the characteristics of the man. Roosevelt knew him when he advanced him at a leap from Captain to Brigadier General. He has the confidence, the admiration, the gratitude of us all; and there are thousands upon thousands of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, who would be proud to vote for him for President.

TEACHERS' FREE SPEECH.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Wolfson, Dr. Linville and other teachers, in criticising the attitude of the Superintendent of our public schools, apparently fail to recognize the distinction between individual liberty and qualifications for teaching. The prime object of public school education, which justifies the expenditure of huge amounts of public funds, is the training of children for loyal and intelligent American citizenship. Theories and views which are opposed to the fundamental principles of our Government and to the general conception of morality and social order, while they may be tolerated in the individual, constitute grave disqualifications for teaching in the public schools. The right of free thought and free speech does not include the right, at public expense, to exert an influence and inculcate views in the minds of impressionable pupils which tend to defeat the object for which the schools are maintained.

A teacher, and especially a Principal, of a large public school, speaks with authority and exerts an influence in the community by virtue of his important position which he could never approach in his individual capacity. It is one thing to recognize the right of free thought and free speech in the individual, and it is quite another thing to give that individual a standing, a public indorsement, and an influence with his pupils and in the community which is derived from his position as the head of a great school. A Superintendent charged with the duty of passing judgment on the qualifications of teachers must consider not only intellectual attainments, but the influence of the teacher upon the minds and character of the pupils. If he conscientiously believes that the teacher is exerting an unwholesome influence on the pupils, he must frankly say so, but it is wholly illogical and unfair to consider such judgment as an invasion of the individual right of free thought and free speech.

A man or woman who believes in free love and ridicules the institution of the family, for example, may be permitted to expound such views as an individual with little danger of serious effect in the community, but no Superintendent appreciating the responsibility of his office could approve or tolerate such views and influence on the part of a Principal or teacher in our public schools.

Teachers who complain of interference with individual liberty are raising a false issue. The teachers and the public should clearly understand that the Superintendents are not passing judgment on individual opinions, but on qualifications for teaching.

WILLIAM G. WILLCOX.

By praising San Francisco for the excellent manner in which the city is entertaining the delegates to the Democratic National Convention you are justly rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, but are you not overstating its faults as a future convention city?

The expense of attending a national convention comes once in four years, but every time a Californian or other citizen of the West has to transact business in Washington he finds the clocks of "a huge majority of the country's inhabitants" are not at all in harmony and that the national capital is expensive to reach because of its position on the eastern edge of this large country.

This same difference in time was in effect on a certain day in November, 1916. After the clocks of the East closed the voting booths and the nation was promptly informed our next President would be Mr. Hughes, California proceeded by its slow clocks to elect Mr. Wilson. He who votes last, whether he laughs or not, votes by San Francisco's clocks.

"Eventually, why not now," recognize the huge majority of the country's inhabitants who have gone, or are going, "out where the West begins"? If they should leave grandfather's clock on the eastern edge of our great country let us remember it is still our country, be it East with a fast clock or West with a slow clock.

British-German Trade.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since my arrival in New York last Monday I have heard it expressed several times by prominent business men that England did not play fair, inasmuch as directly the armistice was signed the merchants jumped over and purchased all Germany had for sale in the way of merchandise, and although I, of course, have no authority, may I be allowed, as a humble member of the London Chamber of Commerce, to inform you that at a meeting of a large body of that organization it was unanimously decided that for the present we would neither buy from nor sell to Germany, and I can assure you that the leading dry goods wholesale warehousemen have kept their word and you cannot find any German merchandise in their stocks.

My firm is interested in selling American hosiery in England and so far has not met with the slightest competition from Germany.

RECOMPENSE.

He sang green fields and country lanes
 in Spring—
Of gardens' scents and fragrance passing sweet—
Who only knew the drab environment
 And cobbles of a sordid city street.

On home and happiness his fancy dwelt—
 The love of kin, the hand-grasp of a friend—
Who in an attic lived, with but his dog
 end.

And yet—such lonely hearts who warm themselves
 By the faint fire of their imaginings
Have this one recompense—they never know
 How often love and happiness take wings!

Stevenson's 'Emigrant,' $36,000, Next Highest at Philadelphia Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Collectors and dealers from all the larger cities in the East were drawn this afternoon to the Walnut Street auction rooms of S. V. Henkels, where a number of rare autograph letters and documents were sold. It was the most important sale of its kind in this city for many years.

The greatest item offered was the original signed manuscript of the eighth canto of Byron's "Don Juan," written by the poet on both sides of forty-eight folio pages. It brought forth spirited bidding, which resulted in its being sold for $3,600.

Fifty letters and documents written by Benjamin Franklin, for the most part to Miss Mary Stevenson, the young daughter of Adinell Stevenson of London, with whom Franklin made his home when in that city, sold for $5,525. The lot was sold piece by piece.

Two manuscripts dealing with the conquest of Mexico by Cortez were sold. One written by Pedro de Alvarado, a companion of Cortez, sold for $1,000. A six-page letter of Cortez to the Emperor Charles V. brought $1,400.

Two volumes of the first edition of Dickens's "Our Mutual Friend," autographed by the author, sold for $775. The agreement between Dickens and his publishers for issuing the same work brought $650. A letter from Lamb to Coleridge fetched $324. Burns's manuscript of his poem, "To Miss Mary Cruikshank," brought $350.

The manuscripts of Bret Harte's "Maruja" and "Cressy" were sold respectively for $775 and $875. Four short poems of Eugene Fields were sold, $110 being the highest price paid for any of them.

Among historical documents was the Orderly Book kept from September to October, 1780, by Major Gen. Greene, which contained an account of the treason of Benedict Arnold. That sold for $425.

Other documents and prices were: Manuscript of the impeachment proceedings of Andrew Johnson, $375; Thomas Jefferson's "Notes for the Biography of George Wythe," $200; Andrew Johnson's authorization for the negotiations of the cession of Alaska to the United States, $475; a letter from John Paul Jones to Gouverneur Morris, $550.

There were also a printed broadside of the Emancipation Proclamation autographed by Abraham Lincoln, sold for $750, and an autographed indorsement by Lincoln on a letter written by Allen A. Burton, $600. None of the names of purchasers was made public.

Many items were bought under the name of "McAdoo," but whether or not that was William Gibbs McAdoo the auctioneer refused to say.

Many important manuscripts were sold at the night session, at which $55,000 was paid for the manuscript of the first three books of Pope's "Essay on Man." It was written on forty pages of a quarto blank book, which retained its original vellum wrappers.

The original autograph manuscript of Stevenson's "Amateur Emigrant," including the major part of its sequel, "Across the Plains," brought $36,000. Poe's manuscript of his short story, "The Domain of Arnheim," realized $1,900. A whimsical letter of his brought $225.

One of the treasures offered was a book from the library of Thomas Lynch—rare in that it contained two signatures of this signer of the Declaration of Independence. Next to Button Gwinnet, Lynch's autograph is the rarest of all the "signers." It brought $3,000.

Of the many George Washington letters sold, the highest price paid for one was $950. Written to Sir John Sinclair, it described several States in the Union and gave the price of land in those States.

A superb copy of the fourth folio of Shakespeare brought $710. A document signed by Mary Queen of Scots and countersigned by Lord Darnley sold for $355. The manuscript of Anna Seward's "Monody on Major Andre" brought $370.

The greatest bargain of the sale was said to be the Schiller manuscript, entitled "Avanturen des Neuen Telemachs," which brought only $180. In addition to the sixteen pages of manuscript it included the fourteen color drawings designed to illustrate the work.

ACTION ON DECKER'S ATTACK

Navy Department Awaits Word from Secretary Daniels.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Action probably will be taken by the Navy Department within twenty-four hours on Rear Admiral Benton G. Decker's recent attack on Secretary Daniels and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, it was said today by Admiral Coontz, Acting Secretary of the Navy. He declined to indicate the nature of the action, but said the subject had been referred to Secretary Daniels, who is attending the Democratic convention and from whom a reply was expected within twenty-four hours.

"I have not acted on my own responsibility in regard to Rear Admiral Decker's letters," said Admiral Coontz, "because many of his charges against the Secretary and Mr. Roosevelt were personal. For that reason I believed it to be the proper course to put the matter up to them."

Admiral Decker, who is now commandant of the Seventh Naval District with headquarters at Key West, Fla., in a recently published letter to Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee charged Secretary Daniels with having "intentionally and deliberately" misrepresented certain facts in his testimony before the Senate committee and alleged that Assistant Secretary Roosevelt was sacrificing the efficiency of the navy for political ends.

AID FOR EX-SERVICE MEN.

Disabled Ones Must Report Cases to Get Additional Allowance.

Every disabled ex-service man who is in need of increased Government compensation must report his case to the district vocational officer not later than July 15 if he wishes to share in the protection afforded in the Deficiency Appropriation bill passed by Congress, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Committee for Aid to Disabled Veterans, of which Colonel Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of War, is Chairman. The bill provides that ex-service men who are taking vocational training "where maintenance and support are above the average and comparatively high" may receive an additional allowance of $20 per month.

"The Vocational Board is unable to conduct a detailed investigation of the needs of every man concerned," the committee said. "No man will be willfully overlooked, but each one entitled to this increased compensation will be much more sure of receiving it if he personally reports his case to his district vocational officer."

William P. Larkin, Supreme Director of the Knights of Columbus, was appointed yesterday by Mayor Hylan to succeed Bernard M. Baruch as a member of the Board of Trustees of the College of the City of New York. The term is four years.

The Mayor, in making the appointment, referred to Mr. Larkin's services as overseas director of the Knights of Columbus and as director of the organization's nation-wide educational work. Mr. Larkin holds the degree of LL. D. from Fordham University.

RAIL MANAGERS ASK $121,000,000 FUND

Urge Commission to Provide $86,000,000 for Rolling Stock, $35,000,0000 for Traffic.

To New York Central Would Be Allotted $15,999,000—Equipment's Value Would Exceed the Loan.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Detailed recommendations for the distribution of the sum set aside out of the $300,000,000 revolving fund provided by the Transportation act for the purchase of new equipment and for additions and betterments, were made to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives.

The report proposes the distribution among the roads of $86,000,000 to be used in rebuilding and repairing 12,616 cars and locomotives and in the purchase of 898 new locomotives and 45,000 freight cars, and $35,000,000 for additions and betterments to promote the movement of cars.

Twenty-five roads would receive the total fund for additions and betterments, including improved roundhouse and engine terminal capacity, the extension of sidings, additional yard tracks and the like. Twenty-five roads would receive $26,868,629 for the acquisition of 599 freight locomotives and 239 switching locomotives, having a total value of $53,737,358; 19 roads would receive $52,260,537 for the purchase of 45,021 freight cars, including 7,950 refrigerating cars of a total value of approximately $143,569,730; and nine roads would receive $7,026,000 for the purpose of making additions and bettering existing equipment which would restore to efficient service 12,616 cars and locomotives.

The committee also recommended reserves from the fund for smaller roads not members of the association, as follows: For equipment, $7,750,000 and for additions and betterments, $4,700,000.

The New York Central would receive the largest amount out of the $26,000,000 for the purchase of new locomotives, its allotment being $4,807,000. The Illinois Central would receive $2,987,500, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe $2,149,000, the Northern Pacific $1,850,000; the New York, New Haven and Hartford $1,750,000, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy $1,742,000, the Great Northern $1,375,000, the Erie $1,240,000, the Boston and Maine $1,245,000, the Southern Pacific $1,168,000, the Chesapeake and Ohio $1,058,000, the Philadelphia & Reading $1,033,000.

Of the $35,000,000 addition and betterment fund, the New York, New Haven and Hartford would receive $6,130,000, the Chesapeake and Ohio $4,750,000, the Northern Pacific $2,400,000, the Delaware and Hudson $2,250,000, the Virginian $2,000,000, the Texas & Pacific $1,688,000, Boston & Maine $1,814,000, Chicago & Western Indiana $1,800,000, the Great Northern $1,550,000, the Erie $1,496,000, the Hocking Valley $1,371,000, Wheeling & Lake Erie $1,461,000.

Of the $52,000,000 for the purchase of freight cars, the New York Central would receive $11,192,000, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe $7,850,000, the Fruit Growers Express $6,750,000, the Southern Pacific $6,331,000, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul $3,150,000, Wheeling & Lake Erie $3,600,000, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy $2,973,750, the Chesapeake & Ohio $1,658,000, Northern Pacific $1,746,000, Illinois Central $1,524,000, Minneapolis & St. Louis $1,240,000, and Western Pacific $1,000,000.

It is understood that the Commission is preparing to act promptly upon these recommendations. It was announced that the roads had already arranged to purchase and finance out of their own resources 28,000 cars and 518 locomotives costing $144,157,400. The loan fund will enable the acquisition to equipment to the value of more than the amount of the loan because the loan can be used as the basis of credit to make an initial payment, the balance to be paid usually in fifteen yearly installments.

CROWELL LEAVES POST.

John M. Noonan Being Mentioned as Next Assistant War Secretary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Benedict Crowell today retired as Assistant Secretary of War, creating a vacancy which will be filled in a few days.

Report was current in White House and official circles today that his successor would be John M. Noonan of Springfield, Ill., an efficiency engineer and manufacturer, who, during the war, was connected with the Ordnance Bureau in charge of capacity development and allocation of contracts in the Bridgeport district. He was in direct charge of 1,565 shops in Connecticut and Massachusetts manufacturing war materials for the Government. This was the largest organization of its kind in the country, with a payroll of $2,000,000 a day.

Several Cabinet members have urged the appointment of Mr. Noonan upon the President. He was one of the original Wilson men who worked for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson at the Baltimore Convention in 1912.

Several months ago Mr. Noonan declined the position as assistant to Assistant Secretary Crowell. Among those who have recommended him for successor to Mr. Crowell are Mayor Peters of Boston, Representative Peter F. Tague of Massachusetts, Representative John H. Wilson of Pennsylvania and Representative Gordon Lee of Georgia.

MANY ENTER COLUMBIA.

Indications on First Registration Day Point to Record Summer Session

Registration for the twenty-first Summer session of Columbia University began yesterday. While definite figures will not be available until today, indications last night were that there will be a record enrollment. Last year the Summer school attendance was almost 10,000.

Studies in the Summer school will begin on July 6 and will end on August 15. Virtually every State in the Union was represented among yesterday's registrants. The largest number was from the metropolitan district and from the South. There was a notable increase in the number of students from foreign countries and particularly from the Orient.

Professor John J. Coss, director of the Summer session, announced yesterday that Columbia, in co-operation with the University of the State of New York, would hold Summer conferences on "The Education of the Adult Immigrant." Conferences will relate to "The Group to Be Educated," "Immigrant Traits," "The Kind of Education Needed," "The Way to Citizenship" and "Standards of Living."

PAY HONOR TO PILGRIMS.

International Congregational Council Delegates Visit Plymouth.

BOSTON, July 1.—Delegates here for the fourth decennial International Congregational Council in celebration of the Pilgrim Tercentenary today made the first of several scheduled journeys to communities associated with the Pilgrim Fathers when they went to Plymouth.

The Rev. Dr. Henry H. Proctor of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has recently come from Atlanta, Ga., where he was pastor of the largest negro church in the United States, addressed the council on "Pilgrims in Bronze." He alluded to the fact that the first slaves were brought from Africa to Virginia a year before the Pilgrims landed in Plymouth.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN RETIRES AS PREMIER

Ill Health Compels Him to Relinquish Leadership of the Canadian Government.

FRIENDLY TO THIS COUNTRY

Though Opposed to Reciprocity, He Advocated Good-Will—Unionists Form Permanent Party.

OTTAWA, July 1.—Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, definitely announced his retirement from public life at a general caucus of Unionists here tonight, and his decision was regretfully accepted by the caucus.

No definite appointment of a successor has been made.

The caucus also decided to perpetuate the Unionist Coalition as a party under the name of the National Liberal and Conservative Party.

Although Sir Robert has been in failing health for several months, there was a strong general desire for him to retain his post.

A canvass of the caucus showed that sentiment strongly favored Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, as Sir Robert's successor. He represents in Parliament the District of Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, and is the youngest member of the Government, being 44 years old.

Another possible leader mentioned is Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, who, for many years, was Chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada.

Whole Cabinet to Resign.

Observers of the day's developments were of the opinion tonight that the caucus will be recorded as one of the most momentous and significant in the Federal political history of Canada.

The choice of a new name for the party provided as much discussion, as did the Premier's retirement. Many party titles were suggested. The caucus finally agreed upon "National Liberal and Conservative Party," which was sponsored by Mr. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization. It will be commonly known as the National Party.

Sir Robert has promised to retain his seat in the House and to support his successor to the best of his ability. Among the Cabinet members there is also an agreement to stand firmly by the man who is ultimately named by the whole of the Government supporters. Each member of the caucus is to submit the name of his nominee in writing to Sir Robert.

In addition to Meighen and Drayton, Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance, is mentioned as a likely successor to Sir Robert.

A significant fact also is that prior to the general caucus the Liberal-Unionists held a gathering "in camera" and decided to stand by any man chosen by the larger gathering, also to agree to the fusion of the Liberal and Conservative entities.

The resignation of the Prime Minister, which is shortly to be placed in the hands of the Governor General, will necessarily be accompanied by that of all members of his Cabinet.

Rowell May go to Washington.

N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, already has intimated that he does not feel that his mandate extends to joining in the formation of a new party.

On being urged to reconsider his resignation, however, Mr. Rowell promised to consult with his friends and to communicate his decision to the Prime Minister as soon as possible. The suggestion is made that should Mr. Rowell retire, he may go to Washington as first Canadian Minister.

Representation of Quebec in the new Government is being widely discussed. The names of Sir Lomer Gouin and of G. H. Boivin, Deputy Speaker of the House, are suggested. It is proposed, in the formation of the new Government, to reduce the number of portfolios.

Parliament was prorogued today after the Governor General, in a speech from the throne, had complimented it on its provisions for continued Government wheat control and development of the air service.

Among the main enactments of Parliament during the session were:

A franchise act; increases in pensions; establishment of State insurance for returned soldiers; further provision for soldiers' land settlement; continued authority for supervision of the marketing of the wheat crop; provision for the naval service, and for assistance to shipbuilding and the air service. A new form of tax on luxuries was adopted.

In the retirement of the Right Honorable Sir Robert Laird Borden, G. C. M. G., P. C., from the Premiership of Canada there passes a statesman whose life has been marked by the effectiveness with which he maintained the political equality of Canada and the other Dominions with the Mother Country, and his friendship for the United States, despite his opposition to the passage of a trade reciprocity treaty between Canada and this country in 1911.

His friendship for this country probably began in the early 70's when as a young man he left his home in Grand Pre, the scene of Longfellow's Evangeline, to accept a position as instructor in mathematics in the Glenwood Institute at Matawan, N. J. Old inhabitants of that town still remember the gray-eyed Nova Scotian who took such an interest in the athletic activities of the school.

He was a frequent visitor in New York and Washington, where he went to consult on finance matters and co-operation between the two countries, and he often spent a holiday at Hot Springs, Va.

Sir Robert's first office was as a Conservative member of the House of Commons from Halifax in 1896. When he assumed the Premiership he was leader of the Opposition in the House. He defeated and succeeded Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911 after a bitter struggle, chiefly as a result of his opposition to the reciprocity treaty, a proposal which had the indorsement of President Taft and the Canadian Liberals.

Sir Robert's attitude during the World War was one of undivided loyalty to the British Empire and the Allies. At the outbreak of the war he threw his efforts to the task of giving aid on a large scale and mainly through his instrumentality nearly half a million soldiers were sent overseas from the Dominion. When voluntary enlistments began to fall off after three years of war, he returned from a trip to Europe with the announcement, late in 1917, that he was determined to apply conscription to raise 100,000 replacement troops. His first efforts to form a Coalition Government failing, Sir Robert offered to resign, but his supporters in Parliament refused to consider it. He finally forced a conscription bill through the House of Commons, and won the support of a majority of the Liberals, by which he formed a Unionist Government.

When the announcement came over the wires that the United States had entered the conflict, the Premier said "it sounds the death knell of German militarism," and when General Pershing in two weeks straightened out the St. Mihiel salient, a project which had resisted the allied efforts for three years, he sent the American commander a warm message of congratulation.

As a Colonial representative at the Peace Conference, Sir Robert early came out for a League of Nations. In an address in London just after the signing of the armistice he declared "America and England together could maintain the peace of the world."

Sir Robert is a descendant of Samuel Borden, an American surveyor, who went to live in Falmouth, N. S., in 1760. He was born June 6, 1854.

WILLIAM FOULKE DEAD.

Treasurer of American Bible Society Devoted Life to Charitable Work.

William Foulke, for thirty-four years Treasurer of the Washington Square died yesterday morning at his home in New Rochelle His life had been chiefly devoted to charitable work. He was President of the New York Dispensary, treasurer of the aWshington Square Home for Friendless Girls, and trustee of the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind. Formerly he had been President of the last institution, but recently resigned on account of failing health.

Until he moved his home from New York City to New Rochelle he had been a warden and the treasurer of St. George's Church and an active member of its building committee. His clubs included the Union and the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club. He was born in New York City seventy-three years ago, a descendant of William Beekman, founder of the Beekman family in this country. Following the services at Christ Church, Pelham Manor, tomorrow morning, he will be buried in the ancient vault of the Beekmans, Foulkes and De Peysters at Greenwood.

Mark Rollo Spelman.

Mark Rollo Spelman, retired sugar merchant, died Wednesday night at the Hotel St. Andrew. He was born 74 years ago at Mount Morris, N. Y., of Colonial ancestry. On graduating from Fort Edward College he went South and after a period of railroading purchased sugar plantations in Louisiana. He became president of the Colonial Sugar Company and for many years headed the Ponchartrain Levee Board. He moved North some years ago and retired, but entered the war as Deputy Alien Property Custodian for Porto Rico and the Virgin Island. His death is attributed to exposure two years ago when he spent eighteen hours in a lifeboat after the steamer Carolina was torpedoed.

DELFIN MOREIRA DIES.

BUENOS AIRES, July 1.—Delfin Moreira, Vice President of Brazil, is dead, according to a Rio Janeiro dispatch to La Nacion today. He was elected Vice President in 1918 and in January, 1919, assumed the Presidency temporarily on the death of President Alves. Señor Moreira relinquished the acting Presidency on the inauguration of President Pessoa in July of the same year.

In his message on assuming the office of Acting President Señor Moreira expressed his gratitude to the United States for the stimulation of trade relations during the war and recalled the friendly welcome accorded Brazilian officers studying in American military institutions.

FIVE DROWNED AS HEAT LURES TO THE BEACHES

Thermometer Registers 81 at 5 o'Clock—Man Overcome in Central Park.

The warm weather yesterday drew great crowds to the city's beaches and tempted many to go swimming in nearby waters. As a result five persons were drowned.

Joseph Powell, 13, of 237 West 124th Street, dived into the North River at 128th Street and did not come to the surface again. The police failed to find his body. The boy's mother identified the clothes he left on shore.

Harry Dillon, 13, of 724 Eleventh Avenue, fell into the North River at Fifty-first Street, where he was playing with some companions. His playmates were unsuccessful in their search for his body.

Edward Broch, 25, of 304 Forty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, was drowned in the presence of his father in the vicinity of the new Cunard dock at Weehawken. A friend attempted to save him but failed. His father was on the pier when the young man was drowned.

George Schontzer, 16, of 1,326 Webster Avenue, was drowned while swimming in the Bronx River near 165th Street. He called for aid, but as he was an excellent swimmer his companions thought he was joking. They went to his aid when he screamed a second time, but it was too late.

James Benson, 40, and a good swimmer, who lived at 137 Perry Street, was drowned in the North River off Leroy Street.

Joseph Gilroy, 35, of 654 Seventh Avenue, was overcome by heat at the West Drive of Central Park, opposite Sixty-sixth Street, and was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

The thermometer registed 81 degrees at 5 P. M. yesterday, the highest during the day. The highest for the same day last year was 88.

CRAIG COINS WORD 'BLACKGUARDIA'

ROW ON SNOW REMOVAL

Reference to Official Favoritism Sets Old Enemies at Odds in Meeting.

Controller Charles L. Craig found the dictionary incomplete yesterday to express his opinion of Fiorello H. La Guardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, in one of the verbal skirmishes which accompany all of the meetings at which the two men are present. "Blackguardia" was the only word which the Controller could think of to tell Mr. LaGuardia exactly what he thought of him. For once the Aldermanic President had no come-back.

Snow removal was the question on which the two city officials clashed. The Sinking Fund Commission had under consideration several applications from the Department of Street Cleaning for the assignment of city property on which to build garages for the housing of snow removal machinery under the new plan that the department has adopted.

The Controller, with his usual eye for expense, couldn't see why the locations should be decided upon now, because, he said, there was plenty of time before snow fell.

"Snow will be here before we know it," said Mayor Hylan. "The time to prepare for its removal is now and it is going to be done today."

When the Mayor put the matter to a vote the Controller did not vote, and the motion was carried.

President LaGuardia could not resist the temptation to renew hostilities with the Controller, so he explained his vote in favor of the motion this way: "If the Controller will use the same scrutiny and care in assigning city owned property to city departments as he does in assigning city property to close personal and political friends the city will be better off." The reference apparently was to the leasing of a pier by the Sinking Fund Commission to Carroll, Hagan & Carroll, a stevedore firm, of which Foster A. Hagan, son of James J. Hagan, a Tammany leader, is a member.

"The statement made by the Aldermanic President is made from whole cloth with an utter disregard of facts," rejoined the Controller hotly. "It is the wildest kind of a radical, Socialistic, blackguardia statement."

The Controller's achievement caught Mr. LaGuardia off his guard. "The record speaks for itself——," was all the could reply before the Mayor put an end to the whole discussion with a sharp rap of his gavel.

PARIS TO OBSERVE THE 4TH.

Troops Will Parade Before the Statue of Washington.

PARIS, July 1.—Newspapers of Paris today called the attention of the people to the fact that Sunday is American Independence Day. The Matin declares the French Government will do its utmost to secure proper recognition of the occasion, the exercises including a parade of troops before the statue of Washington. The newspaper asks Parisians to decorate their homes with flags on July 4.

$1,000,0000 FOR WORKMEN.

Todd Shipyards Corporation Distributes Shares to 727 Employes.

Stock in the Todd Shipyards Corporation, having a market value of $1,000,000, which on option can be increased to $1,500,000 at the end of four years, was distributed yesterday among 727 employes of the shipbuilding company by its President, William H. Todd. From one to fifty shares of stock, worth from $165 to $8,250, were given to each of the employes as a reward for loyalty shown to the company through the war, when the men of the shipyard were called upon to put forth their greatest efforts.

The distribution was in accordance with a promise made four years ago by the President of the corporation, who personally made the distribution among the employes at the Robins Dry Dock and Repair Company, Erie Basin, Brooklyn, at noon, and later in the afternoon at the Tietjen & Lang Dry Dock Company's dock in Hoboken. More than 4,000 workmen witnessed the presentation at the Erie Basin.

The employes of the Todd Shipyards Corporation presented Mr. Todd with a loving cup, a diamond-studded watch and watch charm, a hand-embroidered silk American flag and a golf set imported from Scotland. For these tokens the workmen has contributed more than $5,000. Telegrams and loving cups were also sent to him by the employes of the corporation's yards at Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., and by the employes of the Tietjen & Lang Dry Dock Company, the Tiebout Yacht Basin, Trenton Dry Dock and Repair Company, and the White Fuel Oil Engineering Corporation.

The presentation of the stock was made a gala occasion, and the Erie Basin was amply decorated with flags and bunting. Ice cream and other deliccies were distributed among the wives and children of the workers.

The market value of the stock given to the employes is $165 a share. It earns a dividend of $10 a share. A requirement was that those receiving the gift should have been in the employ of the company for four years. Those who got as many as ten shares have the privilege of depositing half their stock with the company. This will double at the end of four years.

187 TRAFFIC DEATHS IN JUNE

New State Record for Such Fatalities—Autos Killed 68 in City.

Traffic accidents in New York State during June reached the highest number on record for a similar period, according to the figures compiled by the National Highway Protective Society, which show that 187 persons were killed by automobiles, wagons, trains and trolley cars. This number of fatalities exceeds by 68 the deaths reported from similar causes in June, 1918.

Automobiles were the greatest menace to life in New York City. They caused the deaths of 62 persons, while no fatalities were caused by trolleys or wagons. In the corresponding month of last year 57 persons were killed by motor cars, 7 by trolleys and 4 by wagons.

Five persons were killed at grade crossings last month, an increase of 2 over June of 1918.

Fines aggregating approximately $40,000 were collected in the Traffic Court during June, which proved to be a record month. In the same period the court handled 4,741 violations of automobile ordinances. Seventy-five motorists were convicted and sent to jail for from 3 to 20 days. During the month 1,159 speeders were convicted as first offenders, 82 as second and 17 as third offenders.

ANOTHER OIL INDICTMENT.

Blum, Reynolds & Co., Brokers, Are Defendants.

Another indictment was found yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of using the mails to defraud investors in oil stocks. The defendants are the brokerage firm of Blum, Reynolds & Co., which handled the stock of the Henderson Farm Oil Company, a Delaware corporation, and its officers and salesmen, as follows: Joseph T. Hervey, George J. Sayer, M. C. Collins, Albert De W. Blum, John Reynolds and George W. Larson.

The defendants are charged with having sold 500,000 shares of the oil concern by falsely representing that the company owned 2,795 acres of the best oil land in Kentucky; that the property was producing 3,000 barrels of oil a month and that it soon would produce six times this amount. The indictment alleges that the Rev. J. A. Caulfield of West End, N. J.; the Rev. Edward A. Jakob of 408 Jefferson Street, Mendota, Ill.; the Rev. August A. Ziesel of Whynot, Neb., and Oscar Klein of this city were defrauded.

BOYCE AUTOMATIC FIRE EXTINGUISHER

Nips it in the bud

THE time to stop a fire is when it starts—before serious damage can be done—before lives are endangered.

That's the way the Boyce Automatic performs. It starts quick. It acts quick. It stops the fire quick—smothers it under a blanket of vapor in which no flame can live.

And it makes no difference what kind of a fire it is—or where it is—a gasoline or oil blaze under the hood of your car or truck or on your motor boat—the curtains or furnishings of your home or office—the gas tank in your garage—the fire danger points in your factory or warehouse—it's all the same to the Boyce Automatic.

The Boyce operates automatically—much like a sprinkler system. And it can be used anywhere with equal effectiveness as a hand extinguisher—without pumping.

Don't wait for your car, home or place of business to burn up or down. Put a Boyce Automatic in every danger-point today.

TO ALL DEALERS in electrical goods, hardware, and auto supplies—if you are not selling the Boyce Automatic, you are losing out on one of the biggest selling items in your line. Write for full information today.*

Do you know the art of traveling in comfort

IF YOU are like ninety-nine out of a hundred persons you resolve to get at your vacation packing early. But you put it off from day to day. Finally, on the last night, you throw things into your old dress trunk in a hurry, carelessly folded, loosely packed. When the expressman calls you jam in the last things—slam down the lid—and wonder what you've forgotten!

You will never realize that packing can be made a pleasure instead of a task until you get a Belber Wardrobe Trunk. No fitting things in like a picture puzzle. There is a place for everything.

Just hang up your clothes as you would in a closet—they can't become mussed or wrinkled. Lay your other things in the drawers as you would in your bureau.

There is a place to pack your hats without crushing them. There are places for your umbrella, your laundry, shoes, jewelry, etc.

The more experienced a traveler is—the surer you can be that his Wardrobe Trunk is a Belber. A Belber Wardrobe Trunk seems to suit the critical travelers to the last dot of style, convenience and practical value.

The material and construction that make a Belber so well worth the money, you can find out only by putting it to the hardest service.

The careful planning that carries clothes just right, you will appreciate the minute you start to pack your Belber Wardrobe—and appreciate all over again when you open the trunk and see how fresh your clothes look.

Small wonder that Belber is the largest maker of fine luggage in the world today!

YANKEES FINALLY OVERTAKE INDIANS

HUGMEN HIT IN PINCHES

Pound Moore and Keefe for Ten Bingles, Bunched with Disastrous Walks.

RUTH GETS MERE DOUBLE

Polo Grounders Take Lead in Fifth and Clinch the Pastime with Three Runs in Seventh.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—The Yankees did enough timely hitting here this afternoon to make it three straight over the lowly Athletics, winning by a score of 9 to 5. And by so doing they managed to get a finger-nail grip on first place in the American League pennant race. Although the Yankees have won two more games than Cleveland, the New Yorkers have lost one more game than the Indians and officially they are tied. A defeat at this stage of the race counts so much more than a victory that the percentage table indicates that New York and Cleveland are tied for first place with .662 each. This is due to the fact that in both instances the fractions over .661 are more than one-half, so the teams are credited with a full point. It is the fraction, however, that gives the Yankees a perfectly legal claim to the pinnacle. Carrying their percentages out to four figures it is found the Yankees have .6617 and Cleveland .6615, as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Cleveland	43	22	.6615

Therefore, it can readily be seen that the Yanks are justified in throwing out their chests and strutting a bit. It is the first time they have scaled the heights this season, and, while their hold on the top rung of the championship ladder is not strong enough to permit them to do much gloating, still a little moderate verbal celebrating is not out of order. After the game this afternoon the Yankee players gave three cheers and a couple of hips hips in the clubhouse. They were a jubilant troupe. The exuded almost as much joy as if they had clinched the championship and were assured of a place in the world's series sun.

There was no one particular player responsible for the victorious outcome of the clash with the dovelike clan Connie Mack is leading through the American League schedule this season. All the Yanks did their share. As a team they were outhit by the Athletics, the Philadelphians delivering twelve safe blows to New York's ten, but the difference was that Moore, who essayed to pitch for the Mackian brigade, did not have as much control as Ernie Shore, who operated on the pitching eminence for the Yanks. That the Polo Grounders bunched their hits with bases on balls to good purpose the score indicates.

Hard Hitting Saves Shore.

The fact that Shore had just as much difficulty in pitching this afternoon as he has had on other occasions this season was lost sight of to a great extent because of the timely clouting contributed by his teammates and the fact that the Yanks were never really in danger after their fifth turn at bat. Babe Ruth didn't get any homers, and in that respect the game wasn't as big a success as it might have been, but the slugging infant did wade through with a couple of hits, one of which was a double, and he also scored a run, so that the afternoon was not entirely wasted.

The Yankees took the lead in the second inning when they scored a brace of runs on two bases on balls, an error, an infield out and a single. Meusel started the round by walking. Bodie also got a ticket to first. Moore attempted to catch Meusel off second, but there was no one at the midway to take the throw, and the runners each advanced a base. Pratt rolled to Thomas and was thrown out, but Meusel had time to score on the play. Hannah injected a single into left and Bodie romped home.

The Athletics got a run in their half of the same inning, due chiefly to Strunk's double. He led off with a two base blow to centre, took third when Pipp retired Perkins unassisted, and scored while Pipp was retiring Myatt. In the fourth round the Athletics forged into the lead by scoring two runs. Dugan beat out an infield tap. Strunk found another double lurking in his system and whanged the ball to right, Dugan rushing to third. Dugan continued to the plate and Strunk ambled to third when Ruth let the ball trickle through his legs. Perkins lifted a long fly to Bodie and Strunk counted.

Yankees Go Into Lead.

The Athletics' lead was short lived. The Yanks forged ahead in the fifth inning by grabbing two more runs. Shore walked and was boosted to third by Bodie's double to left. The runners were held at their stations while Moore was throwing out Ward, but Pipp jumped into the breach by doubling to centre and Shore and Peck registered at the home plate. Thereafter the New Yorks were not headed, although the Athletics strove hard to make a perceptible dent in the winning column.

In the seventh inning the Yankees turned loose their big guns and collected three more runs, clinching the game. Peck started the hilarious seventh by beating out a single to Dugan. Ward lined to Walker. Pipp walked and Ruth also walked. The bases were loaded with runs, and Meusel rolled a slow one through the infield for a base hit. Peck and Pipp scampered over the rubber, while Ruth put on the brakes at third base. That was enough for Moore. Connie Mack ordered him to the clubhouse to reflect on his mistakes, Keefe taking his place on the hurling hill. Bodie greeted the change in pitchers by driving a single to left, which was ample to escort Ruth over the pan. Meusel also attempted to score on the hit, but was thrown out at the plate, Walker to Perkins. Pratt ended the round by flying out to Myatt.

Quakers Score a Run.

In the last half of the same round the Philadelphians grabbed a run. Keefe doubled to right and skipped all the way to third while Peck was throwing out Witt. Griffin beat out a roller to Pratt and Keefe scored. Shore applied a little more speed and fanned Walker. Dugan doubled, but the hit was wasted so far as further scoring was concerned when Strunk flied to Bodie.

The Yanks were not altogether satisfied with their work and proceeded to add two more runs to their total in the eighth canto. Hannah struck out for a starter, but Shore singled to left. Peck and Ward both walked and the bases were filled. Ruth beat out an infield hit—an unusual thing for Ruth to have to do—and Shore scored. The bases were still filled when Gleich batted in place of Meusel and walked, forcing in Peck. Bodie ended the celebration by flying to Strunk.

The Athletics got their last run of the game in the ninth inning. Burrus batted for Keefe and was thrown out by Pratt. Witt doubled to left. Griffin beat out a hit to Shore and went to second on Shore's wild throw to first base, Witt scoring. Walker struck out, Dugan walked, but Pratt tossed out Strunk and the game was over.

Apology Necessary for Mays To Pitch in Philadelphia

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—By making a public apology to Bryan Hayes, whom he hit with a baseball here a year ago, Carl Mays, pitcher of the New York Yankees, will be able to perform here on Saturday, after an enforced absence from Philadelphia since Memorial Day of last year. Mays says he is willing to make the apology, and by so doing he can pitch here without running the risk of being sent to the jug. Mays was twirling for the Boston Red Sox when the incident involving Hayes occurred. Hayes was sitting back of the Boston dugout, when, during a rally by the Athletics, some boys began pounding on the dugout roof. Mays became angry and blamed Hayes, who called him down. Mays threw a ball at Hayes, who is boxing instructor at the Racquet Club, and hit him on the head. Hayes immediately had a warrant sworn out. In a conference today Hayes made it clear that he did not want any damages, but was merely seeking an apology, which Mays has intimated he is willing to give.

GIANTS VS BOSTON TODAY, 2 games (weather permitting), 1:30 P. M. Polo Grounds.—Advt.

INDIAN SIGN STILL WORKING ON GIANTS

Robins Once More Crush Them Into the Polo Grounds Dust, This Time by 8 to 1.

FAIL TO HURDLE MARQUARD

The Rube Proves a Stumbling Block, While Superbas Pound Benton and Winters is Wild.

Although the sad tidings need not be shouted from the housetops of Manhattan, it is nevertheless true that the Giants were beaten again yesterday by the Brooklyns at the Polo Grounds. The mathematical reckoning was 8 to 1. That's three straight defeats for McGraw's lads at the hands of the Flatbush neighbors. For New York fans the only information which can compete with this is the sad news which the landlords are sending around about boosts in rent.

Rube Marquard perpetrated this downfall of the Giants, by confining their batting efforts to four hits. Rube was unusually careful in his performance yesterday because no less a critic was watching him than Richard Marquard, Jr. Little Dick expected his governor to win, and Rube had to make good with the lad. There were no two ways about that. Rube knew that if the Giants started to maul him, young Rube would probably rush out on the field and want to pitch.

In only one inning, the fourth, were the Giants able to group two hits. Bancroft's double and a single by Ross Young manufactured the Giants' only run in that period. Marquard had more curves yesterday than that relic of bygone days, the corkscrew. He whipped the ball over in such saucy twists that he deceived an old timer like Hank O'Day.

O'Day couldn't believe his eyes, and in the fourth inning he called Rube into chest-to-chest consultation. He examined the pockets in Rube's uniform and looked at his glove. He didn't find any beeswax or any emery paper or any resin. The umpire's report to the Giants on the investigation reminded one of the newspaper headlines on the Elwell mystery, "Probe Reveals Nothing."

Giants Use Three Twirlers.

Rube Benton started to pitch for the Giants and was knocked out before the first inning was ended, Jess Winters taking his place. In the ninth Jess Barnes relieved Winters. This duty of finishing the game for the Giants used to be Hubbell's pet job, but Hubbell has been sold to the Phillies, so he can't finish any more games for the Giants.

Olson greeted Benton with a single to centre in the first and Doyle threw Johnston out at first. Kilduff doubled to left and scored Olson and Wheat skied to Frisch. Myers rapped a double to left and sent Kilduff home, while Konetchy's single scored Myers. Bernie Neis singled to centre, sending Koney to second and Benton was yanked out. Miller, the first man to face Winters, was thrown out by Frisch and the depressing ordeal was over. That is, for the time being.

The first hit of Konetchy's in the opening inning was only a starter, for as the afternoon wore along he got three more hits, making a sizable total for his day's work. Winters got through the second inning famously and it looked as of he was going to declare himself at last on the flinging question.

He was seized with a bad attack of wildness in the fifth and sixth innings and began to distribute bases on balls broadcast. He gave four passes in the fifth and forced a run over the plate. As if that wasn't a striking enough example of his generosity, he began issuing more passes in the sixth and forced over another run. Winters has been around the Polo Grounds now for quite a while and he should know by this time just where that plate is. All the folks in the grandstand know its location so well that frequently they call the umpire's attention to it.

More Damage Is Done.

Kilduff walked in the third and Wheat laid a hit down toward third base. Kelly fielded the ball but made a quick toss to first. Winters wasn't quite prompt enough to get the ball and it rolled far enough away for Kilduff to go to third. The tap was a hit anyway for Wheat, for he went down to first like a race horse. Myers lofted a high one to King and Konetchy whizzed a liner straight down through the pitcher's box to centre field. Umpire Quigley had just time to drop in his tracks and save his head for use in future games. A sacrifice by Neis sent Wheat and Koney along and when Miller soaked a single to left, Wheat counted and Koney went to third. Marquard was thrown out by Larry Doyle and again the Giants breathed easmier.

Winters began to befriend the Dodgers with gifts in the fifth. Wheat walked and Myers secrificed. Winters threw Koney out at first and Neis walked. Winters couldn't pitch one over and Miller walked, jamming the bases. Marquard was the next pedestrian and he forced Wheat home. Winters got quite a hand when he fanned Olson.

Johnston trying to duck one of Winter's shoots in the sixth accidentally hit the ball, sending it to Bancroft and was thrown out at first. Kilduff got a pass and went to third on Wheat's single, Myers was safe on Bancroft's fumble, Kilduff scoring. Konetchy got a single to short right filling the bases. Winters walked Neis and forced Wheat over again.

The lone run of the Giants came in the fourth. After Burns sent a liner to Neis, Bancroft doubled to the left field fence and scored when Young singled to centre. The only other hits off Marquard came in the seventh and eighth. Frisch got a clean single to centre in the seventh and Doyle got a scratch hit when Koney left first uncovered in the seventh.

ORIOLES TAKE TWO FROM JERSEY CITY

Win First from Skeeters, 3 to 2, in Eleventh and Romp Home in Second, 9 to 3.

Jack Dunn's Orioles concluded their visit to the home of Bill Donovan's Skeeters with a double victory yesterday, flying off with the first game after a battle consuming eleven innings, by a 3 to 2 score and then coming right back for another easy victory in the farewell half by the decisive margin of 9 to 3.

The first game was practically tossed into the Baltimore bat bag after the home team had obtained what looked like a firm hold on the contest. The wild heaves of First Baseman Tom Denoville in the seventh inning enabled the opposition to deadlock the count, necessitating the overtime periods ending in the birds' final success. In the fatal seventh Jersey City had a 2 to 1 lead with every prospect of victory until the Jersey City captain upset the bean bag with his wild toss to first on Boley's bunt, enabling the Oriole shortstop to scramble to second. Marlette's attempted sacrifice was a pop fly which Denoville grabbed and then threw the ball into centre field in the effort to double Boley at the midway. The latter chased over to third and raced home when Ben Egan lifted a high fly to centre. The next man struck out.

After this the teams ran even until the eleventh, when Bentley hit for two bases with one out. Holden singled and Boley's fly to Wigelsworth enabled Bentley to carry home the victory.

The seven-inning curtain performance proved a slug fest on the Baltimore end and Jacobson, the champion bat wielder of Dave Fultz's circuit, proved himself the Babe Ruth of the International League by registering two home runs in his three trips to the plate. Jacobson, who is leading the league in hitting, delivered his first circuit clout in the third frame, with the bags all dressed up with Baltimore runners, and away went the Jersey City ball game.

Curves and Bingles

Wheat got two of the cheapest runs of his baseball career yesterday. Twice he was forced in by bases on balls. He should send Winters a box of cigars.

Hubbell has finished so many games for the Giants that it just about qualifies him to start a few for the Phillies.

Jess Winters usually relieves Jess Barnes in the box, but Manager McGraw switched them around yesterday to see if it would work any better. Barnes relieved Winters in the ninth and the Dodgers got no more runs.

The two principal defects with the Giants' playing are: First, they don't hit when their pitching is good and, second, their pitching is bad when they are hitting. When they play Brooklyn there seems to be something the matter with both pitching and batting.

Marquard's pitching must have been pretty nifty since Hank O'Day suspected him of using a trick ball. Hank inspected Rube with a dark lantern and microscope and didn't discover even a shine on the horsehide.

The Braves will visit the Polo Grounds for a double header this afternoon.

Hughie McQuillan, who pitches for the Braves, is a native of Astoria, L. I., and on Saturday the Knights of Columbus of that place will present the pitcher with a token of esteem for his good work with the Braves.

Aside from Bancroft, Larry Doyle was the only Giant who reached third base. He got there in the eight on a single, a steal, and Miller's bad toss to second.

If bases on balls were dollars, Jess Winters would have been dead broke long ago.

NO-HIT GAME FOR JOHNSON IN BOSTON

Senators' Pitcher Twirls First Hitless Battle of His Career, Beating Red Sox, 1 to 0.

BOSTON, July 1.—Walter Johnson of Washington pitched the first no-hit, norun game of his big league career of fourteen years today, defeating Boston, 1 to 0. Hooper, on Harris's error of an easy chance in the seventh, was the only Boston player to reach first. Johnson fanned ten men.

Harper pitched well for Boston. In the seventh Rice singled through the box and was forced by Roth, McInnis to Scott. Shanks singled through the box to centre, putting Roth on third, Shanks moving up to second on the throw to third. Shannon fanned. Harris bounced the ball off Harper's glove and Scott could not get it soon enough to prevent Roth from scoring. Shanks tried to score, but was out at the plate, Scott to Walters.

After two pinch hitters had fanned in the last of the ninth Hooper bounded the ball over first base, but Judge made a remarkable stop with his gloved hand and threw to Johnson, who covered first, for the final out. The Washington players overwhelmed Johnson with congratulations.

SWIMMERS IN FINAL TESTS.

National and Olympic Trials Soon to be Contested.

Amelcan swimmers, preparing for the final Olympic aquatic tryouts and the prospect of representing America in the international tests at Antwerp, Belgium, are confronted with an extremely busy season for the next three weeks. No less than seven National A. A. U. title events are listed, according to a schedule disclosed yesterday by Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary of the A. A. U., and Chairman of the National Championship Committee. Three of these championship tests will be held in the metropolitan district. With the men's final Olympic tryouts at Chicago, July 10 and 11, and the women's decisive tests scheduled for Manhattan Beach, July 10 and 14, the coming three weeks promise greater activity than the sport has ever before experienced.

The local district's aquatic plums include the women's one mile free style championship, which will be held at Rye Beach, N. J., Monday afternoon; the men's long distance swim, which will be held by the Riverton Yacht Club in the Delaware River, at Riverton, N. J., July 17, and the women's half-mile free-style title race, under the auspices of the Alamac A. A., at Lake Hopatcong, N. J., July 18.

Three of the national championships will be decided in conjunction with the men's final Olympic swimming and diving tryouts at Chicago, July 10 and 11. These include the 100-yard swim, 440-yard swim and one-mile swim, all free style events. The junior 440-yard free style title swim for men will be held by the Buckeye Lake Yacht Club, Ohio, on July 5.

On Aug. 7 the Birmingham A. A. will conduct the junior 440-yard championship swim for women at Birmingham, Ala.

TEST FOR CANOEISTS.

Atlantic Races Will Decide Contenders for National Titles.

Canoeists in the local district are preparing for the extensive program of races which will be conducted by the Atlantic Division of the American Canoe Association, at Georges' Island-on-the-Hudson, Sunday and Monday. The card includes a dozen races and, in anticipation of a heavy entry list, the officials have divided the sport into two days of activity. Six races will be conducted each day. Canoe clubs in Washington, Philadelphia and Sheepshead Bay will be represented. Winners in the different events will be eligible for the annual national championship regatta which will be held at Sugar Island, one of the Thousand Islands, Aug. 6 to 20.

SPENGLER VICTOR IN BOXING TRIAL

Policeman Outpoints Munce in Final of Olympic Test at Brooklyn Armory.

William Spengler, the New York policeman, showed last night that he has lost little in any of the form that won him the world's amateur heavyweight boxing title in 1911 at Madison Square Garden, when he won his way through the final round of the heavyweight division in the Olympic boxing tests at the 23d Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. Spengler outboxed Gordon Munce in the final by a decisive margin.

An upset in last night's card was furnished in the 147-pound class, in which James Amato knocked out Joe Florio in the first round. The summaries:

WILSON OUTPOINTS BARTFIELD IN BOUT

Middleweight Champion Scores Victory in First Appearance Since Winning Title.

Johnny Wilson of Harlem, new middleweight champion, made an unimpressive metropolitan début last night at the Newark Sportsmen's Club, where he engaged Soldier Bartfield, Brooklyn veteran, in a rather uninteresting twelve-round bout. The conqueror of Mike O'Dowd won the bout on points, but his manner of winning did not disclose any latent ability which would account for his victory over the sturdy, aggressive O'Dowd.

Wilson earned the honors in eight rounds. Two, the second and fifth, were even, and Bartfield, with characteristic recovery and combativeness, closed like a veritable whirlwind and literally drove the champion before him in the closing two rounds, under a shower of assorted blows. True, Bartfield's execution was rather uncertain; he missed miserably, but, nevertheless, the soldier managed to land enough blows in his pursuit of Wilson to land him the laurels in the eleventh and twelfth rounds.

On the whole Wilson's showing was disappointing. In explanation the argument that Bartfield is an awkward foe for any man might be advanced, but Wilson showed only a limited knowledge of the game. The champion is lacking in consistent initiative. When he upsets an opponent's attack, as he often did with Bartfield, he is at a loss what to do and fails to follow his advantage. His blows are slapped out, hooked short, or sent home weakly without effect. Then, too, the title-holder showed a penchant for clinching immediately after striking a blow, which was conspicuously unbecoming in a champion.

Wilson is a southpaw and stands with right hand and foot extended. Bartfield's pile-driving blows, however, forced Wilson on one occasion to keep his arms close to his stomach to avoid his rival's wicked drives. He jabbed cleverly with his extended right early in the bout and followed it with a short hook or uppercut with the left which brought Bartfield's head up with a jerk. Bartfield was as wild as an Erie timetable in his efforts at retaliation, and missed repeatedly with blows aimed nowhere in particular but in the general direction of the champion.

In the second and fifth rounds Bartfield, fighting in spurts, crowded Wilson to the ropes frequently and held his own in heavy exchanges at close range. In the eleventh and twelfth rounds the soldier went to his rival in surprising fashion, and, forcing the fighting continually, had Wilson completely at sea. The titleholder retreated before his opponent's onslaughts, but Bartfield was nothing daunted, and followed relentlessly, though a bit wildly, with his arms working like flails.

In frequent clinches Bartfield sought to work to the stomach, but his efforts were frustrated by the champion's defensive work. In the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds Wilson gave his greatest displays, pounding Bartfield before him with a shower of blows which jarred the soldier and had him completely at sea. The Brooklynite, slow-footed and clumsy in his style, could not retaliate and Wilson had the crowd yelling madly as he forced Bartfield persistently about the ring.

In the closing two rounds, however, Bartfield recovered, and with a remarkable rally threw the crowd into a frenzy with the manner in which he plied Wilson with heavy rights and lefts to the stomach and face alternately. At the final bell Bartfield was hoisted on the shoulders of admirers and carried from the ring.

Loses Chance for Title by Bad Luck on Putts—Hagen Well Down on the List.

DEAL, England, July 1.—George Duncan, in winning for the first time the British open golf championship, provided the big surprise of the day by his truly heroic performance today in the final round of the tourney. Before the championship started he was a hot favorite, but his performance yesterday, attended as it was with considerable bad luck, had dashed the hopes of his warmest supporters. Mitchell's failure was another feature of the day. He started with a clear lead of six strokes, but threw it away in the third round by taking 84. At the end of the third round the position was an exciting one. Holland, the young Northamptonshire professional whom not a single spectator followed, took first place in the third round with 71, his aggregate being 229. Herd and Barnes followed with 230 each, Mitchell and Duncan were bracketed at 231 each and Ray and Wingate came next with 233 apiece.

All these men were possible winners when the fourth round started, but Duncan was playing superb golf following upon his morning round of 71. He returned a card of 72 in the afternoon and thus won the championship with an aggregate of 303, two strokes better than the next man, the veteran Sandy Herd. Then came Ted Ray with 303, Mitchell 307, Holland 308 and Barnes 309, with Hagen well down in the list with 329. There was much sympathy for Herd. He might easily have won had the luck been on his side. His third round of 77 represented sterling golf, but at three different holes his putt stayed on the very lip of the hole. Barnes had an excellent chance of winning. Had he managed to equal Duncan's fourth round of 72 he would have headed the list but he couldn't do better than a 79. Had Barnes won his victory would have been quite popular, for he had earned the highest approval from British golfers because of his style of play and his quiet, unassuming and strictly professional bearing. Professional golf in England has not yet reached that stage where its exponents drive to the courses in motor cars accompanied by a retinue of male and female admirers and backers arrayed in highly talkative raiment.

BARNES PLAYS STEADILY.

Goes Out in 37, but Is Bothered by Wind on Return Trip.

DEAL, England, July 1.—George Duncan, the veteran British professional golfer, won the British open golf championship, concluded on the links here today, with a total of 303. Duncan went to the front by doing the third round in 71 and the final round in 72.

Duncan, despite the bad weather, did the last round in 72, giving him an aggregate of 303.

His card on the last and decisive round was as follows:

Out ....4 4 5 2 4 5 4 3 4—35
In ....4 4 4 4 3 4 5 4 5—37—72

Of the two American entrants Jim Barnes finished with an aggregate of 309 and Walter Hagen with 329. Barnes went out in the fourth round in 37, but on the homeward journey he was considerably bothered by the high wind, taking 41. The score:

Out........5 4 5 3 5 3 3 3 6—37

Both American contenders were unfortunate. Barnes kept getting on the wrong side of the wind and was twice in the rough, at the ninth and again at the eighteenth, while he also missed short putts at the last two holes.

Walter Hagen, the other American professional, who was hopelessly in the rear at the conclusion of the first two rounds, did badly in the third round, scoring 84, which left him without possible chance.

Barnes's play in the third round was steady on the outward half, his first mistake being at the seventh, where he pitched his third over the green into the long grass, but chipped back dead to the pin and got a five. Going to the ninth his second landed in ground under repair and he lifted without penalty.

Coming home, Barnes missed a yard putt at the sixteenth and again at the seventeenth. At the eighteenth he was twelve yards away in three, but put the next down with perfect confidence. His card follows:

Out ....4 4 5 3 4 4 5 3 5—37
In ....4 4 4 4 4 5 6 5 4—40—77

American hopes were mainly pinned on Barnes, who ended the second round yesterday tied with the former champion, Alexander Herd, for second place, with a score of 153. Walter Hagen, the other American professional in the contest, stood forty-eighth on the list, with 156, and did not improve his position this morning when he could not do better than a 78 in the third round, bringing his total up to 244.

George Duncan, who was eighteenth on the list when the second round ended, turned in a 71 this forenoon, the best score thus far, making himself a contender with 231. When the first fifteen had completed the third round Herd led with 230, having made a 77 in this round.

PLATT LEADS GOLF FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—J. Wood Platt of North Hills, Philadelphia golf champion, topped the big field this afternoon in the qualifying round of the invitation tournament of the old York Road Country Club when he broke the new course record with a 72, one above par. In view of the fact that the course is new and difficult, it is likely this mark will stand for a long while. The record over the old course was held by John P. McBean with a 74.

Platt would have made the course in par had he not hooked into the rough of the fifteenth hole. After getting into trouble, he was short out and missed a six-foot putt, making his total six for the hole. On the sixteenth, Platt had bad luck. He got into a trap, taking five for this hole. On the final hole he tried to run down a long putt, but his ball ran over the cup, thereby missing his chance to make the hole in two and play the course in par figures.

Only Golfers with Iron Nerves Are Wanted Here

A vicious blow at a sacred tradition of the links is planned by the local association of golf-playing newspaper men. The association will begin its "boo" handicap tournament on Tuesday at Van Cortlandt Park under the following conditions and premises, as divulged in yesterday's announcement: "One of the oldest and finest points of golf etiquette requires that one's opponent shall maintain silence while he is making a stroke. Some golfers have boasted that their game would stand up regardless of conformance to this rule. We want to see if there are any imperturbables in the New York Newspaper Golf Club. So far as known no club has ever conducted a tournament in which golf etiquette was to a certain extent permissibly ignored." In the match play each competitor has the privilege of saying "boo" while his opponent is in the act of making a stroke. One boo only is allowed on each hole, more than one meaning loss of the hole. Boos may be shouted on the tee, fairway or green. No boos are allowed for the qualifying round.

DYER IS MEDALIST AT SLEEPY HOLLOW

Turns In Card of 74 in Invitation Tournament—Lewis Is Second, with 76.

The old familiar shades of night were falling fast late yesterday afternoon at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. Most of the qualifying field in the three-day invitation golf tournament had finished. The caddymaster was yawning. Tom McMahon had about completed his deft hieroglyphics on the scoreboard. Spectators had been told for three hours that Reggie Lewis of Greenwich was low at 76, and most of them had left believing him the medalist. A handful of the Sleepy Hollow old guard sat near the ice water supply under the tent at the home hole obeying the Volstead act to the letter.

No matter how you viewed it, Sleepy Hollow was certainly the sleepiest looking hollow in Westchester County.

A tall young man from Upper Montclair, Frank W. Dyer, spoiled this pretty siesta completely. He damaged the picture beyond recognition. Dyer has been getting his name in headlines so often this Spring that it has become a habit. A few of the spectators roused themselves as his long frame came tramping down the slope toward the last hole. The others came to, when they saw his caddy giving the high sign that something was brewing. Dyer made nary a slip, but was on the green on his third and down in two putts for a par 5. Business of adding the card. Dyer smiled. C. G. Comstock, Jr., his playing partner, congratulated him. The onlookers finally got the news.

One Over Par.

Dyer had a 74, one over par, and won the qualifying medal. Not many living golfers can boast of such an achievement at the difficult Scarborough course, and it was particularly treacherous yesterday because of the rains earlier in the week. Player after player reported all day long that his game was aces high except for the putting. Dyer was out in a par of 35 and home in 39, one over regulation. He slipped up on the fourth hole, taking five strokes, including three putts, against the par of 4 for this 308-yard test, but he made it up on the hilly seventh hole. This is 440 yards long and Dyer negotiated it in a birdie 4. On the inward journey he took three putts at the twelfth, but put his tee shot on the 140-yard thirteenth dead and holed out a good-sized putt for a 2. The fourteenth he took in 5, one over regulation, because of three putts, but played strictly according to the tenets of the game on the last four.

Dyer's card, compared with the Sleepy Hollow par, follows:

Out—
Par ....4 3 4 4 3 4 5 5 3—35
Dyer ....4 3 4 5 3 4 4 5 3—35
In—
Par ....5 4 4 3 4 4 5 4 5—38—73
Dyer ....5 4 5 2 5 4 5 4 5—39—74

Lewis managed to keep a tight grip on second place right through to the last man. The trouble with his round was a mountainously big pair of sixes, and everybody knows that golfers aren't suppose to make sixes. One of these was on the par 4 fourth and the other on the par 5 sixteenth. Lewis atoned for these, however, with two 2s on the outward trip. On the 151-yard fifth he sank his putt for a birdie and on the 190-yard ninth he saw his chip shot trickle into the cup.

Hundred Answer Call.

An even hundred starters competed in the qualifying test, but the way was rough and thorny for many of them. Even Gardiner W. White, who lost to Ned Sawyer for the Metropolitan title on the thirty-seventh hole, took 85, the total also returned by such regulars as Charlie H. Paul, Al Mendes, Comstock and Lawrence W. Kinnear, now of the Detroit Golf Club. The list always to be found on the tail end of the scores, under the caption of "no cards," contains the names of formidable players. Grant Rice refused to tell the secrets of his round, as did Jay S. Jones, W. R. Nicholson and T. R. Holland

Lee Maxwell, the home club star who won last year's invitation tournament, qualified with a 77 and Henry J. Topping of Greenwich had a 79. Jesse Sweetser, now playing from Siwanoy instead of Ardsley, who won the intercollegiate championship a week ago, found trouble on the greens in common with many others. He even took three putts on the first hole from less than three feet. The young Yale man needed 84, yet on Wednesday he knocked off a 71 at Siwanoy.

Four sixteens will play in the match rounds, starting at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Yesterday's qualifying scores follow:

UNION B. C. EIGHT BEATEN IN HENLEY

Loses to Jesus College by Half a Length in Grand Challenge Cup Heat.

CHANLER ALSO DEFEATED

Boston Oarsman Trails Nussy of Kings College in Trial Heat for the Diamond Sculls.

HENLEY, England, July 1 (Associated Press).—American oarsmen in the Henley regatta today lost two pluckily fought contests. The eight-oared crew of the Union Boat Club of Boston was beaten by the eight of Jesus College, Cambridge, by half a length in the second heat for the Grand Challenge Cup, and William Chanler of the Union Boat Club was vanquished by T. H. Nussy of King's College Cambridge, in the preliminary heat for the Diamond Sculls..

American participation in the regatta thus is reduced to the four-oared race for the Stewards' Challenge Cup and the eight-oared event for the Thames Challenge Cup.

The four of the Union Boat Club of Boston tomorrow will take the water in the Stewards' Challenge Cup event against the Magdalen crew, Oxford. Rowing critics, who had praised the make-up of the American eight, predict that the Boston quartet will have no chance against the crack Oxford crew.

It is doubtful whether finer or pluckier contests than those participated in today by the Americans ever were witnessed on this historic course. The time of the Boston eight is regarded as exceptionally good, considering the heavy wind.

Chanler's effort to save the day for the Americans in the Diamond Sculls is universally lauded. It is conceded that the wind, which was a factor in the defeat of the eight-oared crew, was even a greatr handicap for Chanler.

Both of the American boats today were pulled along the Berks shore side of the course, and it is noteworthy that eleven of the winners in today's races in a total of eighteen events had the advantage of the opposite side of the course, the Buckinghamshire shore.

Chanler started the race slightly in the lead, but Nussy overcame this advantage at the quarter mile and, rowing in unrippled water, gradually lengthened the gap between the two shells with the American oarsman battling against the strong wind.

The time in the eight-oared race was 7 minutes and 49 seconds. Nussy's time in the sculls was 10 minutes and 31 seconds.

The races today were rowed under leaden skies and in drizzling rain. The weather, however, did not serve to dampen the enthusiasm of the people, who in large crowds, bringing lunch baskets with them and umbrellas, instead of the usual gaudy sunshades, swarmed early to positions along the river's sides or manoeuvred for choice moorings along the booms in the streams.

The Union Boat Club eight, which has been coached this year by William Haines, coach at Harvard, and by Robert F. Herrick, former rowing mentor at the same university, is almost exclusively a Harvard crew. All but one of the oarsmen came from the Crimson school of rowing and all of them, likewise, are graduates of several years' standing. The coach who accompanied the crews to England was Herrick, who coached the Harvard second 'Varsity which won the Grand Challenge Cup at the Royal Henley in 1914. It was to defend this cup that the Union eight went overseas, there having been no regatta held on the Thames since that sensational victory.

Notable among the members of the present crew is Charles Lund, who stroked the Crimson eight in the 1914 Henley. The Captain is Henry Murray, a former Harvard leader, and the bow man is R. F. Herrick, Jr., son of the coach of the combination.

The Union Boat Club eight's previous race this year was the Stewards' Challenge Cup event in the American Henley on the Schuylkill, May 29. The Boston oarsmen made a dismal showing, trailing the Navy, which won by five and a half lengths and finishing a bad last behind Syracuse and Princeton. The advisability of the Union eight representing the United States in the English Henley, following this defeat, was widely questioned by American rowing men, and the defeat yesterday was not unexpected.

William Chanler, who was defeated yesterday in a trial heat of the Diamond Sculls, won the singles event this year at the American Henley. The entry of the national single sculls champion, Jack Kelly, was rejected by the English authorities.

STARS ENTER DECATHLON.

Two Former Champions Will Compete in Olympic Tryout.

A number of the country's prominent all-around athletes, including two former holders of the coveted title, have entered for the national decathlon championship test which will be held by the New York A. C. at Travers Island, July 9 and 10. The entry is one of the most representative ever received for this event, and since the test will serve as a final Olympic tryout, officials are predicting keen competition among the thirteen stars already nominated. Entries for the decathlon, the national steeplechase title race and the 10,000-meter run final Olympic tryouts, which will be held in conjunction with the all-around event, will close today.

Alma Richards of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Harry Goelitz of Chicago are the former champions who have entered. Richards won the decathlon title in San Francisco in 1915, and established a record which has since withstood the assaults of ambitious athletes. Goelitz captured the all-around title in 1917. Several other athletes who have attained prominence as all-around men will compete against the two former champions.

Other prominent athletes entered include: William Yount, Redlands University, Cal.; Leon Perrine and R. N. Irving, University of Idaho; Brutus Hamilton, University of Missouri; Everett L. Bradley, University of Kansas; Robert L. Le Gendre, Georgetown University and Harold A. Jewett, Cornell University.

186 CYCLISTS ENTERED.

Many Olympic Riders to Compete in Acme Wheelmen's 10-Mile Event.

Many of the amateur cyclists who qualified for the final Olympic road racing tryout, which will be held on July 11, will compete Sunday morning in the ninth annual ten-mile handicap race to be conducted under the auspices of the Acme Wheelmen on the Harlem River Speedway. A total of 186 entries has been received for the race, which has experienced two postponements because of inclement weather. William J. Flynn, Commissioner of Public Works, the Bronx, is scheduled to start the race at 10 o'clock. In the unusually large entry are riders representing Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Florida and New Jersey, in addition to the local talent.

Among the cyclists scheduled to compete are Robert Grasing of the Acme Wheelmen, winner of the first Olympic road trial; Arthur Nieminsky, Unione Sportiva Italiana, victor in the second trial in which he made a new record of 5:26:40 for the 108.74 miles journey, and Fritz Dahlen, Key West, Fla., rider.

Upset May Run Tomorrow In the Brookdale Handicap

Wildair having failed to win in his last three starts against the more mature horses of the handicap division, H. P. Whitney will in all probability be represented in the Brookdale Handicap at Aqueduct tomorrow by Upset, winner of the Latonia Derby, at a mile and a half, and one of the best three-year-olds in that sportsman's stable. Upset was given a public trial at Aqueduct yesterday, where with his stablemate, Dr. Clark, he covered a mile and a furlong in 1:54 as a trial for the race tomorrow. Upset will carry 118 pounds and may have Wildair as a running mate.

HERRON SETS FAST PACE AT OAKMONT

Champion Covers First Nine Holes in 34 and in Two Rounds Is Six Under Par.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—It was a remarkable exhibition of golf that S. Davidson Herron, the national amateur champion, gave today, playing in the elimination rounds of the Pennsylvania State amateur championship tournament on the Oakmont Country Club course. Playing against William C. Fownes, Jr., of the Oakmont Club, former title holder, in the morning round, Herron established a new record for tournament competition here when he shot a 34 for the first nine holes, the par being 37, and won the match 4 and 3. He was 2 under par for the round. Every hole was played in par or better with the exception of the fifteenth, when, in putting for his par 4 he rimmed the cup and had to be content with a 5. In a recent friendly match he did the eighteen holes in a 67, 7 under par.

In the afternoon Herron opposed Richard C. Long, Stanton Heights, and overwhelmed his opponent, winning 8 and 7. Long did not win a single hole. Herron was out in 35, 2 under par, and was 1 under par for the next two holes. In the two rounds he finished 6 under par, which is believed to be a record never before duplicated in a championship tournament. The champion was playing in better form than when he won the national championship last August.

At the end of the two elimination rounds played today the question of the championsip was narrowed down to J. B. Rose, former Captain of the Princeton golf team; Max Marston, Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia; John Graham, Stanton Heights, and Herron. Marston will clash with Rose tomorrow morning in the semi-finals, while Herron will be opposed by Graham. It looks like Herron and Marston in the final, as both should win their matches in the morning.

Herron thrilled the large gallery by his remarkable playing against Fownes. He was hitting a terrific ball from the tee, and it was uncanny the way he was laying his mashie shots close up to the pin, always leaving himself easy putts. He did not miss a single putt of ordinary length during the entire round. After halving the first hole in 4, under par, Herron made a birdie on the second hole. He was in trouble from the tee, but he played a beautiful mashie niblick shot out of the rough and laid at three feet from the pin, sinking the putt for a birdie 3. Fownes took a 5.

Herron won the third with a par 4, rimming the cup for his 3. He got another birdie on the fourth hole, which is 516 yards in length, as a fine drive and a long brassie shot brought him home in 2, and he won the hole in 4, Fownes taking a 6. They halved the fifth and sixth holes, but Fownes won the seventh with a par 4 and the eighth with a birdie 2, Herron taking a 3. Fownes won the tenth and eleventh, but Herron took the next two and halved two more, giving him the match, 4 and 3.

The cards were:

Herron—
Out ....4 3 4 4 4 3 4 3 5—34
In 5 4 5 3 4 5
Fownes—
Out ....4 5 5 6 4 3 5 2 6—40
In 4 3 6 4 4 5

In the afternoon, playing against Long, Herron won the first five holes and the next three were halved, but Herron made it 6 up with a beautiful 4 in the ninth. His card for the outward journey showed 35. He had a birdie 4 on the tenth and a par 4 on the eleventh, scoring a win on each of them, and he won the match 8 and 7.

The cards:

Herron—
Out ....5 4 4 4 4 3 4 3 4—35
In 4 4
Long—
Out ....6 5 5 5 5 3 4 3 6—42
In 5 5

Today's summaries in the championship were as follows:

First Round—J. B. Rose, Allegheny Country Club, defeated A. C. Oliver, Allegheny, 4 and 3; F. W. Knight, Whitemarsh, defeated Geo. A. Ormiston, Oakmont, 2 up. Max R. Marston, Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, defeated J. B. Crookston, Stanton Heights, 6 and 4; C. F. Kauffman, Edgewood Country Club, defeated George Willock, Stanton Heights, 5 and 4; John Graham, Stanton Heights, defeated J. S. Ramsey, Edgewood, 5 and 4; J. B. Speor, Allegheny, defeated E. M. Byers, Allegheny, 1 up in 20 holes; S. Davidson Herron, Oakmont, defeated William C. Fownes, Oakmont, 4 and 3; R. C. Long, Stanton Heights, defeated A. R. Maxwell, Oakmont, 1 up.

Second Round—J. B. Rose, Allegheny, defeated F. W. Knight, Whitemarsh, 5 and 4; Max R. Marston, Merion Cricket Club, defeated C. F. Kauffman, Edgewood, 8 and 6; John Graham, Stanton Heights, defeated J. B. Speer, Allegheny, 8 and 7; S. Davidson Herron, Oakmont, defeated R. C. Long, Stanton Heights, 8 and 7.

Kirby Back from Belgium Today.

Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the American Olympic Committee, is expected to arrive here on board the S. S. Olympic of the White Star Line this morning at 9 o'clock. The ship will dock at her pier at the foot of West Eighteenth Street. President Kirby has been abroad for the past two weeks inspecting housing conditions at Antwerp, Belgium, and arranging final details for the accommodation of the American athletes during the Seventh Olympic Games.

ONLY ONE FAVORITE LEADS FIELD HOME

Sunflash II., Flibbertygibbet and Other Choices Fall by Wayside at Aqueduct.

The favorites have fared badly at Aqueduct this week, but the tide that has been running against them reached its height yesterday when the first five public choices on the card met with defeat, dealing a heavy blow to the form players. This succession of downfalls was broken in the final event when George W. Loft's Tamarisk, which had been installed favorite, romped home in front of a field of sixteen maiden two-year-old fillies and was greeted with cheers.

The defeat of Sam C. Hildreth's Sunflash II. in the fifth race at a mile was probably the biggest surprise of the day, though the patrons had by that time become accustomed to seeing the choices beaten. Sunflash is a horse of considerable merit and appeared to be much better than any of those he was called on to meet in the selling event. He was accordingly made an odds-on favorite, and he might have made his backers rejoice but for the fact that he became lame in the race and pulled up limping very badly. The race went to Sundial II., with Chasseur third.

Sunflash gave no evidence of lameness in going to the post and with the break he was rushed into a contending position and was second to Chasseur turning into the stretch, although he did not appear to be running with his usual ease. It appeared that Fator had him under stout restraint, but the horse has a habit of climbing in his stride and the jockey was probably doing the best he could with the racer under the conditions.

Sundial II. Wins by a Head.

Fator began to move up in the stretch and had come up to even terms with Chasseur at the furlong pole when Sunflash suddenly faltered. The horse tried gamely enough after that, but he lacked his speed and could not get up. Meantime Sundial II. had come up on the outside, caught Sunflash and in the final sixteenth overtook Chasseur to gain the verdict by a head. Sunflash was third, a length back of the second horse, and despite his collapse held that position by three lengths from Elmendorf.

The Union Selling Stakes was offered as the feature of the day. This was a sprint of seven furlongs for three-year-olds which brought out five starters. It was won by W. R. Coe's Service Star, with Mr. Brummel second and Flibbertygibbet, the well-played choice, third.

Flibbertygibbet had shown fine speed over the six-furlong route, but the additional furlong was his undoing yesterday and he tired badly in the stretch run. Mr. Brummel ran a very good race, but was weakly ridden and was given little assistance throughout. Service Star was kept close to the leader throughout and coming through on the rail moved up fast in the stretch and won with three lengths to spare. Flibbertygibbet was a strong contender to the furlong pole, where he wearied and was beaten for the place by four lengths.

G. A. Marshall's Marie Miller was easily the best of the nine fillies and mares that went to the post in the Regret Handicap at six and a half furlongs. This mare has been racing in the West and was consequently overlooked yesterday. She romped home at the odds of 7 to 1, while the favorite, Wedding Cake, was third, with Elected 2d getting the place.

Marie Miller Leads All the Way.

Starter Cassidy had much trouble getting this field away, as he had a number of bad actors to contend with. Marie Miller broke in front, opened up a gap of two lengths and won easily. Wedding Cake was a contender all the way to the final sixteenth, but she tired and finished five lengths back of the winner.

Ral Parr's Midas II. was an easy winner in the steeplechase event and defeated Transpero by eight lengths, with Syrdarya but a nose back of the second horse. Frank B., which set the pace for a turn of the field, was taken back on the second turn, but when he attempted to move up in the final dash he was all through and finished fourth. Earlocker fenced better than usual, but was lacking in speed and was badly outrun.

G. W. Loft's Tamarisk, which had been showing sensational speed in private, was evidently benefited by her last outing and scored easily in the last race. She defeated M. L. Schwartz's Fluff by a length and a half, with Rockland third. Tamarisk broke in front, drew away almost at once and was never threatened. Fluff tried vainly to follow the pace and though much the best of the others could never catch the leader.

In the opening event at a mile and a sixteenth Mose defeated a field of platers, winning by a length from Regreso with Tenons Bon third.

AMERICA'S FAVORED PAIR IS DEFEATED

RESULT SURPRISING UPSET

Boston-Pittsburgh Combination Wins in Five Hard-Fought Sets Scored at 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

TITLE FOR MLLE. LENGLEN

French Girl Retains Women's Championship at Wimbledon by Defeating Mrs. Chambers, 6-3, 6-0.

WIMBLEDON, July 1. (Associated Press).—Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh and Richard Norris Williams 2d of Boston defeated the other American pair, William M. Johnston of San Francisco and William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia in the semi-finals of the men's doubles in the British lawn tennis championship tournament here today. Their victory was achieved in five sets, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2.

The match was played on the centre court, the space around which was again packed with at least 10,000 enthusiasts, despite the fact that the day was a dull one. Johnston and Tilden, judging from a comparison with their match against the Frenchmen, Gobert and Laurentz, did not appear to be extending themselves in the first set, which they won, 6—4. Williams, however, served finely, while Garland executed a number of splendid forehand drives and was very effective in low volleys.

In the second set both Williams and Garland put in a lot of good work, after Johnston and Tilden had taken a 3—1 lead, the former pair carrying the score to 4—3 and running out the set, 6—4, with generally good play, while Johnston and Tilden frequently were not pulling together and were making numerous errors.

Garland's Play Brilliant.

Garland secured the first brace of games in the third set, Johnston and Tilden quickly equalizing the score. Then Garland and Williams, playing brilliantly, captured the set. Garland and Williams forged ahead 3—1 in the fourth set. Their opponents, becoming more steady, brought the score to 3—all. Johnston followed this up with a love service game, Garland on the next play equalizing the score. Here Garland was absolutely brilliant, following in the service to the net, and there in the pluckiest fashion standing up to the hurricane hitting. His volleyed returns sent back the ball with increased speed, often catching either Tilden or Johnston at their feet. Tilden won the ninth game at love by his service and in the next game secured Williams' service with his fine driving, the Johnston-Tilden combination thus taking this set, 6—4.

The final set was brilliant, Williams and Garland carrying the score to 3—1 by generally superior net work. Johnston then failed to win with his service, and he and Tilden followed this up by dropping the sixth game through Johnston's missing three successive returns.

This gave Garland and Williams the lead, 5—1. Tilden held his own service game, but Williams ran out his own service in the seventh game, giving Williams and Garland the set, 6—2, and the match, brought to a sensational finish by superior play on the part of the winners.

Garland played the best game of any of the four in this match and it was generally considered that Johnston made the weakest showing. The winners displayed sounder generalship, getting right into the net and always volleying, whereas their opponents were frequently caught near the service line, where they started tentative half volleys. Furthermore, the losers were generally short in their lobbing throughout the match.

Garland had never before approached such a fine all-around game, and many of the English experts declared they did not dream he had such wonderful stuff in him. Moreover, Williams soundly backed up Garland throughout the gruelling five sets. Garland's forehand driving was particularly effective. On the other hand, Johnston apparently has been unable to reach anything like form on the centre court.

Captain Hardy Enthusiastic.

Captain Samuel Hardy, of the American team, is enthusiastic about Garland's performance, while Tilden said he did not mind the defeat one bit, because "the boy," meaning Garland, "is a dandy." The well-known referee and handicapper, Francis Russell Burrow, thought so much of him as to say that in a few years Garland would "go right ahead of all the other Americans."

In behalf of Tilden, it can be said that his knee was most troublesome. It is an old trouble from his football days, and, in his contest against the Japanese, Shimidzu, Tilden wrenched the weakened knee. When he began play today his knee was bandaged, and this interfered with the circulation so much that, during the match, he removed the bandage.

Tilden tonight is receiving expert attention and is confident he will be all right for the challenge round of the singles against Gerald L. Patterson, the title holder, on Saturday.

The other semi-finals in the doubles was stopped by rain after the first set. This set was taken by A. F. R. Kingscote and J. C. Parke from another British pair, Davson and Mavrogordato, 6—4.

Mlle. Lenglen Wins Title.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the titleholder, defeated Mrs. Lambert Chambers, winner of the final in the ladies' singles, in the challenge round for the Brtish championship in ladies' singles, played this afternoon. Mlle. Lenglen won in straight sets, 6—3, 6—0.

The chief interest in today's play centred upon this match, largely owing to the fact that the same players, with Mlle. Lenglen as challenger, met in the challenge round last year, Mrs. Chambers losing in the third set of a hard-fought match. Mlle. Lenglen, who is frequently called "the incomparable Suzanne," introduced the fashion, which all the budding girlish championship aspirants are copying this year, of wearing short frocks and sleeveless blouses, cut low at the neck.

Mlle. Lenglen held her title of champion by immeasurably superior all-around play. She is a born stylist and uses plenty of free wrist work in all her strokes. She scored frequently today on service. She had Mrs. Chambers running from one side of the court to the other until she was breathless, Mlle. Lenglen then driving sharply for the point down the line. Furthermore, she always had a telling volley in reserve and a number of times came to the net and finished off the play with a round arm stroke or an overhead kill. The match was over inside of forty minutes.

Gobert and Parke Arrange Tennis Futurity for 1940

In the course of the current British championship lawn tennis tournament at Wimbledon, Andre H. Gobert, the famous Frenchman, who is generally recognized as the Continental champion, and J. S. Parke, the veteran internationalist and member of the present British Davis Cup team, came to terms on a tennis futurity, which, it was agreed, should be contested in the Summer of 1940. The contestants will be Gobert, junior, now 11 weeks old, and Parke, junior, who has reached the mature age of 12 weeks. Both parents figure that their sons, under the sort of coaching which it is their intention to provide, should be the leading contenders for the world's championship some twenty years hence. The youngsters will have to travel at a strenuous pace if they are to surpass the record of their sires.

HUNTER WINS WAY INTO SEMI-FINALS

Francis T. Hunter, former captain of the Cornell University tennis team, is the first contender for this year's Brooklyn championship to reach the semi-final round. He won his bracket yesterday on the clay courts of the Terrace-Kings County Association by defeating A. V. Duncan in straight sets, 7—5, 6—1. Herbert L. Bowman, Frank T. Anderson and Frank Danielson acquired places in the preceding round, the sixth, eliminating Henry Mollenhauer, E. Shumway and H. K. Bell, respectively. A good start was also made in the Brooklyn junior event, with a draw of thirty-two entries.

Hunter depended as usual on his tremendous forehand wallop to gain his position among the last four survivors of the record-breaking list of 220 that started down in Flatbush nearly a week ago. He was baffled by his opponent's steadiness in the first set, and made many errors in consequence. But he stuck to his hitting tactics, and eventually his persistence had its reward. The ball began to find the court with more and more regularity, while still coming off Hunter's racquet at terrific speed. Once his control was established, the Cornellian had little difficulty in completing his victory, the second set going in his favor at 6—1.

Young Anderson also won yesterday by hard hitting, utterly bewildering his Princeton rival by the speed of his drives. Shumway picked up two games in each set, but that was the extent of his success. The youngster, who two years ago held the Long Island championship, is going at top speed at present and seems to have entirely recovered his strength after a severe illness, which kept him out of the game for some time. Bowman was another young player who performed in brilliant fashion yesterday. He first took on Cecil Donaldson, who had captured the opening set of their fourth-round match on the previous day and had a slight lead in the second. This handicap did not in the least disconcert the Westchester star on the resumption of hostilities. He went right after every point as though unaware of any discrepancy in the score. After catching up in the game count Bowman rushed ahead to square the match at 6—3. Then with added confidence he set out for the rubber and kept up his speed and accuracy so consistently that Donaldson had to be content with a single game.

The veteran Mollenhauer promised to test Bowman's strength to the limit when he held him to a deuce set for the opener. But the youngster again broke loose with an unbeatable streak of hitting, and had the games at 5—0 in the second set before he could be stopped. Then Mollenhauer staged a spectacular rally, summoning all his resources to take three games in a row. It looked for a time as though he might tie up the set, but Bowman came through with the needed game on service, and the encounter ended in his favor at 6—3.

Several morning matches were played in the junior championship, at present held by Frank Anderson, the furthest advance being made by Franklin T. Osgood, Kenneth Stoddard and R. H. Marshall.

The summaries:

Fourth Round—Herbert L. Bowman defeated Cecil Donaldson, 3—6, 6—3, 6—1.

Fifth Round—Frank Danielson defeated H. K. Bell, 9—7, 6—4; Frank T. Anderson defeated E. Shumway, 6—2, 6—2; A. V. Duncan defeated T. Smith, 6—0, 6—1; H. L. Bowman defeated Henry Mollenhauer, 7—5, 6—3.

Sixth Round—Francis T. Hunter defeated A. V. Duncan, 7—5, 6—1.

Junior Championship—First Round—Franklin T. Osgood defeated W. Barringer, 6—2, 6—0; J. Tucker defeated Bradley Martin, 6—1, 6—1; A. R. Glore defeated W. Guest, 6—1, 6—1; E. Cohen defeated George Sasseen, 6—1, 6—3; Kenneth Stoddard defeated Townsend Martin 6—1, 6—0.

Second Round—Osgood defeated Tucker, 6—1, 6—1; Stoddard defeated G. Acker, Jr., 6—1, 4—6, 6—4; R. H. Marshall defeated Sheridan Gibney, 6—3, 9—7.

FOUR N. Y. CREWS ENTER.

Union Boat Club to Send Oarsmen to Regatta on Schuylkill.

Entries have been made for four New York crews in the People's Regatta to be held on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia next Monday. Among the 168 crews in competition will be the senior and junior eights of the Union Boat Club, the junior four gig and the junior double shell of the same organization. The entries include oarsmen from Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Toronto, as well as New York. There will be seventeen races and the course will extend over a mile and a quarter.

The New York crews expect to make a strong bid for the winning point score, especially if the junior eight wins its initial race and later comes through with a victory in the intermediate event. This will be the first time since 1906 that the New York club has sent both its senior and junior crews to the People's Regatta. The senior eight will be stroked by Franklin V. Brodil, and there will be three other veterans on the same crew, including Walter J. Falb, bow; Joseph C. Harth, No. 2, and Frank Hekker, No. 3. The junior eight will once more meet the crew from the Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia, to whih it lost in the only race in which the New Yorkers have contested this season. Jim Rice has been doing the coaching for the New York oarsmen.

NEW CLUB TOPSAIL TRIED ON SHAMROCK

Freak Bit of Canvas of Nicholson's Contrivance Is Tested on the Challenger.

CRAFT IN A SHORT BRUSH

Lipton's Cup Aspirant Shows Speed in Light Breeze—Sir Thomas Entertains Many Guests.

Special to The New York Times.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 1.—Sir Thomas Lipton's pair of trim, green single-stickers did not have any regular race today but they did have a slight brush and something infinitely more interesting than that, too. The brush was from off the Hook out toward the Scotland Light vessel and back, during which the challenger showed quite remarkable speed, considering the lightness of the breeze.

It was an ideal and typical light weather day off the Hook and the little breeze that was blowing held true and did not come in rare spots.

Mr. Nicholson, designer of the challenger, disclosed another of his secrets and surprises in the form of a new-fangled substitute for the regular topmast and club topsail. It was the first time such a contrivance ever was used in yachting in this or any other country, and whether or not it is a success remains to be seen.

Once it was up and working it seemed to serve its purpose quite well, but it took several attempts and a couple of hours' time to set it, but the fact that it was the first time the rig ever was used on any yacht, and that the crew was not familiar with the many new lines, sheets and halyards required in its operation, may explain the slowness today.

At any rate, the start to bend sails was made at 1 o'clock, and it was nearly 5 before the challenger was ready for her work. In the meantime the 23-meter Shamrock was indulging in a lonely spin off shore and back several times.

Beat Out to Lightship.

The work finally indulged in consisted of a beat out to near the Scotland Light vessel, and then Mr. Burton, Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Ratsey boarded one of the Victoria's launches and circled about the challenger, studying the sails from every angle.

Then, breaking out a monster new gossamer ballooner, the Shamrock IV. sped back toward the Hook and in to her mooring in the Horseshoe. The Victoria's launch had a hard time keeping up with her as she slipped along.

The sea was smooth as glass, except for the slight ground swell off shore, and brilliant sunshine added to the ideal conditions.

The Earl of Hardwick, Duncan Curry, Jr., U. S. N. and Frederick M. Hoyt sailed aboard the 23-meter craft, while James E. Stillman and G. H. Duggan were on board the challenger during her trial.

It was announced that William Fife, the British naval architect who had designed more than one contender for the cup, would arrive aboard the Olympic tomorrow and will be the guest of Sir Thomas during the cup races.

Mr. Burton, Corinthian skipper of the challenger, issued the following statement description of the new sail which made its appearance for the first time in yachting history today: "Shamrock IV. appeared this morning with a new topmast, some said a taller one, but, if so, it was hardly distinguishable to the eye. But those who watched Shamrock get her clubtopsail got a surprise, because, strange to say, it appeared she was setting a clubtopsail, when, lo and behold, a club yard appeared from inside her standing topmast, all trimmed with backstays, forestay and preventers. This Marconi yard gave the sail rather more hoist, but a much shorter club was used, having far less outboard beyond the gaff than her other sail. This should help to keep her gaff more inboard. It was stated some considerable saving in weight has been achieved, and another evidence of Designer Nicholson's ingenuity and originality has been afforded."

Many Guests Aboard Victoria.

Sir Thomas Lipton had as his guests today, aboard the Victoria, the Earl of Hardwick, General Thord Gray, British Counsel General and Mrs. Frederick Watson, James A. Stillman, Commodore Willard U. Taylor, Major Henry G. Updyke, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. L. R. Burnett, Miss Ann Jarvis, Aemilius Jarvis, Angus McDonald, David Barnes, Clarence Peacock, Hugh J. Pritchard, Herbert B. Keene, F. A. Buell, Charles F. Langer, Jerome G. Fraenkel, Duncan Curry, Jr., U. S. N.; F. B. Jones, Andrew Baxter, Frederick M. Hoyt and G. Herrick Duggan, the Canadian sailor and designer.

The two green sloops will have a real race off the Hook tomorrow, wind and weather permitting, during which a better opportunity will be afforded for studying the challenger's new and novel lofty rig.

Capablanca Here and Hopes To Induce Lasker to Play

En route to Europe, where he had planned to complete his negotiations for the world's championship match, José R. Capablanca of Havana, to whom Dr. Emanuel Lasker resigned his title a few days ago, arrived in this city yesterday on board the steamship Morro Castle. The Cuban master stated that he was not prepared to accept the action of Dr. Lasker as final for the present and that it had probably been due to a misconstruction placed by the champion upon a suggestion that had been made to add to the hours of play each day in order to accelerate the match somewhat. Capablanca will cable Lasker and attempt to arrange the match.

PICK GREAT RELAY TEAMS.

All-East and All-West Runners Are Named by American Legion.

The personnel of the crack All-East and All-West relay teams which will strive for a new two-mile record in a special race at the games of the 106th Post, American Legion, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on July 10, was disclosed last night.

The selections made by the American Legion committee in charge of the task give the Western contingent the greater apparent strength. This team will include Earl Eby of the University of Pennsylvania and Chicago A. A., Tommy Campbell of Yale and Chicago; Phil Spink, University of Illinois, and Joie W. Ray, Illinois A. C., national middle-distance champion. R. E. Johnson, Des Moines Uinversity, and J. Sprott, University of California, are substitutes.

The Eastern aggregation will include Eddie Meehan, Philadelphia; Jake Driscoll, Boston; Joe Higgins, New York, and Homer Baker, Brooklyn. Sandy Evans, New Haven, and Jack Sellers, New York A. C., have been installed as substitutes on the East team.

One of the greatest fields of sprinters ever brought together for a single race is expected to toe the mark in the special 100-meter race, which will be another attraction. Charley Paddock and Morris Kirksey, crack Pacific Coast sprinters; Jackson Scholz, Uinversity of Missouri star, and Harold Lever, University of Pennsylvania, were yesterday added to the list of prospective starters.

DARK HORSE WINS IN COLLEGE TENNIS

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—D. P. Robinson, fifth ranking player on the Harvard tennis team and entered in the intercollegiate tennis championshp tournament at Haverford only because one of the stars of the team was unable to make the trip, entered the Harvard Hall of Fame this afternoon when he earned the right to play Max Banks, who yesterday defeated Kirk Reid. Robinson entered the final by defeating Edmund Levy, the California star.

Robinson, who was expected to fall in the preliminaries by his teammates, surprised the large gallery today by playing one of the best games of the tourney. He really outplayed the Pacific Coast collegian, who was far and away the favorite to win the match. When Levy took the first set after a hard fight, it was expected that he would walk away with the second and the match, but Robinson, playing with all his might and main against his more experienced rival, reversed the count of the first set and made the score 1 all.

Continues Winning Pace.

In the third set Robinson continued the hot pace by winning the first three games, 5—3, 7—5 and 4—2. Levy braced and won the next two, 4—0, 4—2. Robinson won his fourth game, 4—1, and the same score came in the next game with Levy the victor. This made the count 4 and 3, with Robinson on the long end. Then started some of the best playing of the entire tourney. Robinson, by wicked smashes just outside the net, won the next game, 4—1. The next went to Levy, 5—3. The pace was getting warm for the Californian and he wilted before the dynamic attack of the Crimson lad, who took the game, 4—2 and the set, 6—4.

Max Banks, New England champion, will meet Robinson tomorrow afternoon in the final round of the tourney, and on form and experience should emerge the victor. Robinson, if he displays the game he played against Levy yesterday, should give Banks his hardest fight of the tourney.

Banks had a comparatively easy time of it, when he defeated Kirk Reid of Cornell in straight sets, 6—0, 6—4. Reid was away off form, showing but little of the play that made him one of the stars of the 1919 matches in which he gave Chuck Garland the fight of his life in the final. In the first set Banks had little difficulty with his taller opponent, but in the second Reid showed better form and managed to win the second, fourth, sixth and seventh games.

Cornell Advances in Doubles.

Reid, with his teammate, Holt, representing Cornell, won two matches in the doubles, defeating Ladd and Ballinger of George Washington in the morning, 6—2, 6—2, and Banks and Hawkes, the Yale stars, in three sets, 3—6, 6—4, 7—5, in the afternoon. Hawkes and Banks were the favorites for the doubles title and their defeat was a big surprise.

This afternoon the semi-finals and final of the doubles will be played. Tomorrow afternoon, in conjunction with the final match of the singles, there will be an exhibition match between Wallace Johnson and Stanley Pearson.

Singles, Semi-Finals—Max Banks, Yale, defeated Kirk Reid, Cornell, 6—0, 6—4; D. P. Robinson, Harvard, defeated Edmund Levy, California, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles, Second Round—Hawks and Banks, Yale, defeated Ladd and Ballinger, George Washington, 6—2, 6—2; Reid and Holt, Cornell, defeated Hymans and Fenno, Harvard, 5—7, 6—3, 6—3.

Third Round—Levy and Bates, California, defeated Gildersleeve and Estee, Cornell, 6—2, 6—3; Kirk Reid and W. S. Holt, Cornell, defeated L. M. Banks and K. Hawks, Yale, 3—6, 6—4, 7—5.

TOURNEY IS STILL CLOSED.

Only Westchester Tennis Players Eligible in Fixture.

There has been some uncertainty among tennis players this year as to whether the tournament for the championship of Westchester County was to be an open or a closed affair. For the last two years this event has been limited to residents of the country or members of clubs within its boundaries. On this year's published schedule no mention is made of this restriction, and consequently a number of entries were sent in which had to be refused. The tournament is still closed, but entries may be made until 7:30 this evening, by those eligible, at the Westchester County Tennis Club, Hartsdale.

Dr. George King is the present champion, and will play through in defense of his title. The North Side championship, which is an open tournament, will be played simultaneously at the University Heights Club. Both events are to begin tomorrow afternoon, and will continue through the three successive holidays.

ROCKAWAY POLOISTS WIN CLOSE MATCH

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKAWAY PARK, N. Y., July 1.—In one of the most exciting polo matches ever held at Rockaway Hunt Club, the Rockaway polo team defeated the Meadow Brook foudl this afternoon by a score of 10 to 9. Meadow Brook started with a two goal handicap in the first period and kept this lead until the sixth period, having a total lead of four goals in the sixth. E. W. Hopping, star of the Rockaway team, scored three goals, making a total of six goals for Rockaway. Rockaway soon tied the score with two goals, made by Hopping in the seventh period. During the eighth period each team scored one goal, which again tied the score, and it was necessary to play an extra period. E. C. Cowdin scored the final goal for Rockaway in the ninth period.

The score:

JACK SNOW WINS MAPLEWOOD '100'

Captures Shootoff from Wadsworth by Straight Run at New Hampshire Traps.

Special to The New York Times.

MAPLEWOOD, N. H., July 1.—Both of the events on the Maplewood card today developed wonderful shoot-offs, and David Wadsworth, 3d, of Auburn, N. Y., hero of the first, trailed his colors in the smoke of Jack Snow's gun at the conclusion of the afternoon event over the traps.

Wadsworth and Walter Posey of Lancaster, Pa., broke 99 of the 100 sixteen-yard clay birds in the morning feature, which was a Maplewood hundred. At the same time and shooting in the same squad were Henry Sanford of New York, A. P. Bennett of the same city and Klondike Morgan of Washington. Wadsworth ran straight and beat his rival, while Bennett led the field of three.

Great was Wadsworth's glory then, but in the afternoon when he went out with a 96 in the preliminary handicap and was forced to shoot off with Snow he dropped three targets in the string of 20, while his opponent ran straight. Both men stood up on the twenty-one-yard mark.

16 Yards—George A. Suffa, Boston, 89.
17 Yards—Henry Vogel, New York, 92.
18 Yards—R. B. Sloan, New York, 94.
20 Yards—J. F. Dodds, Los Angeles, 91.
21 Yards—David Wadsworth, 3d, Auburn, N. Y., 96.
22 Yards—Paul R. Earle, Starr, S. C., 95.

The fifteen high guns on the 400-point 16-yard targets follow:

MORE COAL ARRIVES; CRISIS IS AVERTED

TO PUNISH PROFITEERS

Commissioner Barrett Asked to Produce Evidence—B. R. T. Has Fuel for Three Days.

Reports yesterday were that the coal situation had improved and that there was less likelihood of any industrial tie-up because of a shortage of coal. One means for relieving the situation was by a redistribution of coal cars. This means, it was said at Grand Central Terminal, where the railroad officials have been meeting to discuss the coal car shortage, that non-coal roads are sending the coal cars they now have possession of back to the coal roads. When this is done, it was said, the situation will have been eased up considerably.

Armin W. Riley, in charge of the Federal Flying Squadron, in the campaign against profiteering, wrote a letter yesterday to Deputy Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett and acting Chairman, for any information he may have regarding profiteering in coal.

"It is the purpose of this department," Mr. Riley wrote, "to enforce the law against those who violate it in their dealings in coal, the same as in other necessities of life as defined by the statute. This enforcement can only be had when the evidence can be obtained upon which to base prosecution.

"As a public officer whose relations to the welfare of the public is such as to enable you to obtain the evidence necessary, and who, we are informed, has such evidence now, can you give this department specific information regardinf profiteering in coal?"

Coal receipts at tidewater yesterday were 300 cars, or approximately 15,000 tons, and J. W. Howe of the Tidewater Coal Exchange said he expected within the next three or four days that the effect of the embargo on export coal recently ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission would make itself felt here.

The order of the Government directing that all open cars be assigned to coal hauling will not show an effect here until next week.

Coal men admit that the situation has become graver within the last week, but many are optimistic that the "peak" of the trouble has been passed.

William S. Menden, General Manager of the B. R. T., said that the transit company has a three days' reserve coal supply, and that as long as the Public Service Commission maintains the daily average supply there will be no necessity for curtailment of service.

Mr. Menden praised the Public Service Commission for handling the coal situation efficiently and for its regard to the needs of the public utilities corporations. Under the priorities so far enjoyed, the B. R. T. is assured of a day to day supply, he said.

ALL TENANTS NOT HONEST.

Mrs. Cavanaugh So Testifies in Misappropriation Case.

The case of Mrs. Alice J. Cavanaugh of 690 Union Avenue, the Bronx, a former volunteer worker for the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, who is accused of misappropriating funds intrusted to her by tenants, was continued yesterday before Judge Gibbs in the Bronx County Court.

Mrs. Cavanaugh said she found that not all tenants were honest. She worked night and day in their behalf, she said, and one of her mistakes was that she gave receipts for all money accepted from tenants, but never got receipts from landlords.

Under cross-examination she told of raising money by notes and it appeared she had difficulty in meeting some of them. This caused Assistant District Attorney Adlerman to ask, "Well, your notes are no good, are they?"

"They're as good as your manners," the witness replied.

The trial will continue on July 6.

ARREST SMITH FORECASTER

Policewomen, After Political Prediction, Accuse Her of Fortune Telling.

The prediction that Governor Alfred E. Smith would receive the Democratic nomination for President at San Francisco, apparently, was discredited by Mrs. Sarah Ahearn and Miss Hortense Thompson of Deputy Police Commissioner Ellen O'Grady's staff, and they arrested Mrs. Annie Criswell, 58, of the Hotel Arlington, at 18 West Twenty-fifth Street, on a charge of fortune telling. When arraigned before Magistrate Marsh in Jefferson Market Court, yesterday, the prisoner was held in $500 bail for further examination today.

The policewomen visited Mrs. Criswell on Wednesday and Mrs. Ahearn asked to have her fortune told. She was advised, she said, that she would get an increase in salary and would marry a wealthy widower. Miss Thompson says she was assured that she was about to receive a diamond ring. Then Mrs. Criswell ventured her political forecast and was arrested.

JERSEY BOARD ORGANIZES.

George L. Burton Heads New State Highway Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 1.—The new State Highway Commissioner appointed yesterday by Governor Edwards to take the place of the one removed by him, was organized at a meeting this afternoon in the office of the Governor at the State House. George L. Burton of South River was elected Chairman; Thomas J. Wasser of Jersey City, County Engineer of Hudson, was made State Highway Engineer to succeed William G. Thompson, resigned. A. Lee Grover of Trenton was elected Secretary of the Commission. Mr. Grover served as Secretary of the old board and has been connected with the highway department for nearly ten years. The appointment of Watson G. Clark of Tenafly by the old Highway Board to serve as controlling engineer was terminated by the new board.

Record Class Enters West Point.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, July 1.—The largest class of cadets ever admitted to the Military Academy entered today. Nearly 600 plebes enrolled. The detail in charge of the handling of the new cadets is composed entirely of commissioned officers, a departure made necessary by the absence of the upper classmen, who are at Camp Dix, N. J., until Sept. 1.

Chauffeur Held in $11,000 Bail.

Thomas Fennell, 36, of 434 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, chauffeur of the motor car which struck and killed Mrs. Catherine Froshner and her daughter, Esther, at Putnam and Irving Avenues, was held in $11,000 bail in the Kings County Court yesterday by Judge McDermott, on two indictments charging manslaughter and two others charging violation of the motor vehicle law.

CHINA EXPRESSES REGRET.

Killing of Missionary Subject of Foreign Office Note.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Chinese Foreign Office has expressed to the American Legation at Peking its profound regret for the killing of Dr. W. A. Reimert, an American missionary, by General Chang-Ching-Yao's troops at Yochow, in the Province of Hunan, several weeks ago. In reporting this to the State Department today, the legation said the Chinese Government had ordered a thorough investigation.

Because of the loss of the province of Hunan to the Southern forces in China, General Chan-Ching-Yao was deprived of the offices of Military and Civil Governor of Hunan by Presidential mandates dated June 13 and 20, as well as of his military command.

LIFE TERM FOR SLAYER, 19.

Delaware Boy Who Killed His Father Also Is Fined $1,000.

Special to The New York Times.

LAUREL, Del., July 1.—Life imprisonment and $1,000 fine was the punishment meted out to Ollie Morris, the 19-year-old youth who on April 14 cut his father's throat because the aged parent objected to his going with a certain girl. It took several hours of persuasion on the part of the boy's mother and attorney before he agreed to plead guilty to second degree murder, which the State had agreed to accept.

In sentencing Morris Judge Pennewill told him it was very fortunate for him that he had accepted his lawyer's advice.

INTERCHURCH STRIKE QUIZ.

Executive Committee Head Denies Steel Investigation Caused Trouble.

James M. Speers of Montclair, N. J., Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Interchurch World Movement, denied last evening that an investigation by an Interchurch committee of the steel strike in Western Pennsylvania had any bearing upon the present status of the Interchurch Movement, as was rumored yesterday.

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement," said Mr. Speers. "It is true that an Interchurch committee, headed by Bishop McConnell of the Methodist Church, made such an investigation, and the report is being published and will be given to the press in a few days. All reports that the result of this investigation is going to be suppressed are absolutely without foundation. Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., was not a member of the committee. I know there are those who would tie this matter up to issues between capital and labor, but there is no relation whatsoever between the Interchurch Movement and any such dispute."

Mr. Speers said the strike investigation report has no connection with the meeting of the General Committee of the Interchurch Movement which has been called for July 8, to try to reorganize the movement. He said the Interchurch Movement had not collapsed.

BUTLER TRIES SUICIDE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Serge Tulemeff, 27 years old, a butler in the home of Captain L. V. Mishtowt, naval attaché to the Russian Embassy, is at Georgetown University Hospital suffering from a razor cut in his throat, which the police say was self-inflicted. The wounded man was found in a field near the Captain's residence shortly before noon today by a maid from the house, who notified the police.

Worry because he had not received news of his wife in Russia since the war, the police were told, is believed to have prompted him to commit the act.

LLIED NATIONS MEET IN BRUSSELS

POWERS NOT HARMONIOUS

AMERICAN EXPERTS ON HAND

Will Give Advice on Financial Problems—Long Plea Received from Prominent Germans.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 1 (Midnight).—On the eve of the interallied conference to prepare the program for the meeting with Germans at Spa the atmosphere surrounding the allied statesmen is very cloudy.

In a special effort to reach an agreement on the partition of the German reparations a meeting of the representatives of England, France and Italy was held tonight. England and France offered to give Italy 14 per cent. of the indemnity, but the Italians stood out for the 20 per cent. they demanded at Boulogne, so no settlement was reached, Italy withholding consent to the allied indemnity plan framed at Boulogne until she is satisfied in her indemnity claims.

There reached Brussels tonight a thirty-one-page note signed by thirty-prominent Germans setting forth the "steps the Allies should take to place Germany in a position to meet her treaty obligations." The long note contained no proposition of what or when Germany intended to pay. It was only an argument of Germany without promises to the Allies.

It is believed that Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George will pay no attention to the note, since it does not come from the German Government and the Allies naturally can negotiate with no one else on the other side of the Rhine. The note is regarded as a clever move by the Germans to place certain arguments before the Allies without committing their Government in any way.

Many Differences to Be Adjusted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 1.—It is a veritable resumption of the Peace Conference which Brussels will see tomorrow. With the exception of America, conspicuous by her official absence, practically all the nations which gathered in Paris to write the Treaty of Versailles will be represented at the Belgian Capital, in an effort to formulate a program with which to face the Germans at Spa.

This is to be no tête-à-tête of Premiers. Millerand is leaving today with a delegation of thirty, including his important Cabinet Ministers. Lloyd George is bringing a sizable delegation from London. Japan, Italy, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Poland and others will be present in force.

As I cabled yesterday, it must not be taken for granted that the Brussels meeting will be a love feast at which mutually devoted allies will shake one another's hands and swear to stand eternally firm against the German diplomats. There are many differences among them, and on the primary subject of the division of the German reparation accord is by no means assured, because of Italy's refusal to approve the allied annuity plan for German indemnities unless her new demand for 20 per cent. of the total is satisfied.

Treaty Change Proposals.

Then there is always the larger difference between Millerand and Lloyd George on proposals for changes in the Versailles Treaty. The French press and propagandists have been very busy on the eve of the meeting declaring that the treaty must stand, but one wonders how sincere they are, or rather how sincere they will prove to be in face of the proposals which may be forthcoming.

If England consents definitely to back France to the limit in the collection of whatever indemnity is agreed on, if Lloyd George does not ask for a shortening of the duration of occupation of the Rhineland, and if the Allies adopt the principle of collecting by force whatever they and the Germans may settle on, it may be a good guess that Millerand will not find the text of the Versailles compact so sacred as his spokesmen today pretend he believes it to be.

German Intentions at Spa.

I cabled yesterday that the prospects of definite decisions at Spa are not bright. Indeed it may as well be realized that no definite conclusions can well be reached at this conference. One may wonder, then, why the Germans have not asked for its postponement in view of the weakness of the new Government.

The answer is easy. Germany seeks to use the very fact of its Government's weakness and unpreparedness to make Spa the first of a series of conferences. If no definite conclusions come from Spa, and if the meeting does not break up in discord, there will be another such reunion, and then others. And so Germany will wiggle her way back into the concert of the European nations—just what she seeks above all to do. And that result appears today to be the most likely outcome of the Spa conference.

Private advices to the French Foreign Office from Berlin say that the Germans plan to make a row over the disarmament question and then with a great show of concession give way, realizing in advance that France will not back down on that point. German diplomats will make a strong plea for a better food supply for Germany. On the other hand, it is understood that at a Cabinet meeting yesterday it was agreed that no definite propositions could be made for reparation of the devastation in France.

And for the all-important question of indemnities it may be stated roughly that the allied figure, with interest calculated, reaches something like 200,000,000,000 marks gold, while Germany is talking about 60,000,000,000. Although France says that the allied figure, which is based on calculations from her claims, cannot be reduced, it would be foolish to expect the Germans to agree offhand to meet the allied sum. In fact, reports from Berlin say that the Germans plan not to make their proposition until after the Allies lay down their cards. It is the allied plan to ask the Germans for proposals and to judge their worth by the measure of the Allies' figures.

This all shows just about how much harmony there will be when the Allies meet the Germans in the little city from which German grand headquarters tried to conquer Europe. Looking at the situation generally, it seems that Spa offers more to the Germans than it does to the Allies.

Enemy Aliens Need No Permit Now to Quit the United States

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—President Wilson has issued an executive order to the effect that enemy aliens desirous of leaving the United States no longer shall be required to obtain a permit from this Government prior to departure unless the Secretary of State so orders. The text of the order was made public at the State Department today as follows:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by 'An act to prevent in time of war departure from and entry into the United States contrary to the public safety,' approved May 22, 1918, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, hereby amend Executive order of Aug. 8, 1918, 'governing the issuance of passports and granting of permits to depart from and enter the United States,' by the following provisions:

"1. Hereafter persons who by any statute or proclamation may be defined as hostile or enemy aliens, and who desire to depart from any port of the United States for any destination, shall not, unless the Secretary of State so orders, be required to obtain a permit of this Government prior to such departure. Such persons will be permitted to depart upon presentation of passports issued, renewed or vised by representatives of their respective Governments within one year prior to the proposed date of departure, accompanied by certificates of compliance with the income tax law.

"2. No passports or permits to depart from or enter the United States shall be required of persons traveling between points in the continental United States and points in Newfoundland, and St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands; provided that the above exception has no application to persons traveling en route through the countries named to or from the United States.

Enemies of the Versailles compact say that the real purpose of the Spa Conference is to rewrite the treaty.

Two American Experts to Attend.

BRUSSELS, July 1 (Associated Press).—The United States will be informally represented here tomorrow at the meeting of the traveling peace conference which, after having sat in the three other countries most affected by the war, will assemble here in the Palais des Académies. W. C. Boyden of Chicago and Colonel James A. Logan, the American unofficial members, will come along with the Reparations Commission, which will sit at the same time as the Supreme Council.

The Americans will give advice regarding financial problems, particularly concerning reparations to be paid by Germany, which are to settled before the allied conference with the Germans at Spa.

M. Delacroix, the Belgian Premier, will preside over the conference. David Lloyd George, the British Premier, will be assisted by a party of experts and aides numbering 140; M. Millerand, the French Premier, and Marshal Foch by a party of fifty; Viscount Chinda of Japan by twelve, and Count Sforza, the Italian Foreign Minister, by ten.

The first question on the program for the conference will be reports of financial experts and leading members of the Reparations Commission on the division of the reparations among the Allies.

The remainder of the program remains to be fixed by the Supreme Council. It is understood that a reply to the Turkish peace terms note will be taken up and that the Russian situation will be discussed.

King Albert will give a banquet for the leading delegates at the Palace, Burgomaster Max will receive all the delegations at the City Hall, and Brussels is preparing to honor the United States particularly by a special celebration of Independence Day on Saturday.

PARIS, July 1 (Associated Press).—It is officially announced that the Reparations Commission has determined upon the form of bonds Germany must deliver pursuant to Annex 2, Part 8, of the Treaty of Versailles. The announcement does not disclose, however, what form this is.

The Commission has also decided favorably upon the Belgian request for the delivery of brood stallions and mares, in addition to the restoration in kind of the animals removed by Germany during the war.

Germans Fix Limit at £2,500,000,000.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 1.—Led by Chancellor Fehrenbach and State Secretary of the Foreign Office Simons, the German delegation, numbering about fifty, will leave for Spa on Saturday.

So far as can be ascertained the delegation will not present any cut and dried proposition concerning the indemnity to be paid, but will lay all the facts pertaining to Germany's financial conditions openly on the table for the Entente to judge, trusting that an exchange of opinions on this basis will lead to a final arrangement of the total amount and the dates on which the indemnity is to be paid after the value of the German war material left at the seat of war and other counterclaims have been deducted.

The most capable German financiers warn the Government that Germany must refuse to undertake any payments higher than £2,500,000,000 if she does not wish to commit suicide, in which case the Entente would probably get nothing.

Chancellor Fehrenbach is determined to follow this advice and promise nothing he is convinced Germany cannot pay. To his intimates Fehrenbach has expressed the opinion that the Spa conference might last several weeks before definite arrangements could be reached, but would end within two days if a proper hearing were denied the Germans and the Versailles methods were adopted. In that case the conference would have no result, he said, and none could tell the consequences.

JUDGES FOR NATIONS' COURT

Root-Phillimore Plan to be Discussed by Jurists' Conference.

THE HAGUE, July 1.—The matter of the selection of judges for the High Court of Nations was again brought up at the Jurists' Conference today, the draft of the Root-Phillimore project being submitted somewhat to the surprise of some members who opposed discussions at such short notice and asked three or four days to consider the draft. On Monday the plan will be taken up article by article.

The plan suggests that the judges shall be elected for nine years by the Assembly and Council of the League of Nations, voting separately.

FRANCE'S RECOVERY REACHES HIGH MARK

Nearly 90 Per Cent. of Factories Again Working in the Devastated Areas.

CONTRAST WITH GERMANY

French Argue That Non-Invaded Nation Cannot Plead Poverty, but Must Pay Reparations.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 1.—On the eve of the Spa conference the French Government has issued official figures showing the extent to which work has been resumed in industries and factories of the invaded districts. In doing so the Government seeks to serve two objects, first, to show what the French people, despite material devastation and the complete destruction of much of the industrial fabric in these districts, have done by hard work and spiritual determination, and secondly, to afford a contrast to any whining appeals the Germans may make as to the possibilities of payment owing to their present economic situation

The French argument is: "Look what we have done in the district in which the Germans systematically destroyed every piece of machinery and every factory. In Germany nothing was destroyed. They have no excuse for shirking their engagements in the matter of payment."

The French figures do indeed show wonderful progress. In the industrial Department of the Muerthe and Moselle 80 per cent. of the pre-war factories and establishments are again at work. In the Ardennes and Nord the proportion is 78 per cent., and in the Lille district it has risen as high as 84 per cent. In all departments out of 3,700 industrial establishments 2,810, or more than 75 per cent., were again partially or completely at work on June 1 this year.

The greatest drawback to full recovery has been a shortage of labor owing to the enormous migration caused by the war from these districts and also the loss of life among the male population in the war. Of 706,323 workers employed before the war, only 40 per cent., that is 284,785, have returned. With each month, however, as buildings are being erected and machinery replaced, more and more are returning and a rate of recovery is shown by these figures that a year ago would have seemed impossible. Factories then were employing only 9.7 per cent. of their workmen. By January this year the figure had risen to 28.8 per cent. and by the first of April to 35.2 per cent.

In the Nord Department the figure of those employed has risen to over 47 per cent., and in the textile industries of the Lille district it is even much higher. There, though the machinery was destroyed or removed by the invaders with the avowed intention of ruining the district as a rival to Germany, buildings were not destroyed by shellfire and it has been possible to get to work more quickly. In Lille itself the proportion of those employed in the textile industry has risen to 62.8 per cent. of what it was before the war. In the woolen industry at Roubaix more than 90 per cent. of the workers are back again at their mills.

These figures, which take into consideration only the establishments employing more than twenty persons each, the French say, are in themselves a complete refutation of any charges that France is not working for her own restoration, and they serve equally effectively as a contrast to Germany, which suffered no invasion and destruction such as she inflicted on France."

WANTS US IN ALLIANCE OF ENGLAND AND JAPAN

Marquis Okuma Says It Would Aid Maintenance of Peace in the East.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The post-bellum world situation renders the Anglo-Japanese alliance more necessary than ever, in the opinion of Marquis Okuma of Japan, who has issued a statement in Japan calling attention to the public interest the alliance has been eliciting in England and expressing himself in favor of a renewal of the compact. The text of the statement reached Washington today in Japanese advices.

It quotes Marquis Okuma as saying that if the alliance was necessary in the past the need for it now is greater than ever.

"Without the alliance," he asked, "what about the future of India, and that of China and that of Siberia? The fact is indisputable that for all the success the British Government has attained so far in the administration of India, there are many malcontents in that country. The facts should be particularly noted that the majority of the inhabitants of Northern India are Mohammedans, who are as militaristic as they are religious. Since the fall of the Turkish Empire there has been increasing unrest among them. To make the situation worse, the Bolsheviki are now very active on the borders of Turkestan and Afghanistan.

"At such a critical period as this nothing could have a worse influence on them than an impression that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is no more and that the Japanese would not interfere whatever might happen in India.

"The same theory may be applied to Japan as regards China and Siberia.

"Because of the Monroe Doctrine, the United States may be unable actually to participate in the alliance to be concluded between Great Britain and Japan; but if such participation should be made possible or should be desired by the American people, America would surely be welcomed into the group so as to form a triple alliance and thus maintain the peace of the Orient with greater efficiency."

The Austrian Government has expressed high gratification with the Red Cross action.

Viking Ship, Well Preserved, Is Discovered; As Perfect as the Famous "Iceberg Ship"

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 1.—In the Bay of South Alesund a Viking ship has been discovered, and is now being examined by experts, who declare it just as valuable as the famous "iceberg ship."

The "iceberg ship" mentioned in the Copenhagen dispatch probably refers to the remains of a Viking ship which was discovered some years ago imbedded in the ice by some Iceland fishermen off the coast of Greenland.

A more perfect specimen was discovered in 1880 in a tomb mound at Gokstad, near Christiania, of which the dimensions are given as: Length, 78 feet; beam, 16 feet 7 inches; depth, 5 feet 9 inches, with high stern and stem and sixteen oars on each side.

Both ships are said to date from the ninth century, and it was in vessels of this class that the Vikings crossed the Atlantic 500 years before Columbus discovered America.

IRISH PARLIAMENT SETS UP COURTS

Declares Equity and Criminal Jurisdiction in Secret Session Held in Dublin.

NAMES A LAND COMMISSION

Ten Million Dollar Loan Is Reported Oversubscribed—Shooting in Dublin Streets.

DUBLIN, July 1.—It became known today that the "Irish Parliament" was in secret session here Tuesday and Wednesday and that decrees were passed authorizing the establishment of courts of justice and equity and courts of criminal jurisdiction.

A National Land Commission was appointed. Another decree provides for the protection of persons occupying land against vexatious claims.

It was announced that the $10,000,000 international loan had been oversubscribed by $250,000 when the loan closed.

The following message was sent to Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic":

"The Dail Eireann, assembled in full session at Dublin today, unanimously reaffirms the allegiance of the citizens of Ireland to your policy, expresses complete satisfaction with the work you have performed and relies with confidence upon the great American nation to accord recognition to the Republic of Ireland, now in fact and law established."

Soldiers were hurriedly called out of their barracks in this city at 1:30 o'clock this morning by the discharge of firearms in the neighborhood of the Kingsbridge terminus of the Great Southern Railway line.

The troops patrolled the streets, stopped all pedestrians and examined their permits to be abroad. Every one was warned to get home as quickly as possible.

Firing was renewed later, but there has so far been no explanation of the disorder.

The Typographers' Union called out their workers tonight in consequence of the newspapers refusing to accept a union advertisement.

No newspapers, therefore, will be able to publish Friday morning.

The police today seized 500 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition in the Stranorlar District of Donegal.

DUBLIN, July 1.—The Lord Justice, in addressing the Grand Jury at the King's County Assizes today, remarked that although the constabulary had reported 100 cases to headquarters there were only four cases before the court. "There is absolute immunity for the remaining ninety-six," commented the Judge, adding: "That means that the criminals have a free hand to do as they like.

"As far as I can see the state of this country is very sad. There is no law, no order, and there is no punishment for crime."

There is no further news of General Lucas. Fermoy is still patrolled in the evenings by Irish Volunteers, who continue to enforce the closing of public houses at 10 o'clock and take charge of rowdies.

The vacated police barracks at Pettigo, County Donegal, were burned down this morning. Two children of a Police Sergeant who were in the building were removed by the raiders, who numbered eighty, and some of the furniture was taken out.

Military had intended to occupy the vacated police barracks at Ballycahill, in Tipperary, but this also was burned down.

The General Post Office at Dundalk was held up by three armed and masked men, who captured all the police correspondence this morning.

DENY AVLONA HAS FALLEN.

Italo-Greek Agreement on Albania Soon to be Repealed.

ROME, July 1.—Dispatches reporting the occupation of Avlona by Albanian insurgents are denied by the Stefani News Agency, a semi-official organization. It is stated that Baron Aliotti has been sent to Avlona as Italian plenipotentiary.

Agreements between Premier Venizelos of Greece and former Minister of Foreign Affairs Tittoni of Italy looking to the division of Albanian territory between Greece and this country are to be repealed as a result of negotiations to be begun soon by Italy, according to the Popolo d'Italia.

LONDON, July 1.—A Milan dispatch to The London Times dated yesterday quotes a message from Avlona stating that an emissary of Premier Giolitti, who had been authorized to hand over civil administration to the Albanians, had arrived there and interviewed Albanian chiefs.

It is asserted the latter recognized Italian military occupation of the city to be to Albania's interests.

WANT TO KILL MALATESTA.

Milan Communists Demand Arrest of Anarchist and His Aid.

LONDON, Friday, July 2.—A dispatch to The London Times from Milan says the Communists in that city have sent a memorial to Premier Giolitti urging the arrest of Enrico Malatesta, the anarchist leader, and the Socialist Deputy Misano.

The memorial says that unless the Premier complies with the request the Communists will take the law into their own hands and kill both men.

BIG GREEK DEFEAT CLAIMED BY TURKS

Report in Anatolian Cities That Kemal Pasha Has Captured 10,000 Near Pergama.

JOY IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Greeks Recruiting Men of All Nationalities in Turkish Capital to Send to Front.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30 (Associated Press).—There is great exultation among the Turks in Constantinople because of the alleged victory of the Nationalists over the Greeks in the vicinity of Pergama, where Mustapha Kemal Pasha's forces are reported to have outflanked the Greeks and to be moving northward toward Panderma (60 miles southwest of Constantinople on the Sea of Marmora), taking several thousand prisoners.

There has been no official Greek communiqué for two days, and the Turkish papers are not permitted to print news unfavorable to the Greeks, but the Turks generally credit the reports of Mustapha Kemal's success.

The Sultan has communicated with the Heir Apparent, who, in turn, has conferred with the Sublime Porte, asking that protest be lodged with the Entente against suppression of news favorable to Turkey. The Director of the allied censorship has replied that the Nationalists have no direct communication with Constantinople and that therefore reports reaching the city are unreliable.

The alleged Nationalist victory has been widely heralded through posters at Brusa and other Anatolian cities, where the assertion is made that the Greek casualties at Pergama numbered 10,000. These figures are regarded in Constantinople as ludicrous, although Greek silence is creating the impression that the initial Greek success has been checked.

The Nationalists frankly admit that they were surprised by the Greek advance before final action on the treaty. The Greek battleship Kilkis, formerly the Mississippi, and all Greek merchant ships at Constantinople have sailed toward the Dardanelles. The Greeks are recruiting men of all nationalities, including Turks in Constantinople. Many Armenians are also enlisting.

RUN ON TURKISH BANKS.

Rumors, Denied by Allies, Cause Alarm in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30 (Associated Press)—Runs on several Constantinople banks have occurred and there has been general financial unrest as a result of rumors that the allied powers would seize the accounts and securities of Ottoman subjects should peace not be signed.

The Entente High Commissioners here have printed a statement in the local newspapers, denying any intention of seizing Ottoman property, but the Commissioners have not been wholly successful in their efforts to allay suspicion.

Many rumors are in circulation that the Turkish civil authorities will be entirely superseded immediately by the interallied military authorities.

Turks Release Miss Alice Clark.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30.—Miss Alice Clark of Evanston, Ill., who was one of the American relief workers held by the Turkish Nationalists without the privilege of communicating with the outside world after surrendering their compounds at Hadjin early in the Spring, has arrived safely at the Black Sea port of Samsun, west of Trebizond. Miss Clark is on her way to Constantinople, the advices state.

MEXICAN COMMISSION TO STUDY OIL PROBLEM

Americans Are Invited to Name 'Unprejudiced Representatives' to Discuss with Them.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—The Department of Labor and Industry of the Mexican Government will make the next move in the oil controversy by naming a commission to study the problem thoroughly in conjunction with a commission representing American interests. The recommendations of these bodies will, it is believed, provide a basis for an amicable solution of the present difficulties.

Unofficial information is that the Mexican commission will include Leon Salinas, ex-Minister of the Department of Commerce and Industry; Aquiles Elorduy, a prominent lawyer; Robert Pesqueira, financial representative of Mexico to the United States and Canada; Valentin Garfias, a prominent geologist now representing the Department of Commerce and Industry in the United States, and one other member, probably an economist.

It is understood that the American Petroleum Institute has been asked to name the American commission to represent American interests in the conferences.

Several Government officials in a position to speak with authority, expressed the belief today that with men of broad experience making up the joint body, a satisfactory outcome might confidently be expected. In authoritative quarters it is declared that the oil problem will speedily be ended if the American commission includes representative men like Walter C. Tagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Dr. Van H. Manning, Director of the American Petroleum Institute and former Director of the Bureau of Mines; Captain Paul Foley, Director of the Shipping Board, and two or three other American authorities of a similar type.

There is a general impression that the oil interests as now represented here cannot make headway with the Government owing to their several reputations as active and ardent interventionists. The Government feels, as your correspondent was confidently told, that it cannot waste time with men of this type, but it is willing to treat with unprejudiced representatives of experience and authority.

Moors Attack Spanish Convoys.

MEXICO IS WINNING WASHINGTON FAVOR

Indications Are That Recognition May Shortly Be Accorded to New Regime.

PREPARING TO PAY DEBTS

Mexican Treasury Announcement Says an Agreement Will Be Sought with Their Creditors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Information from authoritative sources indicates that the American Government is inclined to look with favor on the present new Government in Mexico. While no official statement has been issued on the subject, it is learned that officials here view the present situation in Mexico with optimism, and are hopeful that a satisfactory outcome will result.

In the minds of a number of persons here who have been watching Mexican affairs closely there is a growing belief that recognition of the new Mexican Government is not far off. In this connection, it is admitted that much depends on actual developments in Mexico during the next few weeks. But it is felt here that the present Mexican Government is the strongest which has existed in Mexico at any time during the last eight years, and that if it can maintain itself and carry through the promises it has made there is an excellent opportunity for Mexico to regain her legitimate place and standing among the nations of the world.

The American Government has made clear its intention of giving serious and careful consideration to the claims of the new Mexican Government for recognition, and the policies and purposes of this Government, it is believed, point to a new era in the foreign relations of Mexico.

The United States Government believes the new régime in Mexico is serious in its desire to bring about full protection of life and property rights of all people in Mexico, natives and foreigners alike, and that it is anxious to be on friendly terms with this country, which would be mutually beneficial.

It is understood that Don Fernando Iglesias Calderon, Mexican Special Ambassador, who arrived here last Monday and had a conference yesterday with Under Secretary of State Davis, has made an excellent initial impression on officials here, and apparently he is presenting his Government's case in excellent fashion. In reply to an article published today to the effect that yesterday's visit of Señor Iglesias to the State Department was for the purpose of obtaining recognition of Mexico and was unduly hastened because of "unrest in the Mexican Congress which has developed within the last two weeks" and the outbreak of a new revolution against the Federal Government in Tamaulipas, it was declared at the Mexican Embassy today that "the article is quite at variance with the facts."

"In reality, there exists no unrest in Congress," said the Embassy statement, "and the problems confronting the new Government are being considered in an orderly manner, quite free from partisan demonstrations. Señor Iglesias Calderon, as was his initial duty, merely paid a visit of courtesy to Acting Secretary Davis, which offered him opportunity to inquire as to the progress of President Wilson's recovery, as well as incidentally to dwell briefly on the situation in Mexico.

"A slight disturbance in Tamaulipas, devoid of any real importance, but described in the article referred to as 'an outbreak of a new revolution,' was completely suppressed some days ago, in fact before the news reached Washington."

Referring to reports of activities of the Villista bands in the State of Chihuahua, it was also stated that "such reports are being much exaggerated in press dispatches originating on the border. It is known that certain of these reports are deliberately inspired by persons falsely pretending to have special influence with Villa and who, for a money consideration, have forced themselves as intermediaries to conclude an arrangement calculated to insure his retirement. The Mexican Government has declined and will continue to refuse to consider overtures from these spurious agents."

To Pay Interest on Debt.

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—The national debt is more than 546,000,000 pesos, including interest, it was announced officially today. Of this, more than 366,000,000 pesos is owed abroad.

Efforts will be made to reach an agreement with Mexico's creditors regarding the resumption of interest payments, the Secretary of the Treasury said today.

Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta will not interfere in negotiations between oil men and General Jacinto Trevino, Secretary of Commerce and Industry, he declared yesterday.

A delegation of representatives of foreign oil interests interviewed the Provisional President, seeking to obtain from him some modification of General Trevino's adverse rulings on Tuesday, but President de la Huerta replied that his secretaries had ample powers, and that he would not interfere with their lawful decisions.

Señor José Morante was named Gov-
the Senate today.

WASHINGTON, July 1 (Associated Press).—Some Americans were aboard the Mexican armored train which was attacked in Chihuahua recently by a small number of bandits, the State Department was advised today by the American consul at Chihuahua City. The Americans and other occupants of the train were uninjured.

The bandits blew up the water car and armored cars, but the engine and passenger coaches escaped damage. The locomotive was uncoupled and driven to Concho, sixty miles south of Chihuahua, for reinforcements while the occupants of the rear cars successfully defended themselves against the bandits. With the arrival of aid the bandits were beaten off and the train continued on its journey to Jiminez.

WELCOMES COLONIAL PLAN.

Jamaica Opinion Supports Proposed New British Department.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 1.—Lord Milner's announcement in London on Monday that a plan will be submitted next year at the Imperial Conference for the transfer of matters relating to the dominions from the Colonial Secretary to a new department is warmly supported.

The Gleaner says we shall in the future have some of the personal attention of a statesman who will be a member of the Government. We shall have that attention in reality, whereas we now have it but in name."

Madrid Still Short of Water.

MADRID, June 30.—A full supply of drinking water cannot be obtained by Madrid until Saturday, as repairs to the broken conduit have not as yet been completed, and houses are deprived of water for several hours every day, while the city reservoirs are being filled. There is insufficient water for sprinkling the streets, which are enveloped in clouds of dust, and the water lines continue to be formed in many parts of the city.

Medals to Two Marines For Heroism in Haiti

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Congressional Medal of Honor was conferred today upon Lieutenant Herman H. Hanneken and Corporal William R. Button, both of the Marine Corps, for "extraordinary heroism" displayed in leading the force which killed the Haitian bandit chief, Charlemagne Peralte, near Grande Rivière, Haiti, last October. Presentation of the medals was made at the Navy Department by Major General John A. Lejeune, the new commandant of Marines.

As recounted in the official citation, Lieutenant Hanneken and Corporal Button, disguised as natives, on the night of Oct. 31 led a small detachment of gendarmerie through a series of outposts flung out to protect the bandit and finally reached his headquarters. They were discovered by the chief's bodyguard, upon whom Hanneken opened fire with two revolvers and Button with a machine gun. The next morning, after the detachment had successfully driven off attacks by several hundred of Peralte's followers during the night, the bandit chief and nine of his bodyguard were found dead at the scene of the first encounter.

POLES DRIVEN BACK IN RED OFFENSIVE

SWEDEN GREATLY ANGERED

Seizure of Swedish Ex-Minister's Daughter by Reds at Omsk Arouses Whole Country.

WARSAW, July 1 (Associated Press).—Polish forces on the Bolshevist front have evacuated Mozier and Kalenkowitz, in Polesia, according to an official statement issued at army staff headquarters here today. This step was taken, it is said, for the purpose of shortening the front.

Soviet troops in the Bobruisk sector are regrouping under cover of artillery fire, the statement says, but in the Kiszyn region the Poles have defeated a strong detachment of the enemy, capturing four cannon and a number of machine guns.

In the region west of Zwiabla, General Budenny's Bolshevist cavalry has broken through the Polish front, and the Polish infantry is keeping up a rear-guard engagement against a superior Bolshevist force which has reached the region of Korzee, just east of Rovno. In the Szepietowka region new divisions of Caucasus cavalry have been in action, while Polish infantry has repulsed a Soviet attack in that district.

REDS ARREST SWEDISH GIRL.

All Sweden Aroused by Seizure of Ex-Minister's Daughter at Omsk.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 1.—A special dispatch to the Berlingske Tidende from Stockholm says that Miss Elsa Braendstroem, daughter of the former Swedish Minister to Petrograd, has been arrested by the Bolsheviki at Omsk. The Swedish Foreign Office has asked an explanation of Moscow.

The whole press is unanimous in its demand for a firm attitude in the matter by the Government and severe reprisals should Miss Braendstroem not be immediately released. During the entire war she has been working for war prisoners in Russia.

Advices from Helsingfors say that several persons from the frontier district of Salmis recently, with the consent of the Finnish Government and a promise of safe conduct from the Bolsheviki, returned home in order to work in the fields. As soon as they had passed the frontier the Bolsheviki commenced firing at them, killing five and taking the rest prisoners. The old men were forced to perform hard labor and the younger men were enrolled in the Bolshevist Army after all had been robbed of their belongings.

TOBINSON KNOWN IN CHICAGO.

Foreign Minister of Far Eastern Republic Was Red Leader There.

CHICAGO, July 1.—A. Stroller Tobinson, former Chicago lawyer, who, according to Associated Press despatches from Irkutsk, Siberia, last night is now Foreign Minister of the Far Eastern Republic, under the name of A. T. Krasnotchekoff, is a former leader of the Russian radicals of Chicago.

He was affiliated with the Communist Party and published a Russian radical paper.

Tobinson left Chicago in June, 1917, for Siberia at the invitation of his friend, Leon Trotzky, according to Robert S. Nahin, his former law partner. About the same time Nahin and Frank Navigato, another partner, entered the American Army and Navigato died in the service.

Tobinson came to the United States in 1910, fleeing from Russia by way of Germany, England and Canada after he had been ordered banished to Siberia. A brother was put to death by the Czar's troops and a sister sent to Siberia, according to Nahin. Tobinson settled in Oak Park, a suburb, where he worked as a carpenter. Later he entered Chicago Law College, after his graduation practicing as a labor lawyer for a year prior to his departure for Siberia.

He was one of the founders of the Workmen's Institute, a radical institution with I. W. W. leanings.

DENY KRASSIN HAS FAILED.

Merely Going to Consult Soviet, London Pro-Red Papers Say.

LONDON, July 1.—While anti-Bolshevist newspapers here are convinced that the mission of Leonid Krassin, Bolshevist Minister for Trade and Commerce, has failed, and that negotiations have probably been ended, the pro-Bolshevist press is equally positive M. Krassin is going to Moscow merely to confer with his Government.

He will explain the present position of the negotiations, which, according to these journals, are proceeding quite satisfactorily.

COPENHAGEN, July 1.—A special dispatch to the National Tidende from Christiana says that ninety-three boxes containing gold to the amount of 35,000,000 crowns have arrived at Christiana by steamer from Reval. The money is for a Jutland company which obtained big contracts with Soviet Russia.

ELWELL RUM RING BARED BY SHEVLIN

INDICTMENTS PREDICTED

Evidence Indicates Graft Pervaded Gang and Conspirators Swindled Each Other.

"MISS WILSON" SUMMONED

Will Be Questioned for Sixth Time at Criminal Courts Building by Swann.

James S. Shevlin, the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent, yesterday said he had discovered proof that Joseph Bowne Elwell, who was murdered on June 11, was in the "bootlegging" business on a considerable scale.

"We will have more witnesses tomorrow and will go to the bottom of this matter," he said. "A number of prominent men apparently have been supplied with liquor by the bootlegging system in which Elwell took part."

William Barnes, Elwell's former secretary, appeared at Mr. Shevlin's office, but Mr. Shevlin refused to say whether he had been examined. Mr. Barnes previously had denied having any knowledge of whisky operations by Elwell.

Mr. Shevlin said the evidence indicated a widespread conspiracy for the secret delivery of liquor to friends of the murdered man. One cellar to which the liquor was supplied was that of an organization of which many prominent business and sporting men were members.

None of the deals involved sums as great as $12,700, the size of a check reported to have been drawn by Elwell just before his death to cover a big whisky operation. The total of the whisky sales described, however, reached a considerable figure. There was no evidence that the Elwell murder was connected with this criminal traffic.

Source of Liquor Not Traced.

While Lexington, Ky., and the Monongahela Valley in Pennsylvania have been mentioned as the sources from which the whisky was smuggled into this city, Mr. Shevlin said he had not been able to trace the liquor to the warehouses or stills. When the whole system is traced from source to consumer, the Federal agents believe they will uncover one of the most extensive bootlegging organizations which has been exposed since the prohibition amendment went into effect.

Mr. Shevlin said several men would be summoned to complete the account of Elwell's transactions in contraband liquor and that the whole matter would then be placed before the Grand Jury. Several indictments were predicted.

All the persons who had been questioned previous to yesterday had denied knowledge of these transactions. Yesterday, however, one man gave what apparently was a frank statement of his connection with Elwell and others in supplying whisky to well-to-do men and to one or more organizations.

Conspirators Swindled Each Other.

This man said he could not conceive how Elwell's whisky deal could have led to the murder. His story, however, indicated that some of those involved were swindling others. The minor agents in the plot were evidently grafting extensively from the principals, while the principals were cheating the men or groups of men who furnished the money.

Knowledge of Elwell's unlawful transactions, possessed by several men, might have resulted in an attempt at blackmail, it was pointed out, with the murder following a refusal by Elwell to be bled.

Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who has been investigating other indications that the motive for the murder was money, has been more encouraged from day to day in the belief that the murderer ultimately would be caught.

The witness who revealed the whisky conspiracy at the Custom House had been questioned previously at great length in the District Attorney's office, but had failed to furnish any information regarding the Elwell whisky ring. He submitted a large variety of theories which pointed in every direction except toward a fight over smuggling. He thought it was an unwritten law case, or a sneakthief who fired when caught in the act, and told of many romances with stormy and tearful endings in which he said Elwell had been involved.

"Miss Wilson" Summoned.

Mr. Swann denied last Monday that he had ever heard Elwell was "bootlegging." When informed that the "bootlegging" involved an organization of which many prominent men were members he refused to say whether he would investigate the subject.

Mr. Swann announced that he had summoned "Miss Wilson" to his office to be questioned today regarding a cable dispatch to The New York American in which it was stated that "Miss Wilson" on one occasion had threatened Elwell's life.

"She told us of having spats with Elwell," said Mr. Swann, "but they were nothing serious. If she ever made the threat to kill him, that would be a different matter."

"Miss Wilson" is the young woman who had boudoir garments in the Elwell home. She assumed the fictitious name in the presence of Elwell's employes. The name, however, apparently was a standard one for Elwell's intimates, because he is known to have introduced another woman companion in Kentucky under the same title. So there is much speculation as to the identity of the "Miss Wilson" summoned to the Criminal Court Building.

Mr. Swann was asked why he asked the young woman to the Criminal Court Building instead of seeing her elsewhere, as heretofore.

"The Criminal Court Building is good enough," he replied.

"What is her real name?"

"Well," he replied, "she was known to Elwell's employes and has been known generally in this case as 'Miss Wilson.'"

New Will Is Reported.

Mr. Swann said he had no idea of sending a member of his staff to Ireland to interview Annie Kane, the housekeeper who preceded Mrs. Marie Larsen at the Elwell house. Friends of Mrs. Elwell were interested in the former housekeeper's account of a new will leaving Elwell's fortune to his son. This will was made in 1916. The earlier one leaves his fortune to Elwell's parents, cutting off the wife and son. The former housekeeper's statement that this will also left a sum of money to Barnes corroborated a statement made by the secretary two or three days after the murder.

Far from being bankrupt, as reported to Mr. Swann, the estate probably will be considerable, according to W. Gibbs Whalley, attorney for Elwell's widow. The inventory so far, it was said, showed that Elwell had property of a net value of at least $75,000. A search of real estate titles is expected to show that he owned some valuable land in addition. It is reported also that Elwell had a large share in a trust fund of $300,000, but it has not yet been disclosed how the disposition of this on his death is limited.

GIRL BEATS TRAIN, STOPS AUTO, DIES

Katherine Van Ness of West Orange Expires at Newark on Way to Buy Trousseau.

Misses Train at East Orange, but Races to Join Bridesmaids in Shopping Tour Here.

Miss Katherine Van Ness of Hutton Park, West Orange, driving her automobile at high speed from East Orange to Newark yesterday in an attempt to catch a train to New York to buy wedding clothes, died of heart disease within a block of the station. She shut off the power, turned the car into the curb, and, as it came to a stop, fell across the steering wheel.

The young woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Van Ness, who were in the car, called a policeman to carry her into a store, where an attempt was made to revive her. A doctor and the City Hospital ambulance were called but she died in a few minutes.

Miss Van Ness, one of the leaders of the younger set in Hutton Park society, was to have been married Sept. 18 to John F. Metcalfe of 40 Franklin Street, Morristown. The young woman had planned to go to New York yesterday with her mother and her four bridesmaids, the Misses Frances Hinman and Mavis Benedict of East Orange, Helen Halsey of South Orange and Elizabeth Martin of Morristown. They had agreed to meet at the Brick Church station, East Orange. The Van Ness auto arrived at the station just as the train was pulling out and the girl swung the machine back into Main Street and started for the Roseville Avenue station, Newark. She thought she could get the train when it stopped at this point. A glance toward the railroad as she neared Roseville Avenue told her the train was in the station and would be gone before she could run down the steps.

Without checking the speed of her machine, she continued down Orange Street. She beat the train to Newark, and prepared to turn the car into Plane Street to the rear steps leading to the station, which is at Broad Street. When she took her foot from the accelerator she said she felt faint. Then she collapsed on the wheel.

The father, who has been ill for some time, was unable to drive the car home. Miss Van Ness was an only child and was 21 years old. During the war she was a member of the Red Cross Motor Corps of the Oranges and was made a Corporal for her work. She was also a member of the Orange Y. W. C. A. and the Junior League of the Oranges. Few persons besides her parents knew she suffered from heart trouble. She had been generally considered an athletic girl.

SUBMITS TO MADRID.

Catalonian Diet Will Render Account of Expenditures.

BARCELONA, July 1.—The newspaper La Veu says that the agreement of the Provincial Councils with reference to the action of the "Mancommunidad," or Regional Diet, was almost unanimous.

It is declared that the text of the agreement will be sent to Madrid and it is believed will be approved by the central Government.

The trouble between the Regional Diet and the central Government arose over the refusal of the Diet to render accounts of expenditures to the Paymaster general's Office, which is incumbent on all public bodies in Spain. Recently the Council of State decided that the Diet must submit to the authority of the Cabinet.

DENY RYPINS OPENED MAIL.

War and State Departments Contradicted by University Professor.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Formal denials were made today by the State and War Departments of the statement of Professor Stanley L. Rypins of the University of Minnesota several days ago before the Cook County (Illinois) convention of the Committee of Forty-eight that he, while serving in the Military Intelligence Division during the war, had opened the mail of Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State.

"The Military Intelligence Division did not open the mail of Mr. Long, or any other person," said the War Department's statement. "Professor Rypins has never been connected in any capacity with the Military Intelligence Division."

The State Department said it knew of no reason for any such statement as made by Rypins and had received "the unqualified assurance of the War Department that it has no basis in fact."

CHICAGO, July 1.—Professor Stanley L. Rypins of the Committee of Forty-eight today repeated his assertion that as a member of the Military Intelligence Service he had opened mail of a state official, despite denials of the State and War Departments. "But I never did say that official was Breckenridge Long," Rypins asserted. "I said it was the Third Assistant Secretary of War, who at that time was another man." Rypins refused the name.

DISAGREE IN MURDER CASE.

George Lewis, Charged with Killing "Tanner" Smith, May Be Tried Again.

The jury in the trial of George Lewis, on the charge of murdering Thomas (Tanner) Smith at the Marginal Club, Fifteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, on July 26 last, reported to Justice Thomas C. T. Crain in General Sessions yesterday that they were unable to agree, after having deliberated all night, following a trial which lasted a week.

Lewis was placed on trial several months ago, but a mistrial was declared because one of the jurors became sick and died after all the evidence was in. Some of Smith's friends, after his death, waylaid and wounded Lewis, at the same time killing a man named Robert Shaw. Lewis will be tried again, it was stated at the District Attorney's office.

CHICAGO EMPLOYES STRIKE.

City Workers Quit When Salary Increases Are Refused.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Dissatisfied with the action of the City Council in denying practically all requests for salary increases, groups of municipal employes in many departments today joined the 2,000 city workers already on strike. The thousand clerks and stenographers at the City Hall who struck in the Spring have called a meeting to consider whether they shall again walk out.

Policemen and firemen have decided on no action. They asked increases of $300 yearly and received $8 a year, making their new rate $2,000.

The principal strikes today were in the building inspection and engineering departments where elevator inspectors and electrical engineers walked out. To grant all the pay increases demanded, the Council announced last night, would cost $20,000,000, while the city is already practically bankrupt and will have to discharge many employes to maintain the present schedules in some departments.

BANANA PEEL CAUSES DEATH

Truck Kills Boy Who Slipped at Newark's Busiest Corner.

Hundreds of men and women homeward bound saw Walter Smith, 17 years old, of 77 South Orange Avenue, Newark, crushed to death at Newark's busiest corner, last night.

Smith, returning from work at the Federal Shipbuilding Company plant at Kearny, N. J., slipped on a banana peel at Broad and Market Streets, and fell in front of an automobile truck, the wheels of which ran over his head.

William Conoway of 223 Eighth Avenue, Astoria, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

Why Kangaroo Wears Well In A Shoe

KANGAROO is as tough and durable as Cordovan, yet soft and pliable as an old kid glove. It does not crack, peel or scuff and takes a high polish like French Waxed Calf.

This is no indication that we do not have other leathers for Gentlemen's shoes. For those who prefer a somewhat stouter leather—such as Russia Calfskin, imported Wax Calf, or Cordovan—we have them—in model and pattern to suit each individual requirement.

Durability and service are safeguarded by quality of raw material and excellence of workmanship. That is why the Edwin Clapp Shoe is refined, comfortable and economical.

Comfort in the Office

The Sign of a Breeze

A Sigh of Contentment

What's the use of living in a world of perspiration when it is so easy to enjoy the cooling, refreshing breezes of a ROBBINS & MYERS electric fan?

Under its ministrations a sigh of contentment goes up from office workers, the wife and the kiddies. Dog days are no longer permitted to wreck tempers and dispositions.

And of course it is the motor in the fan that makes such contentment possible. A fan is no better than its motor.

R&M Motors and Fans have been famous for nearly a quarter of a century. Be sure the R&M flag—the sign of a breeze—is on the fan you buy.

SAY 'MASTERPIECES' WERE SOLD HERE

DISCREDITS VAN DYCK FIND

Americans Are Frequently Swindled In This Way, He Says—"Sales" Not Reported Here.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 1.—German newspapers recently published stories according to which the Copenhagen painter, Waldemar Powelson, has sold a number of valuable paintings allegedly abstracted from the Berlin, Potsdam and Munich royal palaces, at an auction in Park Avenue, New York, on May 22, for many million marks.

It was also stated that Powelson had announced to American art collectors that he would bring eight other masterpieces, well-known Rubens, Van Dyck and Van Bayern pictures, and five landscapes by Canaletto from Germany to New York for sale.

If that Park Avenue auction really took place American purchasers were probably swindled, because, as Geheimrat Professor Wilhelm Von Bode, the great art expert, told THE TIMES correspondent no pictures have been reported missing from the Royal Palace. Sailors who were intrusted to guard the palaces were too ignorant to realize the value of the paintings and contented themselves with appropriating gold, or what seemed to them gold, trinkets, clothes, wine, liquers and victuals, but none of the Munich, Berlin and Potsdam palaces has reported the loss of one single painting.

"What Powelson sold New York were probably copies of some of the famous pictures in the Royal Palaces made by Berlin painters, worth at best from 1,000 to 5,000 marks," said Von Bode. "The eight masterpieces named above, which Powelson promises New York, are, so far as they exist at all, in their old places this very moment in the German museums, where I saw them with my own eyes only a few days ago. Of the Canalettos there are only three in all Germany, and they are unsalable, while Powelson offers five. If such pictures should appear at New York auctions they might at once be pronounced as copies worth at most only a few thousand marks and not 3,300,000, as valued by the ingenious Powelson," Von Bode said.

Americans are being heavily swindled by many men dealing in art pieces allegedly abstracted from royal palaces or obtained in some other adventurous manner. Only a few weeks ago "one of the newly discovered Van Dycks" was offered to an American collector by "the German owner" through a Dutch agency. Von Bode could not say whether the deal was closed, but he was certain that the Van Dyck was merely a copy made from a copper engraving of Van Dyck's original painting, which has been lost for generations.

Though the assertion of a dealer that he had valuable objects of furniture for sale from German palaces, including the "ex-Kaiser's throne," was published in THE TIMES recently, no sale of pictures as described in the Berlin dispatch has been reported here.

CHINESE CABINET SHIFT.

Militarist Influence Shattered by Choice of Chow-Shumu as Premier.

PEKING, June 30 (Associated Press).—The Cabinet problem has virtually been solved by the selection of Chow-Shumu, a friend of President Hsu Shih-chang, to take the Premiership. Chin Yun-peng, who has been Premier and Minister of War, retaining only the War portfolio, according to information from an official source today.

The important Ministries of Communication, Finance and Justice will be vacated by their incumbents, who belong to the Anfu group, and filled with civil appointees from among the President's adherents. This development is considered to be a notable advancement of the President's prestige.

Former Premier Tuan Chi-jui, who recently was the leading supporter of the Anfu program, is said to have given his assent to the new program, while General Hsu Shu-cheng, or "Little Hsu," who with Tuan has supplied the Anfu military prestige, will be removed from the command of the Northwest Defense Corps, and his 32,000 troops will be placed under the orders of the War Ministry.

As a consequence, it is said, of the victory of the Chi-li non-militarist faction over the Anfu group, there are revived rumors of a restoration coup which are causing some uneasiness.

SPANISH TITLES RESTORED.

142 the Record for the First Three Months of This Year.

MADRID, June 30.—Ranks of the Spanish nobility are rapidly being filled, according to a report published in the Gazette. In the first three months of this year 142 old titles were restored, forty-three heirs took titles by inheritance and four new titles were created. Four persons who had received title from the Pope had their claims approved by King Alfonso and there were three promotions to the rank of nobility.

Madrid Rioters Burn Cars.

MADRID, July 1.—Because of the bad tramway service in Madrid and the announcement that fears would be increased today, disturbances occurred last night in the workingmen's quarters of the city. Groups of workers burned seven tramcars and attacked others. The police were obliged to intervene to restore order.

THEY HELP THEMSELVES.

500 Women Students Are Partly Self-Supporting at U. of W.

About 500 women students at the University of Wisconsin this year are to some degree self-supporting, according to an estimate recently made by Dean F. Louise Nardin, Dean of women. This means that about one out of every five of the 2,500 women is earning part of her expenses, and the number includes many of the women who are prominent in school activities, publications, music and student government.

The records list about 105 women who work for board and room, wait on table in the two women's dormitories, take care of children, do mending and ironing, serve as clerks in stores on Saturday, serve at teas and dinners and do various other kinds of part-time work.

Several women work as stenographers for professors or in downtown offices. About 119 women students do part-time stenographic and clerical work in university offices.

Several young women work on the staffs of local newspapers, and several have earned money by writing feature articles for newspapers and magazines. One young woman has earned part of her expenses by directing community singing, doing library work and taking a prominent part in Y. W. C. A. secretarial work.

One young woman has done clerical, stenographic and filing work, waited on table, ironed, told stories to children and taught at night school for part of her support while at the university.

L-71 DELIVERED TO BRITISH.

Zeppelin Built by Germans to Bomb New York Now at Pulham.

LONDON, July 1.—The greatest Zeppelin ever constructed, the L-71, built in 1918 by the Germans for the purpose of bombing New York, was surrendered to the Pulham airdrome today.

Recent dispatches from abroad have described the super-Zeppelin L-71 as being 300 feet longer than the Zeppelins which carried out bombing raids on London during the war. The airship was said to have a cruising radius of 12,000 miles with a speed of 100 miles an hour. The Germans delivered the L-71 to the British in compliance with the terms of the Peace Treaty.

CONDEMN DEGRADED DRAMA

Rabbis Also Hit Certain Movies at Rochester Convention.

ROCHESTER, July 1.—A resolution deploring "the frequent degradation and demoralization of the drama and moving pictures to the menace of our youth and to the peril of the nation" was adopted at today's session here of the annual convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

The resolution commends "the unbounded possibilities of good" of the "legitimate drama and movie shows."

Labor Elects Another M. P.

LONDON, June 30.—Labor won a victory in the by-election held recently in the Nelson and Colne constituency, Robinson Graham, candidate of the Labor Party, having been elected by 14,134 votes. F. N. Wainwright, Coalition Unionist, was second, having 8,577 votes, and W. R. Rea, Independent Liberal, was third, with 5,805.

Spanish Minister to Visit Morocco.

MADRID, July 1.—The Council of Ministers decided today that the War Minister should proceed to Morocco immediately to visit all the Spanish positions at Melilla, Ceuta, Tetuan and El Araish.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Kingsbery Foster will join the ranks of producers of musical comedy this Fall. He will present "Kathleen," the scenes being laid in Washington Square and other Greenwich Village localities.

The new Woods Theatre in Atlantic City opened last night with Will Morrissey's production of "Buzzin' Around." This theatre was formerly the Cort. The first Woods attraction, "The Winged God," will open there next Monday with Hazel Dawn in the stellar role.

"The Girl in the Spotlight," Victor Herbert's new operetta, with book and lyrics by Richard Bruce, will be produced by George W. Lederer at the Knickerbocker Theatre Monday, July 12.

Fay Bainter sailed yesterday for a vacation in Europe. She will return in August to appear in "East Is West."

Howard Hall has been engaged to play the part of Lincoln in Thomas Dixon's "A Man of the People," a drama relative to Lincoln, which has just gone into rehearsal.

Phoebe Foster has been engaged by George C. Tyler to play her original role of the governess in "Clarence" when it is produced on the Subway Circuit in the Fall. Before the first of the year she will be presented by Mr. Tyler in the leading role of a new play.

William A. Brady has received cablegrams from London informing him of the successful production of "The Ruined Lady," the Frances Nordstrom play, at the Comedy Theatre last Saturday.

MUSIC NOTES.

Seven Wagnerian music dramas supplied an all-Wagner program of the National Symphony Orchestra last night before this week's largest audience at the Stadium.

Marguerite Fontrese will be the Stadium soloist tonight, singing an air from Cadman's "Shanewis," and Walter Rothwell will conduct Tschaikovsky's symphony, "Pathetique."

Goldman's Band on the campus at Columbia tonight will play the overture, wedding march, nocturne and scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn.

The Police Band is announced to play in the Mayor Hylan People's Concerts tomorrow evening at Prospect Park, Brooklyn.

Beginning Tuesday, July 6, Hugo Riesenfeld will entertain 400 children from the East Side each week at the Rivoli and Rialto.

The Aborn Opera Company is singing De Koven's "Robin Hood" in its opening week of Summer opera at Olympic Park, Newark.

Five free evening concerts will be held in the Gould Memorial Library at New York University, starting Thursday, July 8.

OWNS 'AMATEUR WORK' IN TYPING KING WILL

But Miss Lee of New York Says Chicago Millionaire Made It—Allen Defends Second Will.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Upon the resumption of the King will contest before Judge Baldwin here today, a deposition of Miss Florence Isabel Lee, a New York stenographer, was read into the record. Miss Lee testified that she typewrote the alleged forged" second will of James C. King, the millionaire lumberman.

The deposition, taken in New York, was read by Attorney Edward G. Woods of counsel for Mrs. Mary C. Melvin and Gaston B. Means, the so-called "man of mystery" in affairs having to do with the King millions, who have presented the "second will" as the true last will of Mr. King.

Miss Lee said that she formerly lived here in Chicago, where her father was an old-time friend of Mr. King; also that she "had studied stenography and typewriting, but made a poor success at the business." This was brought out to explain the "amateurish workmanship" in the alleged spurious will.

Early in October, 1905, a short time before Mr. King's death, Miss Lee testified, she met him on the street downtown and he gave her a penciled draft of a will and asked her to type it. She took the notes, she said, and typed them on an old machine and later delivered the copy to him.

According to attorneys representing Means and Mrs. Melvin, Miss Lee last year wrote to Attorney Frank I. Osborne, counsel for Means at his trial at Charlotte, N. C for the alleged murder of Mrs. Maude A. King, widow of the millionaire, telling she had typed a will for Mr. King.

She did this, she said, because of published reports of accusations of Assistant District Attorney Dooling of New York, who declared that he had an eyewitness of the murder of Mrs. King and also knew of the existence of the "second will," and would prove it a forgery.

The attorneys who produced the deposition of Miss Lee said they were still uncertain whether she would come to Chicago and take the witness stand here.

A deposition of Gansforth Allen, an oil promoter and speculator, who testified that Mrs. Maude A. King had shown him the alleged forged "second will" of James C. King, millionaire lumberman, was also read.

Allen stated, according to the direct testimony read to Judge Baldwin, that he had first met Mrs. Melvin in Nice, France, before the war, and that in 1915 Mrs. Melvin had introduced him to Mrs. King in New York.

He testified that he met Mrs. King on several occasions after that and on one of these occasions she showed him the will which Mrs. Melvin and Means now asked should be declared the last will of Mr. King, and through which Mrs. Melvin would get possession of most of the estate.

The purpose on the part of attorneys for Means and Mrs. Melvin in producing Allen as a witness was to show that the "second will" of Mr. King had been in existence for years before the death of Mrs. King.

Those who contend that the "second will" is spurious declare that it came into being after the death of Mrs. King, who at the probating of the first will said nothing about the instrument now in question, under which she would have benefitted to a much larger extent.

TRACTION SUIT NEAR.

Notice Filed of Proceedings Against New York Railways Company.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee of an adjustment mortgage made in 1912 by the New York Railways Company, filed notice in the Federal Court yesterday of its intention to begin foreclosure proceedings against the company and Job E. Hedges, its receiver. The mortgage was to secure an issue of $33,000,000 of 5 per cent. income gold bonds maturing in thirty years.

A default in the payment of interest on $30,616,487 of the bonds now outstanding is the cause of the contemplated action, which is instituted as a measure of protection.

OUR DYES INVADE EUROPE.

Sold Much Cheaper in Switzerland Than German Product.

No more does Germany vaunt her position in the production of dyes. She has long ranked first, due to secret methods of manufacture. But now, on account of discoveries made by the color laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture, American manufacturers are enabled to produce phthalic anhydride, which is an important dye intermediate, at so low a cost that it is now being made in this country at a price that has made it possible to sell it in Switzerland in direct competition with Germany. Before the war this product was made only in Germany and Austria. Phthalic anhydride is used in the manufacture of more than 300 chemicals.

It is an important intermediate in the manufacture of several brilliant dyes, one of which is indigo. The process discovered by the specialists of the department makes it possible to use atmospheric air in making phthalic anhydride from naphthalene. This process is much cheaper than the one employed by the Germans, which requires the use of sulphuric acid and mercury instead of air.

During the war phthalic anhydride sold for as high as $7 a pound. The cost of manufacture has been reduced by a new process to such an extent that it is now being sold for 45 cents a pound. For this reason the Germans are not able to compete successfully with the American manufacturers who are selling it in Switzerland. The price may be reduced still further as the demand for this dye intermediate increases.

BOMB FOR JAPANESE DIET

Half the Members of House Were Present, but No One Was Injured.

TOKIO, June 30.—The bomb outrage which occurred outside the House of Representatives today is attributed by the newspapers to agitators opposed to the present Ministry.

The explosion occurred in front of the main gate of the House just before the opening of the special session of the Diet, when more than half the members of the House were within the building. Although the iron gateway was damaged and the window panes in the front of the structure, as well as those of a neighboring building, were demolished, no casualties were caused.

Two hours before the explosion at the Diet building a man hurled a bomb at a moving electric car in one of the main thoroughfares of Tokio, and two passengers were injured. The police believe this was an attempt to distract the attention of the authorities and pave the way for the bombing of the Diet. Two persons have been arrested in connection with the outrage.

There has been considerable criticism of the Government because of its alleged responsibility for the financial depression, the high cost of living and the Nikolaievsk massacre.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Ignore Unfavorable Factors and Move Forward Fractionally—More Gold Comes In.

Yesterday's stock market was as dull as on earlier days of the week, but it was not heavy. On the contrary, such changes as were made were mainly on the side of advances; advances which in large part were restricted to fractions, but advances, nevertheless. The reason, in all probability, was that the usual pre-holiday evening-up was in progress, having been begun before today's last-minute opportunity, and with most of the professionals on the short side earlier in the week, this evening-up favored the buying side on balance. Therefore, with no outside interest to be frightened off by continuance of the high money rates and the possibility of something untoward turning up at the convention at San Francisco, it was natural enough for the market to ignore the factors which ordinarily would have been interpreted as unfavorable and to proceed without regard for the news developments.

The money market again ruled high. The renewal rate was advanced to 10 per cent., the highest renewal figure seen thus far this week, and in the afternoon new loans were made at 14 per cent., and at the close the rate was 12 per cent. Every indication is that today's money market will be easier, in tone if not quotably so, and with more than a fair chance that quotations will be somewhat lower than yesterday's. The July 1 turnover apparently was moving along well yesterday, with exchanges at the Clearing House $1,077,294,000 and balance unusually large at $117,974,000. By today there should be a noticeable improvement in the bank position, and while there may be some hesitancy at the opening—Wall Street will say because of the "four days in the rate"—afternoon rates should reflect the change.

In the bond market there was some slight improvement. There was a limited demand for investment securities for delivery next week, probably coming from savings banks and other institutions which usually make it a point to be "high in cash" over June 30, and seek reinvestment immediately thereafter. This same demand should help the commercial paper and acceptance markets materially, for there ought to be a fairly substantial amount of investment funds available next week.

That there will be plenty of securities offered goes without saying. In addition to the seasoned line to be had in the market, some new issues are promised for early availability. The Swiss Government, it is reported, will come into the market with a $25,000,000 long-term issue next week and there still is the possibility of some railroad financing being done. With regard to the much-discussed Great Northern financing, however, it was said yesterday that no application for this had been made as yet to the Interstate Commerce Commission, as is now required before new railroad securities may be brought out. The Armour financing, which is expected to take the form of a note or short-term bond issue, may come along before many days have passed and there are some other relatively small offerings which are being talked of.

Announcement of the arrival of approximately $6,500,000 gold at San Francisco, for account of the British Government and consigned to J. P. Morgan & Co., brings the amount thus far received from the Orient to around $30,000,000. It is supposed that the gold which came in yesterday was part of the so-called "Kolchak gold," which was reported to total in the neighborhood of $40,000,000. For this reason, financial observers look for the arrival of the remaining $10,000,000 at an early date.

This gold arrival helped the exchanges, which moved forward fractionally. Both sterling and the Continentals improved.

There was no cabled report of the Bank of England's condition, but the report of the Bank of France showed a very small decrease in gold holdings, which may be accounted for by the season, and a substantial further reduction in notes in circulation. The Bank of Germany report showed an increase in note circulation of nearly 8,000,000,000 marks, the largest ever reported and a decidedly unwelcome event.

RAIL HEADS ACT TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC

Executives' Association, at a Record Meeting, Names Committee to Meet Situation.

LOCAL GROUPS DESIGNATED

Largest Possible Measure of Co-operation Sought — Pennsylvania Lifts Embargoes.

A definite move to relieve the national transportation situation was taken by the Association of Railway Executives yesterday by the appointment of a committee, headed by Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, to work out the problem of bettering conditions. The meeting, held in the board room of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in the Grand Central Terminal, was attended by the chief executive officers of the principal carriers of the country.

One of the matters discussed was the problem faced by the express companies, whose Government guarantee will expire at the end of September. The companies need the guarantee and their relationship with the carriers is so close that it generally was believed that the association would make certain suggestions, but no conclusive action was taken at the meeting.

Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the association, authorized the following statement at the close of the meeting:

"The Association of Railway Executives met today in New York to consider problems growing out of the present transportation situation. It was the largest meeting of railroad executives that has ever been held.

"By unanimous action the association authorized the appointment of an Advisory Committee of nine to deal promptly and effectively with transportation emergencies through the co-operative action of all the roads of the country.

"Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, will act as Chairman of this Advisory Committee. The other members of the committee are General W. W. Atterbury, Vice President and General Manager, Pennsylvania Railroad; C. H. Markham, President, Illinois Central Railroad; W. H. Truesdale, President, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; Hale Holden, President, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad; E. J. Pearson, President, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; W. B. Storey, President, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad; Howard Elliott, Northern Pacific Railway Company; B. F. Bush, President, Missouri Pacific Company.

"This action by the association was taken after a full discussion of the report of a special committee of which Mr. Willard was Chairman. In its report this committee said:

"'It was clearly the purpose of Congress, as expressed in the Transportation act of 1920, that private ownership and operation of the railroads should be continued for the present in this country, but your committee is firmly of the belief that in the final analysis the test which the public will apply will be the ability of the carriers to render efficient service to the country as a whole and under all conditions. While we believe that the best results from private ownership can only be realized under conditions which permit the fullest opportunity for individual initiative and action under normal circumstances, we also believe that in order to preserve private ownership it is incumbent upon the individual companies by voluntary action and co-operation to establish an agency authorized to deal promptly and effectively with such emergencies as contemplated in Section 402 of the Transportation act.'

"The Advisory Committee will advise concerning matters relating to transportation, maintenance and operation brought to its attention by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the American Railroad Association, or from any proper source. It will establish co-operative relations with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Subordinate to the committee there will be local committees of executives at leading railroad centres, such as Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, &c. These local committees will seek to assure the largest measure of co-operation between the carriers, in order that the best possible public service may be obtained from the railroads."

The meeting lasted from 10 o'clock A. M. until 4 o'clock P. M.

The Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday reported a further lifting of embargoes on its lines at Philadelphia and Baltimore, and a general easing of the entire freight situation on the lines of the company in the so-called Eastern region. Many of the volunteers who have been taking the place of the vacationists, it was said, have been replaced by new employes. Applicants are reported by the company to be plentiful and great care is now being taken in selecting men to fill permanent positions. The object, as announced by the company, is to build up a permanent and loyal force and to obviate the possibility of a recurrence of the recent "outlaw" strikes.

The company feels certain the situation resulting from the strike has been relieved, an official said. A return to normal operating conditions is reported at the local offices of the New Haven system.

RAILWAYS ASK PRIORITY.

Want Merchants and Manufacturers to Aid in Car Crisis.

Alba B. Johnson, President of the Railway Business Association, has appealed to merchants and manufacturers to aid in the rehabilitation of railroad equipment, its conservation and the enlargement of the supply. In a statement sent out last night Mr. Johnson says:

"It must have been long since evident to close observers that with car shortage at the root of industrial difficulties, other than labor, priorities would ultimately be essential in one form or another to enable the roads and the car and engine builders to catch up. Only one priority in the current governmental sense has thus far been resorted to—that under which coal cars are being hauled empty to the mines in order to furnish the coldest and most distant regions with their next Winter's supply. It had been hoped by the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the roads that this priority would not be necessary and both commission and roads are understood to view with reluctance any enlargement of the list, which they fear would precipitate an avalanche of petitions. Obviously priorities imposed for the correction of rolling stock shortage would be most appropriately directed to the provision of new rolling stock.

"In the meantime, while the roads can only obtain the advantage of priorities in car supply through sanction from the commission, manufacturers and merchants can, within their own discretion, determine which customers they will prefer in allocating a supply of material short of total demand. It would seem as if all concerned would concur in the conclusion that [illegible] preference not only in this matter but [illegible] the restoration of the roads to normal condition and service is in the public interest."

BANKING SYNDICATE TAKES FRISCO BONDS

Railroad One of the Few to Earn More Than Its Government Guarantee.

A banking syndicate composed of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Colgate, Parker & Co., A. B. Leach & Co., Low, Dixon & Co., West & Co., Hitt, Farwell & Park and others has been formed to take over from Speyer & Co. the block of St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company income 6 per cent. bonds which Speyer & Co., in company with the Guaranty Trust Company, recently purchased from the French Government. These bonds will be offered to the public at the day-to-day price established on the Stock Exchange, where they are already listed.

The block of bonds, which is said to represent about $5,000,000 par value, constitutes practically all of the bonds of this description originally received by French investors in exchange for the St. Louis-San Francisco general lien 5 per cent. bonds at the time of the reorganization of the property in 1916. They, together with the other St. Louis-San Francisco bonds given in the reorganization, were "mobilized" by the French Government early in the war and a few weeks ago were sold by the French Government to Speyer & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Company.

Theodore Prince of L. M. Prince & Co., in announcing the formation of the distributing syndicate, pointed out yesterday that the Frisco is one of the relatively few roads to earn more than its Government guarantee during the time of Federal operation. Last year its earnings were about $1,000,000 in excess of the guarantee and at the present time the prospects are for a continuance of favorable returns.

Recapitalization Plan Approved.

Stockholders of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company have approved a recapitalization plan announced some time ago. This provides for an issue of $10,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, redeemable at 110, at the option of the company, and 400,000 shares of common stock of no par value. Holders of the present preferred will receive in exchange for their stock one share of new preferred and three shares of common for each old share. The present common will be exchanged for new preferred on a share for share basis.

Recapitalization Plan Approved.

Stockholders of the H. H. Franklin Company, which manufactures the Franklin automobile, have approved a plan of recapitalization by the conversion of 150,000 shares of old common stock of $100 par value into 600,000 shares of no par value. The exchange is to be made on the basis of four new shares for one old share.

G. L. Loft Elected to Exchange.

George L. Loft, son of George W. Loft, the candy manufacturer, was elected a member of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. He will make his headquarters with McDonnell and Company. J. W. Leopold was also elected to the Exchange.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Tone of Market Slightly Better.

It was not by any means an active stock market that ruled yesterday, but it was one that moved forward a bit, evidencing a better undercurrent than has prevailed for several days. In certain issues there were signs of quiet accumulation of stock, but on the whole the advance was undoubtedly a reflection of the play of prices between the professional traders. Wall Street, however, while not highly elated over the outlook, is certainly far from having a case of the blues, and a steadily increasing bullish sentiment is to be found in the commission houses. The money situation holds the element of doubt. Few believe that it is in a position to permit of any great strain, and for this reason, while sentiment may be bullish, the underlying basis to make the sentiment operative marketwise is not available. Therefore, while sentiment is improving, the actual expression of sentiment in purchasing power is not making itself manifest except to a limited degree.

High Money Rates Prevail.

The Street had another taste of high money rates yesterday. The opening quotation on call funds was 10 per cent., and this was followed by a rise to 14 per cent., with a subsequent decline to 12 per cent. In short, it was a day of tight money, a condition not the least unusual. In part the money stringency was unquestionably due to the July 1 requirements, withdrawals for this purpose taking several days to work back to the banks. The exchanges at the Clearing House were over $1,000,000,000, which would indicate that the turnover was progressing rapidly and that an easing of the money situation might be expected today. On the other hand, the fact remains that there is a substratum of cause for high money rates which is not easily bridged. For instance, reports indicate that the agricultural requirements are drawing even more heavily on funds than last year. One bank reports that it has heavier loans outstanding in the South now than ever before and expects to loan about $20,000,000 more. With other banks in a similar position the money stringency is not to be tided over in any short period of time. Furthermore, the present high rates are treading along close to the time when the crop movement will begin, with the additional strain that will thus be created on funds.

Atlantic Gulf Gains Ground.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was one of the strongest issues on the board, an advance of 5 points being recorded. The shares have been strong for several days, the buying apparently being based on the prospective earnings statement which will be shown in the annual report. According to Wall Street gossip, the company will not only show a substantial amount for the stock from shipping operations, but will also show a good profit from operations in connection with its oil development. The company's oil properties became earning factors only a comparatively short time ago, but it is believed that they have been highly remunerative.

Superior Oil Corporation.

The reason for the discrepancy in price between the Superior Oil Corporation old stock and the trust receipts which were recently sold is apparently not fully appreciated. The trust company receipts are exchangeable at a later date for the actual stock which is being issued by the Superior Oil Corporation under its new arrangement, by which it acquired a large acreage and production in Kentucky and arranged to come under the management of the Atlantic Refining Company. The certificate, therefore, represents the stock of the corporation as it will be when the issue of the new stock and the control passes into the Atlantic Refining Company's hands. The Superior Oil Corporation regular stock represents the situation as it was prior to the entrance of the Atlantic Refining Company as a dominant factor. On delivery of the new stock against the receipts, the difference in price between the receipts and the stock will normally disappear.

Capital Issues Decrease.

The output of capital issues by American railroads and industrial concerns in June decreased to $266,384,200 from $322,058,000 in the corresponding month a year ago, according to The Journal of Commerce. Commenting on the situation The Journal says: "Because of the uncertainties surrounding the railroad situation industrial stocks continue to figure most prominently in the output of new securities, although railroad bonds and notes show up better in the returns than in the corresponding period last year. Since Jan. 1 the output of new stocks, bonds and notes has represented a total of $1,800,177,900, compared with $1,182,892,800 in the same period a year ago, a decrease of $617,285,100. Bankers figure that less than 20 per cent. of the money was used to refund or pay off maturing obligations. During July the maturities will aggregate $97,428,840, against $28,200,000 in June. According to bankers the great credit strain is holding up new financing plans of numerous corporations."

Railroad Financing in June.

The National City Bank, commenting on railroad financing in June, says: "It is estimated that since the first of the year twenty-four railroads have placed a total of $258,998,000, which included $163,125,000 serial notes and equipments and $95,873,000 bonds, most of which mature in ten years. After this month new railroad issues must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and it is anticipated that new issues will appear with less frequency, as the major railroads have undoubtedly taken care of their pressing requirements."

The End of the Rate Hearings.

There is evidence in some quarters in the financial district of growing disappointment that the freight rate hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission are not completed. Attention is now being called to the fact that early last month intimations were received in various quarters from the commission to the effect that the freight rate hearings would end about June 26. Then it appeared that the hearings would be extended to July 1, after which the commission would digest all of the testimony presented and finally act thereon. Those who profess disappointment that the hearings have been allowed to go over the turn of the month say that the final freight rate increase announcement will be delayed just so much longer. On the other hand, it is asserted in conservative quarters that a delay now of several days or even a week or two probably would make little difference, as it is not generally believed that the Interstate Commerce Commission will make new freight rates until after the Railway Labor Board has announced the wage awards on July 28.

Bond Buying Improves.

The bond market in the Stock Exchange yesterday gave evidence of better buying power than for some time, Liberty and Victory issues making a comfortable rally, while standard railroad bonds and United States Steel were in greater demand. This was attributed in part to the reinvestment of funds received as interest and dividend payments at the turn of the half year. Among the foreign Government issues the Belgian 7½s, which are being steadily absorbed, got up to a high at 99, as compared with an initial price of 97 when they were listed on the big board a short time ago.

Interborough 5s Decline.

Interborough Rapid Transit Company 5 per cent bonds were under pressure yesterday, selling as low as 46½ before the movement was checked. The selling was attributed in large part to the timidity of holders as to the position of the company with regard to meeting the Jan. 1, 1921, interest and for a time there was little evidence of support in the market. Later, however, there was a rally from the low point to 47¼ at the close, the net loss for the day being 1 point. The turnover, which totaled more than $330,000, was the heaviest for some time.

No panic exists and it is generally recognized that there is but little possibility of a panic. Nevertheless bonds, notes and stocks are selling in many instances at panic prices. It is obvious that real opportunities exist to make investments on terms that are most advantageous.

A Railroad Bond On a 13% Income Basis

We suggest the 6% Gold Bonds of an important railway for semi-speculative investment purposes. The road is one of the few that earned more than the government guaranty during 1919. There is every reason to believe that under the Esch-Cummins Law the position of the road will be materially strengthened.

Commodity Prices and Security Values

Under the conditions facing us securities of conservatively capitalized public utility companies are among the most desirable investments. Gross earnings of such companies are relatively stable, and with no large inventories to mark down every addition to the purchasing power of the dollar will increase the margin of profit through reduction of operating expenses.

An Important Situation

Tight money is the principal handicap in business today. It is the effect of inflation and freight congestion. It is largely responsible for the very low bond prices. Some bankers believe that the movement of crops in the fall may cause even higher money rates. All agree, however, that bonds offer the best investment opportunities and that those who buy good mortgage bonds now will not be making a mistake.

EXPORTS DIVERTED FROM NEW YORK PORT

Official Figures Show Percentage of Country's Total Decreasing Since 1916.

Exports from the Port of New York in the last seven fiscal years, with the last month of 1920 estimated, as compared with the total for the country, show that the percentage of such commerce passing through the port increased as the direct result of foreign buying incident to the European war, and then, from the fiscal year 1916 to date, materially decreased. This is attributed partly to the establishment of preferential freight rates to Southern ports, which has drawn a great volume of tonnage away from New York; to labor disturbances in the port itself, and also to the fact that insufficient development work has been done in and about the harbor in recent years to care for increased business.

The fiscal year ended June 30, 1916, was the last full year before the United States entered the World War, and the volume of exports of war materials and foodstuffs mounted to what was then a record total, as the bulk of the foreign Government purchasing was being done in the United States through New York. In that year the value of exports shipped from New York was $1,191,865,982, or 53 per cent. of the $2,197,883,510 total exports of the country.

In the last six months of the calendar year, 1916, the transportation system of the country was hard pressed to handle the volume of business offered, but managed the task without serious congestion. In the following year the cumulative effect of the rush to get munitions abroad to the European belligerents, proved so heavy that the transportation lines broke down and the Government finally assumed control of the railroads.

In the first year of Federal control the volume of merchandise en route to the Atlantic coast was so heavy that the Railroad Administration began to arbitrarily divert it to ports other than New York, and preferential freight rates to some of the South Atlantic ports were made. When the difficulty resulting from the pressure of war demands on the carriers was removed labor troubles in New York became a growing menace and because of their repetition until only recently, served as a serious obstacle to increased growth in the volume of exports.

In all of the years under discussion the percentage of total imports into the country at the port of New York have held up well. The share for the fiscal year just ended was 55 per cent. of the total for the entire United States and in the seven years was exceeded only once, this in the fiscal year 1916 when the percentage was .556.

The following tables show the value of merchandise exported and imported at New York and the same figures for the entire country for the seven fiscal years 1914 to 1920 inclusive:

Character

23RD STREET, WHERE FIFTH AVENUE CROSSES BROADWAY

Investment vs. Speculation

EUROPEANS have always been familiar with American securities, whereas the European Investment Field is practicaly a new one for Americans. Thereforel it behooves prospective purchasers of European securities to consult bankers familiar with the European Field and follow their advice as to what constitutes Investment and what constitutes Speculation.

We are pleased to have interested parties consult us, and for the benefit of those who cannot call personally, we have prepared a letter and list of Investments, including speculative ones.

Penn Public Service Corporation
First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds
(7½% Fifteen Year Series B)

Dated July 1, 1920. Due July 1, 1935. Interest payable January 1 and July 1 in New York. Callable on any interest date on six weeks' published notice at 111¼ and accrued interest on or prior to July 1, 1921, and thereafter at a premium of ¾ of 1% for each unexpired year or portion thereof to maturity. Coupon bonds of $1,000 denomination with privilege of registration as to principal. Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee.

These bonds are free of the present Pennsylvania Four Mill Tax. The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any Normal Federal Income Tax to an amount not exceeding 2% which it may lawfully pay at the source.

For further information attention is called to the letter of Mr. F. T. Hepburn, President of the Company, which will be furnished upon request and which states that:

The Penn Public Service Corporation owns and operates an electric light and power system serving over fifty communities in western Pennsylvania, including Johnstown, Somerset, Clearfield, Indiana, Phillipsburg and Blairsville. It also does some incidental gas and steam heating business. The territory served has an aggregate population estimated to exceed 400,000.

Franchises of the Company in the opinion of counsel are unlimited in time with a few minor exceptions.

The Company operates under the supervision of the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gross earnings of the system have increased during the past five years over 145% and the net earnings over 158%, and are now twice bond interest charges.

Approximately 90% of the net earnings are derived from the Company's electric light and power business.

It is estimated that there is now available sufficient additional electric business in the territory to permit the Company to more than double its present load as soon as the increased power facilities requisite therefor are provided.

These bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to the approval of counsel as to legal details. It is anticipated that temporary bonds will be available for delivery on or about July 19, 1920.

We recommend these bonds for investment

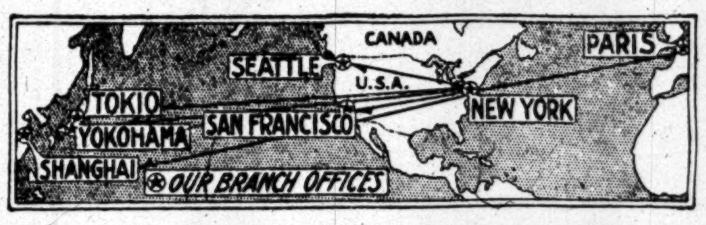
Growing Trade of the Pacific



THE TRADE of the Pacific Coast of the United States advanced 400 per cent. in the five years from 1914 to 1919. The total commerce of the entire United States in the same period increased 243 per cent. Coincident with this tremendous commercial expansion, the cities of the far west are registering unusual progress in industry, their production growing rapidly.

Aware of the increasing importance of the Pacific Coast in the foreign trade of the nation, the Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation maintains well equipped branches in the two largest ports of that territory, namely, San Francisco and Seattle. These are at your disposal for financing shipments, collections, the distribution of merchandise and similar matters connected with your overseas trade.

Transact your foreign business through an American Bank

The American firm having extensive business interests in France, Spain or the Latin American countries will find it convenient and profitable to transact its foreign business through one of our offices abroad.

The executives in charge of these foreign offices combine a thorough knowledge of American banking and business methods with a keen insight into local business practices. Our American clients have frequent occasion to consult with our executives abroad, and find their familiarity with local conditions and customs of great value to them in their foreign business. Moreover, the extensive facilities possessed by our foreign branches and affiliates for obtaining credit and commercial information and for properly taking care of all business passing through their hands, enable our American clients to operate abroad with the same feelings of security and satisfaction that they have in their local business transactions.

We shall be glad to further explain our facilities for transacting the foreign business of merchants, manufacturers and bankers.

Guaranteed Mortgages

THERE are in Brooklyn and Queens 783 miles of surface, elevated and subway tracks. These carry more passengers in a year than any transportation system of any other city in the world. The total annual passengers carried is 813 millions as compared with Philadelphia's 767 millions or Boston's 660 millions. These transportation lines penetrate every populated section of these boroughs and help keep stable real estate values and stimulate demand for dwelling property

This is another reason why the Home Title Insurance Company likes to invest its funds in Brooklyn and Queens. We have for sale a number of small Mortgages running for three years on properties whose title we have examined, and which we guarantee as to principal and interest.

If you have from $2,000 to $10,000 to invest with absolute safety guaranteed, write us or call for a list of these—

BANK SEES FURTHER REACTION IN PRICES

National City's July Circular Predicts Lower Levels in Gradual Trade Readjustment.

CROPS A HOPEFUL FACTOR

Conclusion Is Reached That a General State of Industrial Depression Is Improbable.

Further reactionary tendencies in prices and in the general trade situation are noted by the National City Bank in its July circular. The bank, however, while subscribing to the idea that many commodity prices are to seek lower levels, does not look for a general state of industrial depression as a result of whatever readjustment may take place. Discussing the price situation the circular says in part:

"The prevailing opinion about prices is that an effective stop has been put to the upward movement, and there is a unanimous sentiment of relief over the fact. The endless round of rising wages and prices could not go on indefinitely. The sooner the rise was stopped the sooner might stable conditions be reached. The present state of suspension and uncertainty in the textiles and shoes will last until these trades get their bearings and determine their relation to the general situation. The curtailment of production is unfortunate, for the full product of these industries probably will be wanted. The cancellations, presumably, signify an effort to get the same goods at a lower price rather than that the goods will not be wanted at all. As yet the chief characteristic of the disturbed markets is a paralysis of activity rather than a general fall of prices, although prices undoubtedly have been broken.

"Possibly the great distribution of clothing which took place last year, and which was incidental to the demobilization of the military forces, has put the country in position to do with smaller purchases of clothing this year. At any rate there are strong indications that consumers will buy less of clothing and shoes and that these trades will not have full employment unless costs are reduced.

"As yet, there is no general decline of foodstuffs, coal is established on a higher basis than heretofore, freight charges are about to be advanced, taxes are moving upward as the salaries of public employes are brought into line with current wages, interest rates are rising, building materials, machinery and factory equipment are higher than a year ago, and as yet wage controversies are, generally, over demands for increases rather than over demands for reductions.

"Even in the midst of the disturbance in the textile industry an advance of 15 per cent. in mill wages went into effect June 1, which is equivalent to 50 per cent. on pre-war wages.

"The general world situation is not favorable either to a rapid decline of prices or to prolonged industrial depression. There is too much work needing to be done. The $25,000,000,000 of new government indebtedness which is glutting the banks and investment markets represents in only a very small part new industrial facilities. On the contrary this indebtedness represents capital which should have gone into our railroads, house-building and other construction and development work. It is apparent the country has scarcely begun to make good the deficit in capital improvements which would have been made but for the war. It has scarcely begun to make good the shortage of houses, public improvements and railroad equipment.

"Until this loss of normal capital accumulation and of necessary construction has been made good it seems probable that whole excessive price advances will be followed by reactions, every material decline in construction costs will bring out new demands for labor and materials, with a renewal of general business activity.

"The crops are more promising than earlier in the season, which means that the buying power of the agricultural population is likely to be fairly well maintained, and this is the great steadying factor in the domestic trade situation. The situation seems to make a general state of industrial depression improbable, but favors a gradual readjustment of supply and demand, with a downward tendency of prices."

SWISS SEEK $25,000,000.

Bond Issue to be Offered Here by Lee, Higginson & Co.

Negotiations between Lee, Higginson & Co., fiscal agents in the United States for the Swiss Government, and the Swiss Government have about been completed for the offering here of an issue of $25,000,000 in twenty to twenty-five year bonds. The definitive contract has not been signed, it is said, so that the final terms and conditions of the loan are not available, but it is expected the bonds will bear a rate of interest of 7 to 7½ per cent., and will be offered on a basis to yield approximately the higher figure.

Associated with Lee, Higginson & Co. in this transaction will be the Guaranty Trust Company, the National City Company and A. Iselin & Co. This is the same syndicate which floated a $30,000,000 ten-year 5½ per cent. loan for the Government of Switzerland in this market last August. Those bonds were put out on a price basis to yield about 6 per cent. and at present are selling on the Curb and in the general bond market at a price to yield the investor about 8 per cent. As those bonds were for only ten years, one of which has already elapsed, it is believed the new bonds, which will be for a considerably longer period, will be offered on a somewhat lower basis.

Most, if not all, of the money to be raised through this flotation will be spent in the United States. The Swiss Government has committed itself to a program for improving its electrical output obtained from water power and is now in need of a considerable amount of electrical machinery, a good part of which, it is expected, will be procured in this country.

Definite announcement of the loan and its terms will be made, it is believed, next Tuesday.

Peace of Mind for July Investors

INVESTORS who have watched their securities decline in value, day by day, as they read the market reports, have often said, "I wish I could find investments which never would shrink in value and never cause me a moment's worry! . . ." Perhaps this experience has been yours.

Such investments are to be found in the first mortgage bonds, safeguarded under the Straus Plan. Their soundness is beyond question. They do not fluctuate or decline in value, and they free their holders of all care, worry, and management.

Tens of thousands of investors have found them, without exception, to be wholly satisfactory investments.

We have prepared for July investment a widely diversified list of sound first mortgage bonds, totaling $40,000,000, in $1,000 and $500 amounts, netting 6% with 4% Federal Income Tax paid, which we especially recommend to those desiring to be freed from investment worries. 29 Years Without a Penny's Loss to a Single Client

There are two reasons for this remarkable record.

1. We never lend over 50% of a conservative value of the security.

2. Georgia laws protect the investor in Atlanta mortgage loans, which come before everything except taxes.

JULY COTTON RISES TO RECORD OF 38.68

Leading Option Holds Gains Well and Pulls Rest of List Up Slightly.

DAY SPENT IN EVENING UP

Traders Await Government's Report Today—Exports Jump to 17,533 Bales.

Yesterday's cotton market was quiet and without much feature. The July option developed a good deal of strength early in the day and held its gains rather well, at one time selling at 38.68, a new high record and a net gain of 88 points, and this helped the rest of the list somewhat, but none of the other options got up more than 25 to 30 points, at the top, and most of them fell back a little later. There was no aggressive buying and, on the other hand, there was no selling of any consequence.

For the better part of the day trading was given over to evening up, both in anticipation of today's Government report and the approaching three-day holiday. The ring traders seemed to favor the buying side in this process, for there were more bids than offers most of the time, and the commission houses, too, seemed to have more shorts who were anxious to cover than longs who were trying to unload. The trade was very dull and did little one way or the other.

The average guess of the private estimates and the Exchange members worked out for a condition figure of about 69.5 for today's report. A month ago the average was 65.9, and the Government's figure was 62.4 per cent., showing the trade far off in its estimates. It may be that the same thing will be shown today, for an improvement of 7 points would be rather extreme, even considering the very favorable weather conditions which have prevailed all through June. Last year the condition went down from 75.6 at the end of May to 70 even at the end of June.

Yesterday's exports were the largest in several weeks, amounting to 17,533 bales, of which 3,066 went to Great Britain, 13,402 to the Continent and 1,065 to the Orient. For the week, with one day still to be reported, the exports amount to 27,119 bales, which promises to give a low record total for any week this season.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
July	38.00	38.68	38.00	38.40	37.80
Oct.	33.25	33.48	33.25	33.35@33.42	33.16
Dec.	32.00	32.18	32.00	32.05	31.90

May	30.20	30.25	30.12	30.25	30.08

The local market for spot cotton was steady, up 50 points to 39.25c. for middling upland; sales, 5,500 bales.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 38.75c; New Orleans, 39.50c; Savannah, 41.50c; Augusta, 41c; Memphis, 40c; Houston, 38.75c; Little Rock, 40c.

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	4,044	4,082	18,179

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was dull at 26.37d for middling. Sales, 3,000 bales, of which American 2,000. Imports, 8,000 bales, all American. Futures opened quiet, but steady, 1 to 11 points up, and closed steady, 24 to 31 points up on the day. Prices: July, 23.97d; October, 22.63d; December, 21.41d; March, 20.52d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull.

LESS WOOL USED IN MILLS.

May's Textile Demands Below Those of March and April.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Textile mills in the United States consumed 58,600,000 pounds of wool (grease wool basis) in May, 1920, as against 52,000,000 pounds in the corresponding month last year, according to a report of the Bureau of Markets of the Department of Agriculture.

The figures are low in comparison with April, 66,900,000 pounds, and March, 67,000,000 pounds. The drop is attributed to transportation difficulties, a slackening in the demand for finished goods, and the tighter money situation obtaining the latter part of the month.

A comparison of the relative consumption of the different grades, with figures for preceding month, shows a slight fluctuation, most marked in the 3-blood grade. According to conditions in which the wool entered the mills, the amounts are: Grease wool, 41,620 pounds; scoured wool, 7,394,043, and pulled wool, 1,635,236.

Consumption according to States was: Massachusetts, 21,534,475 pounds; Pennsylvania, 7,607,881; Rhode Island, 5,762,011; New York, 4,601,657, and New Jersey, 4,143,075, followed by Connecticut, New Hampshire, Ohio, and Maine, with approximately 1,000,000 pounds each.

Morris & Wilmarth Retire.

Morris & Wilmarth, members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, the New York Produce Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and for fourteen years the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, announced yesterday their retirement from business. At one time the firm held membership in the New York Cotton Exchange and the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce.

EGGS.—The receipts yesterday were 16,962 cases. Arrivals decreased and the market maintained a firm tone on high grade stock. Medium and lower qualities were urgently offered at a wide range of prices. There are still large offerings of ordinary and inferior qualities. White eggs were firm in the highest grades and there was a fair movement in good medium qualities. Prices showed very little change either in nearby stock or Pacific Coast offerings. RAILROAD SITUATION DOMINATES BUSINESS

General Slowing Down of Industry and Trading as a Whole Is Dull.

BUT PRICES DO NOT FALL

Guaranty Trust Company's Letter Sees Little Likelihood of Money Easing Up.

The transportation situation continues to dominate business of all kinds according to the semi-monthly letter of the Guaranty Trust Company. "The shortage of cars," says the bank, "is felt everywhere and producers who were in despair a few weeks ago of means to ship out finished products and to bring in raw materials are now feeling a serious scarcity of fuel coal. Various efforts are being made to pool shipments and there is much discussion of a return to war-time methods of conservation. The country is beginning to realize under the circumstances that arbitrary allocation of cars is at best only a temporary expedient and that if business continues in volume there must be a net gain in railroad equipment. There is observable a general slowing down of industry, and trading as a whole is dull. So far the effect of this has not been any widespread decline in prices, dealers in all kinds of commodities feeling, no doubt, that the dullness is seasonal and that basic economic conditions are indicative of price maintenance.

"If basic economic conditions are against any long fall of prices, it would seem that they are also against any such fall in the rates for money as have been predicted recently in some quarters. It has been asserted that after the July 1 payments money would be cheap and would continue so. Why the United States Government should have entered the market within this last month for advances at rates not reached since civil war days, if there were anything to indicate a recession so soon, it is hard to understand.

"The railroads and equipment companies are merely instances of the many enterprises that must be financed. All in all the prediction of easy money does not seem well founded."

BANKERS IN 100-MILE FLIGHT

Party of Ten Fly to Southampton in a Seaplane.

Ten prominent New Yorkers whose wealth is said to total more than fifty million dollars made a weekend commuters' flight yesterday from this city to Southampton, L. I., in a seaplane. No attempt was made to speed up the craft, as it was the maiden flight of some of the passengers, and the pilot merely jogged along most of the hundred miles. However, the flight was made in one hour and nineteen minutes, which the bankers thought compared well enough with the two hours and forty-five minutes it takes the fastest train to make the journey.

The huge white hydroaeroplane with "Aeromarine May Cruiser" painted on its sides left the Columbia Yacht Club at Eighty-sixth Street and the Hudson River at 4:31 o'clock and alighted in front of the Southampton Club at 5:55 o'clock. The plane flew over the Hudson and then followed a course along the Long Island shore.

The passengers were the guests of Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, and included Charles B. MacDonald, "Dean of Golf" and President of the National Golf Club; John Greer, Howard Page, former Treasurer of the Standard Oil Company; John Cross, Stewart Walker, Newell Tilton, Ralph Ranlet, Robert Wrenn, former national tennis champion, and I. M. Uppercu, President of the Cadillac Motor Company of New York.

Little uneasiness was manifested by the guests, although Mr. Wrenn was the only member of the party who had ever been in a plane before.

Members of the Southampton Club, who had received word that the "Wall Street Air Special" had started, eagerly awaited her arrival, and as the big ship alighted in Peconic Bay there was tooting of automobile horns and blowing of motor boat whistles. As the passengers climbed from the hull of the craft they gave enthusiastic accounts of the journey. None seemed to be any the worse for the flight and a few had time to play nine holes of golf after arriving.

"The trip was surprisingly fine and entirely lacking in harrowing incident," said Mr. Mitchell. "Every one was delighted with the trip and seemed to enjoy every minute of it, except one man, who went to sleep. We lounged back in our easy-chairs, smoked, and a few of the party wandered up to the cockpit when they got tired of sitting still. We had the good fortune to fly directly over the Mauretania as she sailed for the other side."

Mr. Mitchell said that they flew at a height of about 1,200 feet and about fifteen miles out from land. When asked if it was true that regular weekly flights would be made to their Summer homes, Mr. Mitchell said there was some talk of it, but that no definite plans had been made. He added, however, that all of the party are convinced that weekly flights would be practical.

The flying boat started back to New York shortly after landing her passengers. She carried no passengers on the return trip. It is planned to have the craft fly to Atlantic City tomorrow, where it will be exhibited over the Fourth of July.

Czech Socialists Laud Soviet.

Upon the return from a six weeks' investigating tour of Soviet Russia of a committee of Czech Socialists, the Chairman of the committee, Dr. Gottfried Smeral, a member of the Czechoslovak Chamber of Deputies, issued a statement lauding the work of the Soviet authorities and denouncing the anti-Soviet reports of the last two years as the biggest lies recorded in history, says a Prague dispatch found in the German press. Dr. Smeral and Alois Muna, the Communist leader, were the principal speakers at a big pro-Soviet mass meeting held in Prague on June 13.

MORE RUSSIAN GOLD ARRIVES IN AMERICA

Morgan & Co. Announce Receipt of 12,000,000 Rubles for Britain's Account.

$28,700,000 IN TWO LOTS

Shipments Assumed to Have Been Sent by Kolchak to Pay Off New York-London Loan.

The arrival of 12,000 rubles gold at San Francisco yesterday was announced by J. P. Morgan & Co. This gold, it was said, had been received for the account of the British Government with the Morgan firm and the account of J. P. Morgan & Co. will be credited with the metal at the Federal Reserve Bank at San Francisco. In terms of American money the shipment is worth approximately $6,500,000.

This is the second large arrival of gold on the Pacific Coast within the last few weeks. The first, amounting to $22,200,000, came in at San Francisco and Seattle, the latter by way of a Canadian port, on May 27. At that time it was stated that the gold had come from Hongkong and was part of the collateral which the Kolchak All-Russia Government had deposited at Hongkong to secure an advance of about $38,000,000 made by a syndicate of New York and London banks.

The loan to the Kolchak Government was arranged in December last and was to have run for eighteen months, but it was stated in May that half of the loan had been paid off, the collateral released and disposed of to the British Government. Whether yesteray's arrival was also part of the Kolchak gold was not known here, but it was assumed that it was.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ......8 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday ....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Garments Still High-Priced.

There seems to be no meeting of ideas as far as the manufacturers of the better grades of garments and buyers are concerned. According to the views of the latter, the necessity for naming lower prices does not appear to have been digested as yet by the wholesalers. Stories are told of openings where the price range has been from $200 to $600. As one store representative described the situation, "The buyers are merely taking numbers and cancelling them when they get out of the showrooms."

Two Buying Trips.

From the reported arrangements of garment buyers for visiting this market, the general plan to be followed will be that of calling on the trade immediately after the holiday and then making a later trip in August. The first visit will be made for the purpose of seeing what the manufacturers have to offer, and orders will be placed but for small quantities. Between the first and second visits it is thought that any further declines that may occur in merchandise will take place, and purchases may then be made at more attractive prices. This, at least, is the buyer psychology that finds most frequent expression.

Clothing Still Unsteady.

While there has been some improvement in the clothing trade as a result of the price guarantee adopted for Fall by the manufacturers, nevertheless the many offers of goods on consignment along with the numerous offerings of other kinds still have too disturbing an influence on the market to permit of much progress. As a leading clothier described the situation, there is an overabundance of good things for the buyer to expect him to settle down to the business of writing out orders. Until the merchandise now on the market is substantially cleared away, even though it is merchandise of a past season, not much improvement is looked for in Fall buying.

Prepared to Go Over Season.

In hosiery and underwear lines there is a disposition to pass over the Fall season entirely unless a demand puts in an appearance soon. Certain large factors have insisted on orders remaining undisturbed and without revision. At the same time notice was given that no cancellations would be accepted. It was hinted that no manufacturing may be done for the Fall. Jobbers are uncertain over the outlook, but at the same time realize that there are very definite price limits and that values must recede. This is contrary to the manufacturer's viewpoint, as he takes into consideration merely the cost of producing and not the principle that a thing is worth only what it will bring.

No Pre-War Basis.

Reference to a pre-war basis of merchandising, according to a representative buyer, is a misnomer because no such basis can exist in the present circumstances or is likely to return. He pointed out that before the war the period of a Presidential campaign was one of unsettlement and conditions upset purposely to achieve a political result. While the situation at present can lay no claims to stability, the reason, he said, is a business and not a political one. Attempts to guide merchandising along the style of pre-war experience, he went on to say, will lead to failure because conditions are different and very apt to stay different.

Raw Silk Markets Quieter.

Largely as a result of the slump in demand from this country, the Yokohama raw silk market has eased off about 100 yen per picul in the last week. New silks for forward shipment can now be had at practically what the old ones cost a week ago. Cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city from Canton and Shanghai report those markets firm but quiet. In the latter market prices continue somewhat above the parities of the other varieties. Milan reports a better demand for European account, but American buyers are still holding off. Crop reports from Europe are encouraging. The local market is seasonably dull, many of the mills being closed for stock taking and repairs.

Embroideries Are Used Freely.

Judging from the showings of the higher-priced Fall lines of women's ready-to-wear suits and dresses that have been made here to date, velvet and duvetyn give promise of being the season's two most popular fabrics. In the trimmings, embroidery and fur top the mode at the moment. The former is used with especial abandon, not only on the kinds of garments it would be expected to be seen on, but on semi-tailored and tailored models as well. The new tailored suits show both long and short jackets. While following Paris to a considerable extent in the matter of garishness of color in material and trimmings, the new Fall dresses are obviously toned down for American "consumption."

The Hot Weather Has Helped.

Although it cannot be said that it made them any more willing than they have been to buy at other than special prices, the hot weather of the last several days has forced buyers into the wholesale market for seasonable dresses. The consumer demand for cotton dresses especially has taken a spurt. The reflection of this improvement in the retailers' demands on the manufacturers has done quite a little toward reducing possible losses on the part of the latter that would have resulted from carrying the goods over or having practically to give them away later on. Dresses of dotted swiss, voile, organdie, crêpe and other lightweight cotton materials are among those wanted. There has also been a pretty fair call for colored cotton dresses, in which ginghams have shown up well.

Printcloths Feature Gray Goods.

Printcloths supplied what little feature there was to trading in the local gray goods market yesterday, as the demand for sheetings, fine-yarn fabrics and specialties was practically nil. Even the buying of printcloths did not extend past the filling in of immediate needs. Second hands sold spot 39-inch 68-72s at 21½ cents, a decline of half a cent a yard from recent levels. Spot Eastern 38½-inch 64-60s brought 22 cents to first hands, while for "quick" 38½-inch 60-48s, also of Eastern make, buyers paid 19 cents. Southern sellers of the latter construction were reported to be asking the same price without success.

Many Hosiery Seconds Around.

By way of explaining the complaints concerning quality that are being received by retailers from women who have bought silk hosiery of late, an executive of a prominent knit goods house said yesterday that they are the fruits of the recent high prices asked for raw silks. "Hosiery made of raw silks that were bought at the high prices which prevailed just before the big upset in the market," he said, "are only now appearing in quantity on the retail counters. Unavoidable delay in production and deliveries are responsible for this. The lack of quality complained of, however, is due to the prices paid for the raw silks by the manufacturers, and the number of seconds some of the latter let go through because of those high prices. They probably figured that that was the only way they could get their money back. Another reason for the increased number of seconds is the cheaper silks bought by some producers in order to keep their prices within bounds that could be met by their trade. Poor silk always means a large proportion of seconds."

BUSINESS NOTES.

John W. Heering, associated with Marshall Field & Co. for twenty years, the last eight of which as local resident buyer of ready-to-wear and kindred lines, has resigned. On July 12 Mr. Heering will become assistant to John Appel, general merchandise manager for John Wanamaker.

Effective yesterday, Woodward, Baldwin & Co. of this city have become sole selling agents for the Pelzer Manufacturing Company, Pelzer, S. C., makers of shirtings, drills and sheetings.

GAIN IN OUR TRADE BALANCE

May Exports to Europe Totaled $383,000,000, Imports $92,000,000.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Improvement of the trade balance of the United States with every important geographical division of the world was shown today by the report of the Department of Commerce for the month of May.

Exports to Europe in May totaled $383,000,000 and imports $92,000,000, leaving a favorable balance of more than $290,000,000, an increase of $37,000,000 over the balance of April. South America's favorable balance was reduced to $5,000,000, against $29,000,000 in April, exports last month aggregating $58,000,000 and imports $63,000,000. Exports to India were $76,000,000 and imports $106,000,000 and this country bought $138,000,000 in goods from North American countries, selling in return goods worth $152,000,000.

TERRE HAUTE TOTAL GAINS.

City Gains 169 on Recount of Population—Has 66,083 Souls.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The following census figures were announced today:

High Point, N. C., 14,302, an increase of 4,777, or 50.2 per cent.

Baker City, Ore., 7,729, an increase of 987, or 14.6 per cent.

Towanda, Pa., 4,260, a decrease of 21, or 0.4 per cent.

Revised figures on Terre Haute, Ind., gave the population as 66,083, an increase of 169 over the previous total.

The population of Danbury, Conn.; Columbus, Ind.; Hobart, Okla.; Sioux Falls, S. D., and Laramie, Wyo., will be announced tomorrow.

Special Deputy Attorney General Resigns Under Swann Charges of Abuse of Power.

SAYS HYLAN IS TARGET

Prosecutor Assails Investigating Body—Declares It Has Cost County $125,000.

Robert E. Manley, Special Deputy Attorney General assigned to the Extraordinary Grand Jury of which Raymond F. Almirall is foreman, resigned yesterday following the publication of District Attorney Swann's charge that he had issued subpoenas on behalf of one of his clients, thus summoning before the Grand Jury witnesses interested in civil litigation.

Following up his attack on the Grand Jury for what he termed "a gross abuse of its official powers," Mr. Swann, upon hearing of Mr. Manley's resignation, again assailed that body. The Grand Jury has already cost the County of New York $125,000, he declared. He said he had it "on the best authority" that the jury would continue in session so long as he remained District Attorney. "They also hope to get something on Mayor Hylan and another person whose name I'll not mention," he added.

Colonel William Rand, chief counsel to the Extraordinary Grand Jury, to whom Mr. Manley tendered his resignation, assigned as the reason for Mr. Manley's action the fear that his further connection with the Grand Jury's work "might be a source of embarrassment to me." Mr. Manley was not at his office when an attempt was made to see him. Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, who is presiding over the deliberations of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, did not comment on Mr. Manley's resignation or on the District Attorney's charges.

In announcing Mr. Manley's resignation Colonel Rand said that the case of Mrs. Marie Helen Bourasse was brought to the attention of the Grand Jury two months ago and in May he assigned Mr. Manley to the investigation. The case involved the settlement of certain matrimonial suits and the dismissal of a charge of bigamy against Napoleon A. Bourasse.

"In the course of his (Manley's) investigation his sympathies were excited by the wrongs to which Mrs. Bourasse had been subjected," Colonel Rand continued, "and he felt that the protection of her rights required the commencement of an annulment action before Mr. Bourasse, alarmed by Grand Jury proceedings, should leave the jurisdiction.

Acted in Good Faith, Says Rand.

"He therefore prepared a summons and complaint and served them on June 22. It was distinctly understood that Mr. Manley was to receive no compensation and he had no intention of remaining in the case or of prosecuting the action. On Monday, June 28, he caused Grand Jury subpoenas for the session of Tuesday, June 29, to be served upon Mr. Bourasse and the lawyers concerned, including two who had appeared in previous litigations for Mr. Bourasse. These witnesses were not examined. The only witnesses examined were Mrs. Bourasse and two of her former counsel. Their examination had no bearing whatever upon the civil action which Mr. Manley had begun.

"The fact that Mr. Manley was acting as attorney for Mrs. Bourasse was first brought to my attention last Tuesday afternoon. Upon investigation I found the facts to be as I have stated them. There is nothing in them to justify the inference that Mr. Manley used or sought to use Grand Jury process in furtherance of civil litigation. His good faith in the matter is beyond question and clearly appears from the fact that he resorted to no concealment and subscribed the summons and complaint in his own name.

"Mr. Manley, fearing that in the circumstances his further connection with the investigation might be a source of embarrassment to me, has tendered his resignation, which I have regretfully accepted."

On learning of the resignation Mr. Swann said that whatever action he might take in the future would be taken up with Governor Smith.

"Mr. Manley's act," Mr. Swann continued, "is but one of many instances where the Extraordinary Grand Jury summoned before it litigants in a civil action, under the cloak of investigating my office. The first of these was when for three months they listened to the testimony of Gaston B. Means and summoned other witnesses and papers in a matter they knew was the subject of civil litigation in Chicago. Means had propounded an alleged will in which there was involved between three and four millions of dollars and which the Chicago courts had declared to be a forgery. Whatever may have been the object in summoning Means and the papers in this will contest, it had the tendency at least to help Means in his efforts to establish the validity of that will.

"The next case was that of summoning witnesses in the Hartog and Murphy controversy, when they knew that several suits were pending in the civil courts in which these two gentlemen were plaintiffs and defendants.

Jury Ignores Crime, Says Swann.

"I have the statement on the best authority that the Extraordinary Grand Jury will continue in session as long as Edward Swann is District Attorney, which means for the next year and a half. They also hope to get something on Mayor Hylan and another person whose name I'll not mention.

"They hope by continually calling the Mayor or the District Attorney as witnesses before them at the most unexpected moments to get them in a contradiction of statements made to them three months before. The real crimes against society they seem to pay no attention to. They make tremendous demands on the time of the District Attorney and his assistants and the Mayor when these public officials are immersed in the cares of their offices.

"To get back to Mr. Manley. He has said in explanation of his acts in calling witnesses in a civil action in which he was interested as an attorney that he thought it necessary to file this annulment action of Mrs. Bourasse against her husband so that the Grand Jury would have proper grounds to proceed against my assistant, Mr. Kilroe. In other words, it was necessary for Mr. Manley to fabricate a civil action, of Bourasse against Bourasse, in order to investigate Kilroe.

"This Grand Jury has already cost the County of New York $125,000, including counsel fees, Grand Jurors' wages, stenographers and process servers' fees."

Mr. Swann said there was no reason why the Grand Jury should take a vacation until a month or two before election. He saw no reason for the jury taking a vacation because of the weather, "if they have any important work to do." He said it was inexcusable that the jury should adjourn to take up its investigation against public officials "so close to an important election."

He said he knew that Manley proceeded with his inquiry into the Bourasse matter over the protest of Lyle E. Mahan, counsel for Bourasse, the defendant in the action.

GIRL, 4, TELLS OF ATTACK.

In Hospital, Terribly Injured, She Identifies Man Under Arrest.

In Newark City Hospital yesterday Mary Jacicko, 4 years old, who is in a serious condition from many injuries, identified George Claymoust, 30 years old, of 38 Wilson Avenue, Newark, as her assailant. The child's face is bruised and scratched, her teeth loosened and one eye blackened and she is otherwise terribly injured. When Claymoust was taken to the side of her cot she pointed at him and said, "You."

On Wednesday night the child, who had been last seen playing in front of her home on Wilson Avenue, was found moaning behind a billboard on Bay Avenue. She was unconscious and her clothing had been ripped almost entirely off. She was taken to a police station and thence to the hospital. When she was revived she told of a man carrying her away.

Claymoust, who was arrested later, denied that he had ever seen the child. He said he had been in a restaurant most of the evening and the restaurant keeper corroborated his story. He was held pending a further investigation of his story.

DOOM APPROACHES FOR YELLOW FEVER

FISH USED TO FIGHT GERM

Eat Eggs of Mosquitoes Carrying Infection—Good Chances for Making a Vaccine.

A report of the year's work of the Rockefeller Foundation has just been completed by President George E. Vincent. The first installment made public yesterday deals with the Foundation's campaign for the eradication of yellow fever and its health activities in thirty-nine different governmental areas.

"To eradicate yellow fever from these seed-beds (Guayaquil in Ecuador, Merida in Yucatan, suspected areas in Venezuela, along the coasts of Brazil and along the west coast of Africa) is the high adventure upon which the Rockefeller Foundation embarked in 1918 under the leadership of General William C. Gorgas. The results so far have been substantial and encouraging," said the report.

The campaign for the eradication of yellow fever was based upon the discovery already made by Drs. Finlay, Reed, Lazear and others in Cuba that yellow fever is carried from one person to another by a female mosquito of the species known as Stegomyia.

The report narrates the work of Dr. Hideyo Noguchi and the discovery of a "minute, delicate, threadlike, spiral organism called the jaundice maker." The doctor did not profess that he had discovered the germ of yellow fever, but he was given ample opportunity to test his discovery. A serum prepared from the jaundice maker was administered with apparently favorable effect. "It seems more than likely," the report continued, "that a means of identifying yellow fever has been found, and that the chances are good of substantially reducing the mortality of the disease—that a vaccine can be made which, apparently protects non-immunes against infection."

In the fight to eliminate the Stegomyia mosquito fish were used, and these were placed in water containers to eat the mosquito eggs. The first kind of fish was nervous, easily frightened and short lived. A hardy fish was next drafted, but it proved so vigorous that it was always jumping out of the water. Finally, a satisfactory fish was obtained with a sufficient appetite.

"It is too early to affirm that yellow fever has been completely eradicated from Guayaquil," continued the report. "Vigilance will not be relaxed for a year at least. Nevertheless, the possibilities of control have been convincingly demonstrated. Guayaquil, the chief seed-bed of yellow fever, has been free from the disease for months. General Gorgas's ambition to write 'The Last Chapter of Yellow Fever' seems no utopian dream."

TO FIGHT FOR DRY WORLD.

State Anti-Saloon League Meets Here and Elects Officers.

The trustees of the Anti-Saloon League met yesterday, elected officers and pledged the organization to fight for world prohibition. This indorsement was contained in a resolution which said the league would try to make public the name of every candidate for Congress opposed to prohibition or favoring light wines and beer. This would be done by sending to every candidate a request to state publicly his views on this question. The resolutions follow:

> Whereas, The battleground of the league against the liquor traffic has been in so large a degree transferred from the States to the Federal Government; and
> Whereas, The conservation of Federal legislation already secured is of primary importance, and the success of the work in the States depends in so large a measure upon Federal action; therefore, be it
> Resolved, That the Board of Trustees of the Anti-Saloon League of New York hereby place themselves loyally behind the policies and work of the national organization and will co-operate to the fullest extent in all steps necessary to hold the victories already secured and to advance the common cause further and to more complete success.
> We also recognize that prohibition in the United States can never be fully secured so long as any other nation permits the liquor traffic to exist. We therefore heartily indorse and pledge our support to the efforts of the national organization to extend the propaganda of prohibition throughout the world, believing that with the liquor traffic removed from the face of the earth the coming of the Kingdom of God, toward which all our efforts are directed, will be vastly accelerated.

These officers were elected: President, the Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, New York; Secretary, the Rev. Dr. George Caleb Moor, New York; Treasurer, B. H. Fancher, New York.

Arrangements were made for pushing aggressively the organization of the Allied Citizens of America to cope with the problems of prohibition enforcement.

Internal Revenue Agents Einstein and Rittenberg yesterday arrested Alexander Sawchuk, a saloonkeeper, of 4,319 Fourteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, on a charge of selling intoxicants. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner McGoldrick and pleaded guilty. Federal Judge Chatfield sentenced Sawchuk to three days in jail and fined him $1,500. Frank Joyce, a bartender, employed by John Donnelly, at Third Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, was given two days in jail and fined $150 for a similar offense.

FIREMEN QUIT MAURETANIA.

Their Desertion Delays Liner Three Hours—Lady Geddes Sails.

The sailing of the Mauretania for Southampton was delayed three hours yesterday when forty-two of the liner's firemen failed to appear and others had to be found to take their places. Officials of the line visited the sailors' lodging houses along the water front engaging men for the trip. It was believed that the men who came over on the Mauretania had deserted to ship under the American flag with the prospect of higher wages.

The liner carried 500 first cabin passengers, including many persons well-known in the world of finance and society. Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, sailed to bring her children to this country from England.

"I have quite a Rooseveltian family, for their are five," she said. "On their arrival here the children will attend school somewhere around the Capitol. Washington to me has been a wonderful city, and one is certainly impressed with its international aspect."

Other passengers were Guy E. Tripp, President of the Westinghouse Electric Company; A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University, and Mrs. Lowell, J. Leonard Replogle, Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt of Biltmore, N. C., and her daughter, Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown of Providence, R. I., and John Nicholas Brown, her son; Sir Croyden Marks, Sir Joseph Duveen and Mr. and Mrs. James Seligman. There were 450 second cabin and 630 steerage passengers.

Court Halts Bus Appropriation.

Justice Gavegan of the Supreme Court signed an order yesterday restraining the Board of Estimate from spending $1,000,000 for municipal buses. The decision was in a taxpayer's suit instituted last March by Edward Schafer, who contended that the issuing of bonds for this purpose would be a waste of the public funds.

ACTIVE DWELLING MARKET.

Widely Scatttered Houses Interest Buyers for Occupancy.

The Everett M. Seixas Company sold for Anna Mary Carroll, a substitute trustee for M. O. Caswell and Kenneth Caswell, 130 East Sixteenth Street, on a plot 25 by 100, to William A. Hogan, who will occupy after extensive alterations are completed. This is the first sale of the property in fifty-seven years.

The Cruikshank Company sold for Hettie L. Downes and others to a client the three-story dwelling at 148 West 130th Street, on a lot 18.4 by 99.11, for occupancy.

Shaw & Co. sold for James L. Van Sant 126 West 128th Street, a three-story dwelling, 15 by 100, to Mary R. Edwards, who will occupy.

Charles A. Du Bois sold for the Kings County Savings Institution to Lawrence S. Goldberg the three-story dwelling at 531 West 150th Street. This completes the row of seven dwellings sold through this office.

Derschuch & Co., in conjunction with Huberth & Huberth, sold for the 340 West Fifty-eighth Street Corporation, Bernard Reich, President, the four-story residence at 340 West Fifty-eighth Street, 20 by 100.5.

George W. Sasse sold for Dr. A. Hauswirth 236 West 113th Street, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 16 by 100.

The Haven Day Nursery purchased from the Law estate and Katherine Coffey, respectively, 443 and 445 West Twenty-fourth Street, two three-story dwellings, on a plot 41 by 100, which the nursery has occupied for several years. George Ranger was the broker.

Jacob J. Schubert purchased from Frank P. Rhinock the five-story residence, 34.11 by 53, irregular, on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 106th Street.

The three-story residence, 18 by 100.8, at 117 East Ninety-fifth Street, near Park Avenue, has been sold by the Jaclun Realty Company to Ernest and Oscar Sendheim.

J. Geizler and L. B. Kraker sold for Harriet Pettigrew the three-story and basement dwelling at 112 West 118th Street, on a lot 16 by 100, to Isaac Baron for occupancy. The same brokers purchased for a client for occupancy from Abraham Roseman the three-story and basement dwelling at 145 West 120th Street, on a lot 20 by 100, held at $18,000.

The Anawanda Club Corporation, the tenant, bought the three-story house, 22 by 79, at 345 Second Avenue, northwest corner of Twentieth Street, from Henry Schneider for $28,000.

TITLE TO 195 BROADWAY.

J. Benenson Is New Owner of the City Investing Building.

Title to the City Investing Building at 195 Broadway passed yesterday from its former owners, headed by Robert E. Dowling, to the G. Benenson Investing Company, Inc. The announcement of the sale of this property was made in December. The building is one of the largest office structures in the world and it is understood that the transaction represented approximately $10,000,000. Coleman, Stein & Ellenwood represented the buyers in the deal. Mr. Benenson is a member of the banking firm of G. Benenson & Co., of London, England. The property purchased includes the adjoining structure at 99 Liberty Street, corner of Church Street and the leasehold of the southwest corner of Broadway and Cortlandt Street. The leasehold has a period of about 80 years to run.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company holds a mortgage of $5,000,000 on the City Investing Building, and there is an additional mortgage of $600,000. On the 99 Liberty Street property the United States Trust Company holds a mortgage for $150,000.

The entire property has a frontage of 95 feet on Broadway, 315 feet on Cortlandt Street, 223 feet on Church Street and 22.9 feet on Liberty Street. The Singer Building is on the Broadway and Liberty Street corner.

BUSINESS DEALS.

Large Plot Assembled in East Forty-second Street.

In the East Forty-second Street section the properties at 216 to 224 East Forty-second Street, between Third and Second Avenues, have been purchased by the Hup Realty Company, of which J. C. Hupfel is President. The two loft structures at 216 and 218 were bought from Frank Dobson, the four-story building at 220 from George McLeod, and from Mrs. Babette Gussow the five-story hotel and four-story building at 222 and 224 were acquired. The purchasers now control a plot of 125 feet on Forty-second Street, running through to Forty-first Street. The buildings will be reconstructed from plans by Maynecke & Franke, architects, to meet the demand in the Grand Central zone for office space and loft use, and will be ready for occupancy early in the Fall. Henry Hof was the broker in assembling the plot.

A business deal in the lower Sixth Avenue section was closed through Tankoos, Smith & Co. in the sale for Marquis Charles Pierre de Bausset Roquefort of Paris, France, represented by Thomas D. Leonard, attorney, of the properties at 103 to 107 Sixth Avenue, southwest corner of Greenwich Avenue, opposite Jefferson Market. Negotiations are pending for a resale.

Brooklyn Transactions.

The saloon building at 583 Fulton Street, through to the Flatbush Avenue extension, has been leased to the United Cigar Stores of America through the Martin Company for the Drake estate for ten years. The same brokers also sold for Lillian D. Martin the four-story dwelling at 73 Willow Street to Malcolm Baxter, Jr.; also to Mary Lyons the four-story dwelling at 165 Congress Street for James T. Holle, and for Alfred Schoernburn the dwelling at 120 Bond Street to A. F. Hallbren.

B. F. Knowles Company sold 61 Division Avenue, a two-story dwelling, for C. J. Fox to M. Wasserman, for occupancy.

Staten Island.

W. S. E. Hall sold for Mary Wodey and Joseph J. McDonald a cottage, with two lots, on Fairmount Avenue, West New Brighton; also for Alphonse and George Russell a two-family house on Davis Avenue, West New Brighton, to Mrs. Mary Watson of Hoboken, N. J.

Sales in the Bronx.

Nehring Brothers sold for a client of Francis B. Robert to a Dr. Rostacker, for investment, 525 and 527 East 146th Street, a five-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 100, renting for $8,000 and held at $55,000.

James J. Etchingham sold for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company 1,100 East 183d Street, southeast corner of Devoe Street, a two-family house, 25 by 75, to Frank J. Yuengling, for occupancy.

The Hudwill Corporation, Hudson P. Rose, President, purchased from H. Wintjen the four one-family houses 133 to 139 Kingsbridge Road.

B. Schildhaus sold for James J. Coleman, attorney, to M. Trachtenberg, 1,027 Faile Street, a three-story dwelling, 20 by 100.

Newspapers Give $100,000 Bonus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—Robert F. and Harry P. Wolfe, owners of The Columbus Dispatch and The Ohio State Journal, today paid half-yearly bonus checks to their employes totaling more than $100,00. A similar bonus was given their employes at Christmas time.

INVESTORS BUYING APARTMENT HOUSES

SALE IN DYCKMAN SECTION

Estate Sells St. Nicholas Avenue House—Other Deals Show Continued Activity.

Several good apartment house transactions in the upper west side residential section showed that the realty market for such properties continues active. At 251 Fort Washington Avenue, the northwest corner of 170th Street, the eight-story building, known as the Avoca, covering a plot 100 by 100 feet, was purchased by J. Greenberg from the Benenson Realty Company. The sellers acquired it last May. The house has accommodations for forty-eight families and shows an annual rent roll of about $50,000. The holding price was $400,000. Nathan Bender acted as broker in the deal.

The five-story apartment house at 209 Wadsworth Avenue, between 183d and 184th Streets, was sold for the Natural Chemical Company to an investor. The plot is 50.5 by 100 feet. Charles C. Kohler was the broker. The holding price was $85,000.

In the Dyckman section the three five-story flats at 123 and 127 Post Avenue, near 207th Street, were purchased by Irene Goetz from Hedwig Klipstein. They cover a plot 75 by 100 feet and were held at $120,000. McDowell & Byrnes were the brokers.

Norman Denzer sold to a client for investment for the heirs of Henry Moll the apartment house at 923 St. Nicholas Avenue, on plot 25 by 93. The house property was built by Henry Moll and has not changed hands since 1884.

The New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, as trustee, sold to Catherine Hanlon for $16,500 the two five-story flats, on plot 50 by 92, at 427 and 429 East Eighteenth Street.

Annie M. Van Houten bought 518 West Forty-ninth Street, a five-story flat, 26.4 by 105.5, from Meyer Necht and others, as executors.

Samuel H. Martin has leased to a client for Charles B. Foy the five-story flat at 50 West 105th Street for ten years at a gross rental of $36,000.

QUEENS BOROUGH DEALS.

Courtney Development Company Sells 147 Developed Lots.

Bryan L. Kennelly sold for the Courtney Development Company, of which F. J. Lancaster is President, 147 lots consisting of two solid blocks bounded by Queens Boulevard, Nott Avenue, Gosman Avenue and Fitting Street, also the greater portion of the block between Nott Avenue, Anable Avenue, Gosman Avenue and Heiser Street, together with the southeast corner of Heiser Street and Nott Avenue, in the Borough of Queens, to the Casilear Realty Company.

These lots are completely developed, having sewers, water, gas and electricity. The streets are macadamized, the sidewalks and curbs are concrete and the gutters are made of pressed brick. They are now ready for immediate improvement. The Bliss Street subway station is on the property.

The new purchasers, it is said, will offer these lots to the City of New York to help out in the housing movement now under way. Some of the blocks are unrestricted and may be used for business purposes. The property was held at $500,000.

Frank J. Magerle sold for Mrs. Rose Kelly the property at 8,415 105th Street, Richmond Hill. The buyer will occupy.

Realty Market Notes.

Contract has been let to the Brady-Butler Company for the erection of a seven-story fireproof building at 79-83 Bedford Street and an addition of two stories to the adjoining building at 69 Barrow Street, running through to Commerce Street. When completed they will be occupied by Rigaud, perfumes and toilet articles. The architects are Sommerfeld & Steckler.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company loaned $525,000 to the 105 West Seventy-third Street Corporation for the erection of two nine-story apartment houses on the north side of Seventy-third Street, near Columbus Avenue. The buildings will occupy plots 63 by 102.2 and 82 by 102.2, respectively. The insurance company also made a loan of $60,000 to the 145 East Sixtieth Street Company for altering five Sixtieth Street dwellings into stores and apartments.

Sales at Malverne.

The Amsterdam Development & Sales Co. sold at Malverne, L. I., to Dr. Everett H. Brauwer of Brooklyn, a plot 60 by 100 on Nottingham Road; to George W. Hall, a plot facing 60 feet on Ocean Avenue, with depth varying from 77 to 93 feet; to Robert McCauley, 40 by 100, on Ogston Terrace, and to Lucian J. Bisbee, 107 by 112, at corner of Cornwell Avenue and Doncaster Road with a small dwelling which will be remodelled.

Edgar J. Hill purchased from the Amsterdam Development & Sales Co., a plot 120 by 200 in Meadowbrook Estates, Hempstead, with a Colonial dwelling.

Recent Buyers.

W. A. M. Burden, now residing at 5 East Seventy-third Street, is the buyer of the residence of Mrs. Jonathan Thorne at 1,028 Fifth Avenue, southeast corner of Eighty-fourth Street.

John B. Maxwell is the buyer of the dwelling at 172 West Eighty-eighth Street, sold recently by Randolph Hurry.

Edna G. Goldmark bought the dwelling at 140 West Eighty-seventh Street sold by the Alliance Realty Company.

Mortimer J. Kaufman is the buyer of the residence at 39 West Seventy-third Street.

Commercial Leases.

The Garage Realty Company leased the five-story and basement garage owned by Carey Brothers at 124 and 126 East 124th Street to the Podher Realty Corporation, for a period of twenty-one years, at an approximate rental of $500,000.

John F. McKeon of the Wood-Dolson Company leased for Harry Bailey the garage at 510 and 512 West Fifty-second Street, for a term of years, to the Riverside Ice Company.

The Charles F. Noyes Company leased for the Underwriters' and Credit Bureau, at an aggregate rental of $75,000, to Hall & Henshaw, the ground floor at 21 Platt Street for eleven years. Hall & Henshaw will occupy the space in connection with the adjoining premises, just leased, in the new Eckert Building, occupying the block front on Gold Street from John to Platt Street.

Carlisle Street Sale.

The Markham Realty Corporation, Clarence W. Eckardt, President, has sold to Alfrieda Braun, 1 Carlisle Street, a five-story building on lot 26 by 59, adjoining the Hazen Building on the northwest corner of Greenwich Street. The premises will be occupied by the purchaser after extensiv alterations. Albert Siegel was the broker.

Buys at Garden City.

The Garden City Developmnet Corporation sold for Joseph Minotti the latter's house at Garden City estates, to Ramond Hubbell of Rockville Centre. The house is located at the corner of Nassau Boulevard and Chester Avenue, on a plot 140 by 150 feet.

BIG SEVENTH AVENUE LEASE

Wendel Property on Fortieth Street for $22,500 a Year.

An important Seventh Avenue lease in the Times Square area was recorded yesterday. It includes the Wended property at the northwest corner of Fortieth Street, consisting of three old five-story tenements with stores at 500 to 504 Seventh Avenue and a four-story building at 203 and 205 West Fortieth Street. The entire plot has a frontage of 74.2 feet on the avenue by 100 feet on the street.

The lease dates from May 1, 1920, and is for 21 years with renewals. It was made by Rebecca A. Wendel Swope and others to A. Aront, of 96 Second Avenue, and the record shows that for the first period the latter will pay $22,500 a year.

Building Leased from Plans.

William A. White & Sons, who some months ago sold to Samuel Weil the plot 62 by 82 at 427-429 Washington Street, northeast corner of Vestry, have leased from the plans to George Lueders & Co., wholesale dealers in essential oils, the eight-story and basement fireproof building in course of construction on the site. The lease is for a long period of years at an annual rental of $30,000.

QUALIFY FOR
SENIOR ACCOUNTANCY OCTOBER, 1921.
Oct. 1 and 15 is the period of readjustment and making up of accountancy staffs. By beginning training at once you will be advanced just about far enough to take advantage of the opportunities open at that time. It is only a question of industry—a fixed purpose to devote a few spare hours a week to home study training by this assured "problem method." The efficiency of this method is attested by the fact that our New York Placement Department alone, during the month of May, secured desirable business connections for 32 La Salle students—at the rate of one a day. It is worth your while to investigate.

Upon reading and filing the annexed petition of MAX ROCKMORE, the receiver in bankruptcy herein, duly verified, and upon the bid hereto annexed and on all the proceedings had herein; and on motion of ZALKIN & COHEN and ARCHIBALD PALMER, attorneys for the receiver, it is Ordered that Joseph Feldstein, Lewis H. Saper and Clifford G. Ludvigh, three disinterested persons, be and they thereby are appointed appraisers herein, to estimate and appraise the property belonging to this estate, said appraisers to be duly sworn, and to report the result of their appraisal to this Court with due convenient speed; and it is further

Ordered the receiver shall report the result of the appraisal of said assets, and at said time any and all bids for all of said assets may be made, and at which hearing this Court will make such orders for the acceptance or rejection or other disposition of said bid or any other bids as may seem proper; and it is further

Ordered that said property may be inspected by any of the creditors, or any other person or party, at any time during business hours prior to the said date, and that a copy of this order shall be published in the "New York Times" and "Daily News Record" on the 30th day of June, 1920, and on the morning of the date for the hearing of said bid, and a copy thereof mailed to each of the creditors of said bankrupt on or before the 30th day of June, 1920; and it is further

Ordered that the bankrupt, all creditors, stockholders or other parties in interest, are hereby directed to show cause at said hearing why the said bid, or such other bids as may seem proper, should not be accepted, and why such other order in respect to the assets of this estate or any part thereof should not be made as may be deemed just, equitable and proper.

Dated, New York, June 28, 1920.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Pressure is generally below normal tonight, being lowest over Iowa. The weather has accordingly been much unsettled east of the Rocky Mountains with quite general showers and thunderstorms in the plains States, the central valleys except the Ohio, the upper lake region, Tennessee and the north portions of the East Gulf and South Atlantic districts. There were also local showers Wednesday night from Virginia northeastward. West of the Rocky Mountains the weather was fair.

High temperatures prevailed over nearly all districts, with a maximum of 100 in Southeast Kansas and 104 degrees in South Arizona.

Unsettled, showery weather will prevail Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi River, although fair Friday in New England and probably on Saturday in the Western upper lake region, the lower Ohio valley and Western Tennessee.

There will be no extensive temperature changes except those temporarily occasioned by the occurrence of thundershowers.

Forecast for Today and Saturday.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Friday afternoon or night and probably Saturday, little change in temperature.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Friday, showers by night; interior Saturday showers.

Southern New England—Partly cloudy Friday, cooler on the Massachusetts coast; Saturday, showers.

Northern New England—Fair Friday, cooler on the coast; Saturday, showers except fair in Eastern Maine.

Western New York—Showers Friday in western and Friday or Saturday night in eastern portion; Saturday shower; no decided temperature change.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	70	59	4 P. M.	79	87
6 A. M.	69	59	6 P. M.	80	88
12 M.	74	77	11 P. M.	72	80

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 74; for the corresponding date last year it was 73; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 72.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 69; at 8 P. M. it was 78. Maximum temperature, 81 degrees at 5 P. M.; minimum, 68 degrees at 7:15 A. M. Humidity, 68 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 59 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.85 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.85 inches.

BENSON REPLIES TO TRADE THREATS

DENOUNCES PROPAGANDA

HAS WEAPONS AT HAND

Would Allocate American Ships to Move Freight Refused by Foreign-Controlled Vessels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, announced today that he and his colleagues were determined to build up an American Merchant Marine as contemplated by the Jones Shipping act, in spite of threats of foreign interests to defeat the plan. He informed representatives of Pacific coast Chambers of Commerce, trade bodies and railroads that the threat of foreign carriers to divert business from American ports on the Pacific coast was "futile and idle."

"If such an attempt is sincere and the attempt is made to so divert the business," he added, "the Shipping Board will allocate American ships to move the business. The Shipping Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission would follow this action by other steps which would further protect the interests of the United States against such foreign efforts to defeat the purposes of the Merchant Marine act. Foreign carriers of the Pacific coast are conducting a propaganda and making threats mainly against the enforcement of Section 28 of the Jones law.

"Nothing could more surely bring about the enforcement of this section of the law than the adoption by foreign carriers of their threat of diverting business from American ports. This section of the law permits a preferential rate over carriers within the United States on merchandise moving in export and import in vessels of the United States, and provides that whenever the Shipping Board is of the opinion that adequate shipping facilities are not afforded by American documented vessels, the section may be suspended, in which case such preferential rate may also apply in connection with foreign carriers.

"As Section 28 is to be used only where there is ample American tonnage to handle the export and import commerce to any particular port in a foreign country or a possession of the United States, we cannot conceive how any one who has studied this law can assume that the Shipping Board would make any general application of this section. There will certainly be no enforcement of the provision without concurrent action which will fully protect all American interests."

Should foreign carriers attempt to divert trade from American Pacific Coast ports, Admiral Benson explained, Section 28 could be made operative. "Then," he said, "merchandise shipped via Vancouver would neither be entitled to the rates between United States points and Vancouver in either direction when locally moved, nor to the export rate applicable via Vancouver.

"There would be required on merchandise moving for export a collection by rail lines within the United States of local freight charges, such as would apply on a 'like kind of property for the same distance in the same direction and over the same route, in connection with commerce wholly within the United States.' This would be the local charge from the point of origin to the border port, which, in most instances, would be 'class' rates. This would make a charge via such routing to Vancouver much higher than the domestic rate from such point of origin to any Pacific Coast port within the United States. Movement through Vancouver would be made impracticable unless in connection with American vessels operating from that port.

"Any foreign carrier making such transfer of operation would thus find itself at still further disadvantage in competition with the preferential rate allowed American vessels than if it continued operations at American ports.

"Foreign threats and propaganda will fail. Those who use such arguments on behalf of foreign interests overlook the fact that the Transportation act of 1920 has given to the Interstate Commerce Commission authority in 'emergency' to direct traffic or establish an embargo against movements of freights. It also has authority to establish minimum rates on any commodity moving, subject to the Interstate Commerce act, within the United States. The commission is aware of the necessity for preventing the distortion of traffic upon the railroads of the United States such as would be accomplished by an effort by foreign carriers to divert the export and import traffic now moving between Pacific Coast ports of the United States and the Orient either to British Columbia or ports of the Atlantic.

"The movement of a certain share of the Oriental business over Western American rail lines is necessary to prevent increased costs of the transportation of foodstuffs between the West and the centres of population. Any effort on the part of foreign carriers to accomplish the diversion of such business would undoubtedly be considered an 'emergency' under which the Interstate Commerce Commission would act through absolute embargo, if necessary, to prevent such effort from being successful.

"Surely no sane citizen of the United States in full possession of all the facts would be so unjust as to charge that any department of the Government would do other than take whatever action was necessary to protect the interests of the United States public and maintain undisturbed the movements over American railways, the balancing of which is so essential to the public weal. Particularly would they act to prevent foreign interests from being successful in their efforts to make ineffectual a law of the United States."

Admiral Benson stated that in trans-Pacific trades, at the present time, there seemed to have been specific and successful efforts to prevent American vessels from procuring return cargoes at certain ports while ships of other nations have come full freighted. Application of Section 28 might be invoked to require equal consideration in cargoes from such discriminating ports for United States vessels, owned either by private citizens or by the Shipping Board.

"Exporters and importers in the United States who have felt the need of an American merchant marine as a dependable agency for the expansion of American commerce and for our military protection," said Admiral Benson, "have no objection to Section 28. I foreign carriers should divert their ships from American ports, such exporters and importers would undoubtedly continue to route their business over American water carriers and American rail lines.

"The United States is in earnest in its efforts to place within the ownership of United States citizens the control of at least a part of its traffic in import and export. If it should by any possible means be held that the departments of the Government lack such authority as will insure their being able to protect American interests in such control, additional authority will be asked by the Administration and will undoubtedly be granted by Congress. Foreign carriers and those in the United States interested more in foreign than in American institutions will do well to 'let sleeping dogs lie.'"

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The agreement between the Hamburg-American Line and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation by which the former German trade routes are to be opened to American shipping has been submitted to the Shipping Board for its approval, Chairman Benson announced tonight.

Admiral Benson said he had not had an opportunity to go over the agreement, but as a result of conferences with W. H. Harriman, President of the American company, he was confident that the agreement would safeguard the public interest in every respect and would prove of benefit to the American merchant marine. The Chairman said he intended to make a close study of the contract at the earliest opportunity.
